All-America Free Trade.
One Englishman Confesses.
Mrs. Judd's Teeth.
A Threat for Germany.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT suggests:

"Abolish all unnecessary, artificial barriers and restrictions which now hamper the healthy flow of trade between the peoples of the American republics."

This would mean doing away with tariffs, from Terra del Fuego, north through South America, Central America and Mexico, up to Canada's border.

CANADA NOT being a republic, but part of another national group, is not included now. Later Canada might decide to annex the United States, a majority vote ruling both countries.

That would be highly acceptable here, and then there might be free trade from the north to the south poles on both American continents. That, in the language of Amos and Andy, would be "sump'n" for Europe, Asia and Africa to think about.

OF SIX Englishmen accused of sabotage and spying in Russia, one, W. L. MacDonald, employe of the Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical Company, pleads guilty. Eleven Russian employes also plead guilty. Five Britons plead not guilty. England believes that the Englishman pleading guilty was driven to it by "third degree" methods, including cross examination, without rest, for twenty-one hours.

The House of Lords has passed a bill giving government authority to end all trade with Russia, and the authority may be used, depending on the result of the trial. Wars have come from less cause.

WINNIE RUTH JUDD, sentenced to be hanged in Arizona, tried to commit suicide and was thwarted.

W. R. Hearst asks why is it necessary to interfere with suicide to have "the savage satisfaction of hanging a woman" in cold blood?

Perhaps the men of Arizona will decide not to hang a woman when the time comes.

MRS. JUDD says she will kill herself before they can hang her, because:

"I have my teeth. They can't take them away from me."

She threatens to bite a hole in the big artery of her wrist and bleed to death. That would call for determination, but it is not impossible.

A Nihilist prisoner under the czars, knowing that he would be tortured to make him reveal names of accomplices, seized the bars of a small window high up in his cell, pulled himself up, and held his body above the flame of a small oil lamp until he had burned a hole in his abdomen and killed himself. He was afraid torture might make him betray his comrades. That called for determination.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS statement that Hitler now turns his attention "to whipping Germany's universities into line" will interest intelligent Germans, who know what they owe to their universities.

That debt includes chemists, physicists and industrialists that have created Germany's prosperity.

Germany owes to her universities the philosophers and writers that have created Germany's glory. If all this is "whipped into line," and compelled to think within the limits of Mr. Hitler's thinking, the whipping will not contribute to German glory or prosperity.

HITLER PROCEEDS along Mussolini lines, taking control of "big business" and labor unions. He agrees with George Bernard Shaw that capitalism as a world power is dying. Shaw says it will soon collapse. Hitler means to MAKE it collapse. They may both be surprised.

Capitalism has died that kind of death before. The French revolution was to do away with capitalism, and now, with Mirabeau, Danton, Robespierre and Marat in their graves more than a hundred years, France is among the greatest capitalist countries on earth. You can't kill capitalism until you find something to take its place, more intelligent and efficient, and it must be something that gratifies men's selfishness.

THE INVENTOR of the electric chair, Dr. Alphonso David Rockwell, is dead, 92 years of age. He meant well, and his invention works well. But it did not add to the dignity of science to substitute the electric current for the hangman, the headsman with his ax, or the efficient guillotine.

WHEN George Bernard Shaw told a great crowd in New York's Metropolitan Opera House that capitalism was 'collapsing' there was terrific applause.

Those same Americans would not have applauded that statement in 1929. And they will refuse to applaud similar statements in 1939, after quotations on the stock ticker have crept up, and the little corner lot has returned to its 1928 value and higher.

VARIOUS INCIDENTS in Mr. George Bernard Shaw's talk of 100 minutes will interest him when he looks them over. While at the speakers' table he said that most bankers were lunatics. He had on one side Thomas Lamont, of Morgan & Company, on the other Jackson Reynolds, president of New York's First National Bank, acting as his hosts. They smiled.

MISS VIRGINIA BIALAS

F. R. SENDS CONGRESS HIS PLAN TO SAVE SMALL HOME OWNERS

GUARDS ILL BABY FROM DOCTORS

Mother Barricades Home to Prevent Eye Operation

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, N. Y., April 13.—In panic stricken terror, Mrs. Anna Vasko barricaded her home today against physicians who want to operate to save the life of her 2-year-old daughter.

She also barred doctors from treating two other children, stricken with grip.

DOCTOR BARRED

Mrs. Vasko, determined not to allow an operation on two-year-old Helen, who suffers from an eye ailment that will take her life if left to run its course, would not admit the clinic doctor.

Through a neighbor she sent this message:

"I want no doctors. I will not let them take my Helen. If she dies, it is my life and I will die with her. If she gets better, it will be God's will."

Last night she had allowed the doctor to examine Mary, 11, and Anna, twin sister of the afflicted Helen, when they ran fevers.

But today, frightened by the reports of a legal battle being fought in the appelate division to force her to allow the operation on Helen, she would trust no one.

THUG HOLDS UP SOCIETY GIRL

Her shrill cries brought Joseph Gardner, a special patrolman, who fired several shots as the intruder, a Negro, fled.

At Baum boulevard and South Millvale avenue Patrolman Michael O'Donnell joined in the chase with Gardner, captured the suspect as he attempted to hide under a lumber pile in the rear of a Baum boulevard automobile agency.

The purse, containing several dollars, a cigaret case and keys, was not recovered.

The suspect, who said he was Clarence Crigler, 24, of 3711 Fleetwood street, was being held in Oakland Police Station.

'Kidnaper' at Door, Girl Runs to Safety

North Side police today sought a man whose apparent attempt to kidnap Grace McCann, 11, from the home of her mother, Mrs. Grace Pidagos, 1209 Palo Alto street, last night, was frustrated by the girl, according to police.

When the man came to the door and asked for her, the girl fled, police said. Mrs. Pidagos, mother of the girl by a former marriage, told police, they said, that Grace's father previously had sought her custody.

Mona Fox, Daughter Of Showman, to Wed

MIAMI, Fla., April 13.—(AP.)—Mona Fox, daughter of William Fox, theatrical magnate, and Joseph Riskin, both of New York, obtained a marriage license here today, and said they would be married tomorrow.

MONACA AIDES TO GET PAROLE

Judge Samuel H. Gardner said today he would parole eight employes of the late Monaca Club so they could be home for the Easter holidays. Their terms would be completed next Wednesday, he said.

Those to be paroled today have each paid their fines and costs in excess of $100. The list includes George McIlvary, William Dapper, Roy Thomas, Ray Sineway, William O'Day, Gus Harris, Samuel Lewis and Walter Ring.

Previously paroled because of illness were Barney Samuels and P. J. Caslin. Frank Pope is still to be tried, while P. J. Haley, sentenced to a year, is the only one left in jail.

The Monaca, now running with legal beer and doors open, has asked Public Safety Director James M. Clark for a dance permit. But today Clark would only say:

"I'm going to take it up with the Mayor. He's the big boss now, you know."

Restoring the Navy

REFRESHING, eagerly awaited, gratefully received is the announcement that President Roosevelt will seek prompt authorization for new naval construction, designed to bring our Navy up to the London treaty limits.

At last we are on the way out—out of the doldrums, out of the inaction and indifference of the Hoover administration in its treatment of the United States Navy.

In no primary duty was President Hoover so deficient and so delinquent as in the duty that devolves upon a President to uphold and maintain the national defense.

Even warnings from within his own administration were passed over unheeded.

"Our navy and sea power," said Hoover's secretary of the navy, Charles Francis Adams, "are gradually but certainly fading. So far as personnel is concerned, we have the finest in the world. We also have remarkable designers, but these are not of much account without ships."

Not once but repeatedly spoke Former Secretary Adams to this effect. As pointedly as he could, he called public attention to the fact that our once powerful fleet was rapidly disintegrating through obsolescence of ships and our failure to build.

BUT NOTHING could arrest the pacifist folly of ex-President Hoover. He seemed bent upon reducing the country to a position of actual exposure to attack at any moment.

As a consequence of the strange torpor of his administration and its insensibility to plain duty, the United States instead of possessing a Navy equal to the strongest, ranks third among the navies of the world. Our strength, such as it is, is largely made up of ships that are old and ineffective, if not useless.

We are inexcusably deficient in air forces. The great dirigibles, such as the Akron and the Shenandoah, have unfortunately proved disastrous failures.

The traitorous Seventy-second Congress, in order to find money for the selfish and wasteful financing of purely political projects, skimped the Army and starved the Navy at every point where it could find play for its stupid and cheese-paring propensities.

Coupled with these desertions of duty, the Hoover administration proceeded in its foreign policies to involve us in every controversial issue that could be discerned anywhere in the wide world.

WITH PROVOCATION and intrusion we cooled the ardor of old friendships, incurred enmities that we find it now difficult to appease, and called into existence antagonisms which have undermined

REPUDIATES 'SABOTAGE' ADMISSION

Briton on Trial in Russia Reverses Testimony

By LINTON WELLS
International News Service.

MOSCOW, April 13.—In a dramatic reversal from the witness stand, W. L. MacDonald, British engineer on trial with five compatriots and 11 Russians in the Metropolitan-Vickers case, today repudiated his confession of guilt to charges of espionage, sabotage and bribery.

The youthful British engineer, who at the opening of the trial yesterday admitted his complicity in a plot to wreck Soviet industry "in anticipation of impending war," made a fruitless attempt to withdraw his plea of guilty and became enmeshed in a tangle of contradictions and disclaimers.

SUMMONED TO STAND

MacDonald's attempted repudiation came when he was summoned to the witness stand to corroborate damaging testimony given by V. A. Sokolov, assistant director of the Zlatoust power plant in the Urals, who asserted he received money from the British defendant in exchange for secret information and activities aimed at wrecking the plant.

Contradicting himself at times, he denied he instructed Sokolov or anyone else to commit sabotage and declared the information he sought was not of a military nature but only for his own use in connection with his activities as a Metropolitan-Vickers engineer.

He insisted that money given to Sokolov and to Basil Gousieff, the former's superior, was merely in payment for their frequent and long overtime work performed at his behest.

LAUGHTER IN COURT

The defendant insisted the money was paid out of his own pocket. This assertion caused loud laughter among Russians in the courtroom. MacDonald previously had pleaded guilty to an indictment quoting him as saying he received the funds from W. H. Thornton, his superior in Metropolitan-Vickers, whom he characterized as "working in the best interests of England."

Under relentless cross-examination by Andrey Vyshinsky, who

How Mortgage Aid Program Will Operate

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—If you are hard pressed to meet mortgage payments on your home, and it doesn't exceed $10,000 in value, this is the way the Roosevelt plan for refinancing would operate:

Insurance company holds a $6,000 mortgage—for example—on owner's home now valued at $9,000, on which the interest rate is 6 per cent or above, but owner is unable to pay.

Either the insurance company or the owner has to approach the "Home Owners Corporation" offices for refinancing.

The insurance company will accept in exchange for the mortgage, bonds issued by the corporation on which the government guarantees 4 per cent interest. In return for the sure interest the company may agree to mark the debt to $5,000.

The corporation then gives the owner a new mortgage with a face value of $5,000 payable in 15 years at 5 per cent interest.

In addition the corporation may advance him cash for payment of taxes and necessary repairs and cover it in the mortgage.

In the discretion of the Home Loan Bank Board, the owner may be given a three-year moratorium on his debt. The owner could make his payments monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually.

RE-FINANCE DEBTS, HE ASKS

2-Billion Emergency Corporation Urged For Purpose

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt added to his emergency program on Capitol Hill today the proposal to refinance the mortgages on small homes.

In another special message to Congress, he asked for legislation to permit readjustment of existing mortgage debts together with a postponement of both interest and principal payments in cases of "extreme need."

END TO UNCERTAINTY

He suggested action along the same lines as the refinancing of agricultural mortgages now before Congress with a bond issue to meet the needs.

He told Congress the plan of settlement "will provide a standard which should put an end to present uncertain and chaotic conditions that create fear and despair among both home owners and investors."

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized he regards the legislation a declaration of national policy requiring that "special safeguards should be thrown around home ownership as a guarantee of social and economic stability."

Speedy legislative action was in prospect to lift the burden of debt from the owners of homes of $10,000 and less in value.

SAVINGS SYSTEM

Creation of a permanent system of federal savings and loan associations as well as an emergency $2,000,000,000 corporation to refinance home mortgages would be authorized under the bill recommended to Congress by President Roosevelt.

The bill would authorize subscription of $100,000,000 by the government for setting up a permanent system of federal associations "to provide mutual thrift institutions in which people may place their savings and invest their funds, and in order to provide for the financing of homes."

These institutions would be in the nature of building and loan associations, but the bill provides they should not be established in any community unless the Home Loan Bank Board feels such community "is insufficiently served by local thrift and home-financing institutions."

Pennsylvania leads both in number and strength of building and loan associations, those in this state having total assets of more than $1,500,000,000. Pittsburgh is known for its large number of building and loan groups.

STATE REPEAL VOTE SPEEDED

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(INS.)—Overhauled machinery for Pennsylvania's action on proposed repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment swept through the Senate today in the form of a bill sponsored by Senator John J. McClure, Delaware.

The bill passed finally, 30 to 9, and was sent to the House where it was reported for passage. It provides for the election of 15 delegates-at-large next November. The delegates would convene 28 days after electinn and formally cast their votes for or againt repeal.

In a surprise move to break the deadlock over beer control legislation, Gov. Pinchot proposed licensing of wholesalers and retailers by county treasurers.

His suggestion was a compromise to organization Republicans who want licensing by the courts and Democrats who are holding out for bipartisan commissions.

Senate-House conferees on the Sowers-Connor control bill moved toward a compromise also, amending the measure to increase the beer tax from $1 to $1.24 a barrel and permitting local option to prevent sale of 3.2 brew. The conference report earmarked the beer tax for unemployment relief.

Currency Inflation Inquiry Proposed

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—A resolution for senatorial investigation of the currency inflation question was introduced today by Senator Bankhead (Dem.), of Alabama.

Legal Way Cleared For Walker Marriage

CANNES, France, April 13.—(AP.)—Banns for the marriage of Former Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, and Miss Betty Compton have been removed from the board at city hall, the necessary legal time having elapsed today.

They now are eligible to be married at any time but the ceremony is unlikely until April 18 at the earliest because of the Easter holidays. Mr. Walker is adverse to the marriage during Holy Week.

Batteries—French and Finney; Rixey and Lombardi.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

REDLAND FIELD, CINCINNATI, April 13.—The Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Reds were deadlocked in the second battle of their series here this afternoon.

The contest brought a duel of lefthanders. Eppa Rixey, dean of the National League pitchers, was opposed by Larry French. Hal Finney went behind the bat for the Pirates in place of Earl Grace.

Pirate President William E. Benswanger, who has been with his club throughout the preparatory season, will leave after the game for Pittsburgh.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

PITTSBURGH—L. Waner was thrown out by Grantham. Lindstrom was safe on Grantham's wide throw. P. Waner flied to Hafey. Traynor forced Lindstrom, Durocher to Grantham. One error.

Daylight Saving First Herron Edict

Mayor John S. Herrom issued his first official proclamation today in announcing daylight saving will go into effect midnight April 29 and continue to September 24. All city offices will conform to the order. The proclamation said, in part:

"As a result of 15 years of continuous experience the people of Pittsburgh have established the custom of observing daylight saving in the activities of the community . . . I therefore recommend that all persons adapt themselves, their business and their affairs thereto."

U. S. Customs Man Admits Haiti Fraud

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(INS.)—David P. Johnson, American collector of customs at Port au Prince, Haiti, has confessed to the defrauding of the Haitian government of customs duties he collected and of accepting bribes, it was announced at the State Department today.

Johnson has been turned over to the jurisdiction of the Haitian courts by the American legation, upon instructions from the department here.

Mitchell Indicted On Second Charge

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—A second indictment against Charles E. Mitchel, former chairman of the National City Bank, was handed up to Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman today, charging evasion of income taxes of $156,791.09 for the year 1930.

Train Near, Horse Pried Off Rail

Traffic Jammed as Fritz Gets Hoof Caught in Track

Flagmen stood excitedly on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad waiting to halt a passenger train; crowds of people and lines of traffic jammed Dixon street in Homestead. "Gandy dancers" with sledges and crowbars worked feverishly at the crossing.

Fritz, good old farm horse hauling his load of onions and dandelions, had got his hoof caught between the rail and guard rail of the track, and his plight—for 25 minutes—was at least embarrassing.

Finally the section hands pried loose a rail, and Fritz, with a badly damaged hoof, was released and taken to the veterinary by his owners, Jacob and Leo Zorn, farmers, of Baldwin Township.

POOR, OLD FRITZIE

Guards Stand Ready To Flag Flyer In Homestead

Fritz had pulled his masters and their produce to Homestead early today. All were in good spirits. They peddled the goods. Crossing the tracks at Dixon street and Sixth avenue, the animal's right front hoof caught. All efforts to pry him loose seemed futile. As the crowd gathered—so fear increased that the train, scheduled to pass soon, would bring an accident.

When the horse was finally extricated, there were five minutes to spare. Fritz limped to Scott's stables, where a veterinary found the hoof badly injured.

Somehow, the farmers, father and son, hope to get their animal back to the farm where he must rest for a long time. And they haven't another horse.

Ex-Pitcairn Teacher Battles With Police

Clifford Weight, whose resignation as a mathematics instructor in Pitcairn High School prompted the students to strike last January, was in St. Francis Hospital today where he was taken by police and physicians after he had barricaded himself in his Pitcairn home last night, according to a police report.

Police Chief W. C. McDowell and Patrolman Charles Leger, of Pitcairn, reported they broke down the door of Weight's room into which they had thrown tear gas. In the room the officers said the former instructor attacked them with a butcher knife.

After disarming him, the officers, in company with Dr. Clarence Penrod, removed him to the hospital, where he was reported a mental patient.

McDowell said he had received a call from the Weight home early yesterday afternoon when Weight had attempted to attack his father. He was quieted, McDowell said, and no further action was taken.

Several hours later McDowell said he received another call to the Weight home. The police chief said he had been informed that Weight's family had been advised by physicians several weeks ago to have him placed in a sanitarium.

FRANCE OPENS FIGHT ON HEARST, OTHER AMERICANS

GOVERNMENT'S PROPAGANDA DRIVE SET

Paul-Boncour Plans To 'Translate' News For U. S. Readers

By STANTON B. LEEDS
Universal Service.

PARIS, April 13.—France has decided to fight William Randolph Hearst and other Americans "not sympathetic" toward France, with propaganda financed by the French government and controlled by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Details of a report made by Deputy Adrien Dariac, "justifying" the foreign affairs budget, were made known yesterday, although the report was submitted quietly to the Chamber of Deputies six days ago.

According to Deputy Dariac, Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour proposes to employ a press agent to translate French official documents into readable English and "American," and to speed up French official reading of the Hearst newspapers "so the proper response can be made to their attacks."

DEFAULT MENTIONED

"Certain Francophobe newspapers, and particularly those of the Hearst press, made violent attacks against our country and sought with enormous headlines the means to 'punish France,' and they made a campaign for Americans 'to visit only those countries which are not in default.'"

Dariac also cited a New York American cartoon depicting France sowing dragons' teeth, and mentioned the February cover of the magazine Life, as typically "anti-French."

In developing means to combat the so-called Francophobes in the United States, Dariac states:

"Intensive inquiries were made by French personalities who recently visited the United States—to get at the root of anti-French propaganda and find out a means of combatting it—as well as by certain American personalities living in France and a large number of American newspapermen living in Paris.

"As a result of this investigation, we have been permitted to establish a plan which would serve as the basis of efforts to begin in the near future, by developments at the press service at the Quai d'Orsay (foreign office) as well as by the collaboration of the Associated Press of America and the Havas Agency."

(Editor's Note—The Havas Agency is the French press service through which official "news" is largely distributed. Dariac lists among measures already taken the conclusion of an agreement between the Associated Press and Havas to exchange news reports. The Associated Press has denied that any French propaganda has been or will be distributed to American newspapers.)

CAMPAIGN PLANS

The Dariac report continues:

"Reinforcement of the service at the Foreign Ministry by means of translating into English all communiques and documentary articles distributed to newspapers.

"Radio broadcasting as a trial on Sunday nights by the station at Rugby.

"Conferences held in the United States until we are able to build a government radio station.

"Creation of a productive agency and a review in English for Anglo-Saxon countries.

Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour also proposes to install radio lectures and "contacters" in the French center in New York, and a former American newspaperman has already been hired here to do the translating of official documents into English under the direction of Pierre Comert, former head of the League of Nations' Press Bureau.

GUARDING BABY FROM DOCTORS

'WORTHLESS' REMEDY

From time to time the mother calls the child to her, picks up a little bottle, and carefully squeezes drops from a medicinal dropper into the child's eyes. This, she feels, will cure her—this, and nothing else. Doctors agree the drops are worthless.

"Go away! Go away!"

Anna Vaske's lips form the words from her window, as a group of reporters wait below. She thinks they are officials come to take her child from her. She plans to fight to the last ditch to prevent an operation recommended to save Helen's life at the expense of an eye.

To every plea the mother has reiterated her distrust of the knife, her faith in the powers that be to cure Helen.

Even the parish priest has told her, in vain, that every day lessens the baby's chance of recovery.

Now, with a court order to perform the operation even over the opposition of the mother and father, and the promise of a prompt decision by the Appellate Division on the right for such an order, Anna Vaske is prepared to keep the child by her side by physical force.

COURTS SPEEDED

NEW YORK, April 13.—(INS.)—The slow moving wheels of justice were speeded up in the Brooklyn Appellate Court today to determine whether the government has the authority to order over parental objections a surgical operation to remove a child's eye and thereby save its life.

Opposing lawyers were requested to file briefs with the court in the case of Little Helen Vaske, 2, who is suffering from a malignant tumor of the left eye which several eye specialists have declared will cause her death unless the eye is removed.

German Sportsmen, Writers Bar Jews

BERLIN, April 13.—(AP.)—Further restrictions against Jews in Germany went into operation today when the Football Federation voted to bar Jews from international matches and the Track and Field Sports Federation took similar action in its sphere.

The National Federation of the German Press, comprising practically all Germans engaged in journalism, also voted to eliminate Jews, approving the dictum of the new Nazi chairman that the days of nonpartisan newspapermen's organizations are over.

HOUSE PASSES FARM MEASURE

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—The administration's $2,000,000,000 farm mortgage refinancing bill was passed today by the House and sent to the Senate, which is considering it as an amendment to the general farm relief measure.

The bill was approved after three days of debate in which opponents, led by Representative Boileau (Rep.) Wisconsin, unsuccessfully sought to have the Frazier inflation bill passed as a substitute.

While the House was approving the important mortgage legislation, the Senate approached a vote on a strongly-supported amendment to the relief bill under which farmers would be promised high enough prices to cover their cost of production.

This the administration has opposed.

The mortgage measure passed by the House, authorizes the Federal Land Banks to issue $2,000,000,000 of farm-loan bonds, at a maximum interest rate of 4 per cent.

Wisconsin to Honor Roosevelt April 30

MADISON, Wis., April 13.—(AP.)—Sunday, April 30, 1933, had been set aside today by Gov. Schmedeman as "President's Day" to honor Franklin D. Roosevelt for his accomplishments as the nation's chief executive.

The Governor in a proclamation asked that Wisconsin citizens make the day one for "general rejoicing" over the President's efforts to rekindle the confidence of the people in our country's future.

M'DONALD AIMS AT DEBT TALK WITH F. R.

Premier Denies Pact For Moratorium Is Agreed Upon

LONDON, April 13.—(INS.)—Terming a settlement of the international debt problem as "one of the greatest blessings that could happen to the present generation," Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald today served notice that the debts will bulk pre-eminently large in his forthcoming discussions with President Roosevelt.

Replying to questions in the House of Commons, in which he was asked to outline his policies on the debts, the prime minister said he did not propose to go to Washington with any fixed agreement to be adhered to, but expected to sit down with Mr. Roosevelt and talk things over.

'FRIENDLY CANDOR'

He said he recognized the difficulties involved, but expected that both he and the President of the United States would discuss these "with the most friendly candor."

MacDonald added:

"There is no shadow of foundation in the report that some sort of settlement has already been reached."

This statement was taken to refer to a story printed by the London Evening Standard April 6 which said President Roosevelt has already decided to grant a moratorium on the British payment due in June.

MacDonald promised to press for early convening of the world economic conference and expressed hope the United States would agree to an early date.

FOUR-POWER PACT

In referring to the four-power pact proposed by Premier Mussolini to preserve peace, MacDonald said he expected to discuss the general European political situation with President Roosevelt. He declared:

"America's historical position has been that it will enter into no European entanglements.

"I certainly will not go to Washington now, nor will I ever go to try to persuade America to do otherwise than carry out that historical policy.

"The only exception to that is in the event of a world agreement regarding an aggressor, and the United States has previously been party to such an agreement."

MRS. BUCK COOL IN CHURCH ROW

NEW YORK, April 13.—(Universal)—Pearl S. Buck, who wrote two noted novels on China was undisturbed today at reports of the New Brunswick Presbytery move to discipline her for her criticism of foreign missionary work.

Mrs. Buck, in an address December 2, and later in a magazine article, attacked many phases of foreign missionary activity, particularly the emphasis in missionary work on "conversion" rather than in aid and useful teaching.

In that address she said of a certain missionary:

"My heart has knelt with a humble one before the shrine of Buddha rather than before the God of that missionary, if that God be true.

SENATE AGREES ON BANK GUARANTY

Reform Bill Delayed By Absence of Secretary Woodin

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—Chairman Glass announced today his Senate Banking Subcommittee was "unanimously agreed" on a permanent bank reform bill, but was holding it up for a conference with Secretary Woodin.

The committee met on the bill for more than an hour and a half, despite conflicting reports of the administration attitude. As he emerged from the meeting, the Virginian said:

"The subcommittee is unanimously agreed."

He was asked:

"On the bill as it was tentatively drafted?"

"As it is," Glass replied, laughing. He refused to discuss the terms of the measure, but said there had been "no material change" in the provision for a $2,000,000,000 deposit insurance fund.

Other members predicted the bill would be ready to report to the full committee early next week, giving the impression that the sub-committee was ready to stand on the bill in substantially its present form regardless of the administration attitude.

President Roosevelt's attitude toward the insurance plan has been variously reported during the past two days, and members of the sub-committee want to confer with Woodin to determine what changes the administration wants in the bill. Secretary Woodin is now in New York.

BRITON ON TRIAL RETRACTS

interspersed his questions with bitingly sarcastic remarks concerning the prisoner's reversal. MacDonald persisted in a barely audible voice to insist upon his innocence.

He admitted, however, that some of the information he obtained through "curiosity" happened to be of a military nature.

M'DONALD WEAKENS

Following a brief luncheon recess, Vyshinsky called MacDonald to the ctand a second time. Under examination, he began weakening and virtually admitted everything and proceeded to involve Thornton. Whereupon, the prosecutor directed Thornton to stand up and began playing one against the other in a dramatic fashion.

Displaying more spirit than yesterday, Thornton began to fight back, repudiating all statements he was alleged to have made under questioning at the headquarters of the Ogpu (soviet secret police), and refuted MacDonald's open court admission that he knew of MacDonald's alleged espionage activities.

Thornton justified all payments to workers as disbursements for loans or for repairing defective machinery. The payments were made without knowledge of the British or Soviet governments, he said, in order that they might not reflect upon his firm.

EMBARGO BILL APPROVED

LONDON, April 13.—(INS.)—The British government was empowered to place an embargo on Soviet goods today when King George gave his assent to the bill framed in retaliation for arrest and trial of six British engineers in Moscow.

The bill, previously passed by both houses of Parliament, became law as soon as the King gave his approval.

LIEUT. BAILLIE-STEWART

SEAFORTH SPY GETS 5 YEARS

LONDON, April 13.—(INS.)—Lieut. Norman Baillie-Stewart, of the Seaforth Highlanders, was expelled from the British Army and sentenced to five years at penal servitude today for selling military secrets to a foreign agent.

The 24-year-old officer, member of an aristocratic family, was convicted by a court-martial on seven charges of espionage and divulging military secrets in return for financial gain.

The sentence arrived at by the court-martial was confirmed by King George and immediately made public.

Known as "the prisoner in the tower" because of his detention in the Tower of London, Baillie-Stewart was accused of selling important military secrets concerning construction of British tanks and rifles to a German agent known as Otto Waldemar Obst, receiving some 90 pounds ($315) in payment from an allegedly mythical person known as "Marie Louise."

In his defense, Baillie-Stewart stoutly maintained "Marie Louise" was an attractive German girl who became infatuated with him on a visit to Berlin and paid him various sums of money "in return for my affections."

LEADERS URGE 'PRICE-FIXING'

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(INS.)—A proposal that the anti-trust laws be modified so that the government might approve price agreements as a means of eliminating "ruthless competition which is constantly reducing wages, lowering prices, lessening earnings and thereby adding to unemployment," was laid before President Roosevelt today by Gov. Ely and Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Massachusetts.

At the same time, the Massachusetts leaders approved in principle pending legislation to regulate working hours but suggested a federal minimum wage standard be attached to any bill passed, as well as a provision permitting the government to deal with industries separately in the matter of specific hours of labor.

STORM THREAT IGNORED, AKRON PROBERS TOLD

Weather Unfavorable, Blimp J-3 Kept In Hangar

By JAMES I. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

LAKEHURST, N. J., April 13.—Weather conditions were so unfavorable on April 3, the date the dirigible Akron took off, that it was deemed inadvisable to let the blimp J-3 leave its hangar at Lakehurst that morning.

Testimony to this effect was given today by Lieut. F. A. L. Dartsch, assistant aerologist at Lakehurst, a witness before the naval court of inquiry conducting an investigation into the Akron disaster which cost 73 lives.

Before Dartsch took the stand, Judge Advocate Ralph C. Pennoyer announced that Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson had authorized the Naval Court to adjourn, probably next Tuesday, to the Washington Navy Yard where additional testimony will be taken.

Dartsch testified his forecast was partly cloudy, becoming overcast late in the afternoon, with a risk of showers in the evening and clearing the following morning.

His forecast, Dartsch said, differed with the forecast of Lieut. Herbert M. Westcoat, aerologist aboard the Akron who lost his life when the dirigible crashed at sea off Barnegat Light.

Macon's First Takeoff Set for Tomorrow

ZEPPELIN DOCK, AKRON, O., April 13.—(INS.)—Weather permitting, the new Navy dirigible U. S. S. Macon, sister-ship of the ill-fated Akron, will undock for its first trial flight at 5:30 a. m. tomorrow morning, Capt. Alger H. Dresel announced today.

A throng of approximately 15,000 persons was disappointed today when the ship failed to take off. Original plans called for the Macon to begin its first trial flight at dawn this morning, but due to the soggy condition of the runway as a result of recent rains it was decided to postpone the initial cruise of the craft.

Rear Admiral Moffett Buried in Arlington

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(INS.)—Rear Admiral William A. Moffett was buried in Arlington National Cemetery today while Secretary of the Navy Swanson and the Navy high command stood at attention, and Navy airplanes above roared a martial salute.

Earlier in the day Com. Frank C. McCord, who had command of the Akron, and Com. Fred M. Berry, who was commanding officer of the Lakehurst naval air station, were buried. McCord was buried at Arlington. Berry was buried in the Naval Academy Cemetery at Annapolis, Md.

Papen Given Sacrament By Pope; Accord Seen

VATICAN CITY, April 13.—(AP.)—Pope Pius XI personally administered communion to Franz von Papen, vice chancellor of Germany, and to Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, of Austria, in the Sistine chapel of the Vatican following Holy Thursday mass today.

Prelates insist that a concordat between Germany and the Vatican will be negotiated as a result of Baron von Papen's visit with the Pope yesterday. They said the Vatican and three German states, Prussia, Bavaria and Baden, which have existing concordats, were satisfied with those agreements but that they will agree to what the Germans call "mantelgesetz"—a mantle law unifying and fusing the three accords.

ROME, April 13.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler, of Germany, is expected to come to Rome in the last week of April to confer with Premier Mussolini and probably cement Italo-German friendship into a Fascist alliance, supported by Austria and Hungary, opposing French domination of Central Europe's "Little Entent."

This was the indication received from authoritative sources following yesterday's whirlwind round of diplomatic activities, which included Premier Mussolini's dinner in honor of Vice Chancellor von Papen and Air Minister Goering, of Germany, the visit of the Germans to Pope Pius XI and Il Duce's conference with Premier Dollfus, of Austria.

Ann Tearful as Ex-Mate Leaves for War Zone

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—(Universal.)—Amid tearful farewells from his former wife, Ann Harding, screen star, and their little daughter, Harry Bannister, actor and playwright who will act as flying correspondent in China for Universal Service, left United Airport yesterday bound for the Orient.

In a United Air Lines plane, Bannister flew to San Francisco to take ship for China. In China he will use his own plane, which he flew to San Francisco several days ago to be stowed aboard the ocean liner.

Bannister's plane, a single seater, is adapted for landing in limited space and he plans to make close-up observations of the fighting area.

'OTHER WOMAN' WINS PASTOR IN LOVE DUEL WITH WIFE

MOTHER OF TWO BROUGHT GIRL INTO HOME

Turns to Teaching as She Admits Failure To Hold Mate

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 13.—(AP.)—The slight, blue-eyed wife of the Rev. Sharon Inman faced life without bitterness today after losing a desperate gamble for her husband's affections.

Her experiment of inviting into her home her rival, Ezia Holdridge, 20-year-old blonde, in the hope of winning back her husband's love, ended when she saw Inman and the girl trudge away down the highway toward Joplin, Mo. She bade them goodbye after taking them to the highway in her car.

The 35-year-old minister, pastor of the Cave Springs Presbyterian Church near here, was suspended by church officials who reported he appeared before them and admitted his love for Miss Holdridge, reputed to be from Oklahoma.

TRIM AND SMILING

Trim and smiling, Mrs. Inman went to classes as usual today at the Springfield State Teachers College where she will qualify in May for a teachers' certificate that may enable her to support her two small children. The seat next to her where Miss Holdridge had studied in recent weeks was vacant.

Mrs. Inman told interviewers:

"It was a good deal my fault. I was responsible for bringing her into our home, more than he was. I thought—I hoped, that she would see me, and the children, and our home, and give him up. But nothing did any good."

Miss Holdridge spent the last month at the Cave Springs parsonage. Mrs. Inman said she believed her husband met the girl while he was attending Missouri Valley College at Marshall, Mo., last fall to finish work for his degree.

Mrs. Inman said:

"She and I never quarreled. We joked rather grimly sometimes about the possibility of finding poison in the biscuits. But there was never any real danger, of course.

"I told her when she came that I would not try to win him behind her back, that I would play fair, and I kept my promise.

"It was the only thing I could think of to do, and I tried it. You will do most anything, you know, when you love a man and his children."

She said she had no bitterness toward her husband or the girl, and expressed the hope that Inman would "straighten up, be happy and do a lot of good in the world." She added:

"Perhaps it would be easier if I could hate both of them."

The Rev. M. F. Cowden, stated clerk and treasurer of the Ozarks Presbytery, announced today Inman will be cited for trial before the presbytery on charges of immorality and conduct unbecoming a minister.

RUTH'S SANITY TEST NEAR

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 13.—(AP.)—The question of whether Winnie Ruth Judd shall hang eight days from now for the "trunk murder" of Agnes Anne Leroi will rest with a jury to be impaneled tomorrow.

It will decide whether she is sane, with but a three-fourths vote required for a verdict. If nine jury members hold that Mrs. Judd has become deranged since her conviction in February, 1932, she will be placed in the state hospital for the insane.

If they decide she is sane, the sentence for her execution at dawn April 21 will be unaffected. Should she be found insane and later regain her sanity, the law provides the death penalty shall be exacted.

The last legal move of Mrs. Judd's counsel failed yesterday when the State Supreme Court denied an application for a writ of habeas corpus.

Ex-Banker Found Dead in York Home

YORK, Pa., April 13.—(AP.)—D. J. Sprecher, formerly associated with the Hagerstown Bank and Trust Company, Hagerstown, Md., was found in his home today with a bullet wound in his head.

His son, Daniel, discovered the body in the cellar. For 18 years Mr. Sprecher was manager of a branch bank of the Hagerstown Bank and Trust Company. He came to York two and one-half years ago and has been operating a grocery store here.

TALKS MAN OUT OF DEATH LEAP

Miss Tillie Schwartz, 17, today could take credit for saving the life of a man who apparently didn't want to be saved.

Miss Schwartz indirectly talked him out of jumping off the Bloomfield Bridge last night. When she found him on the bridge, kneeling as if in prayer, she questioned him. And, she relates:

"He mumbled. I thought he was going to jump onto the railroad tracks 100 feet below. I stopped an auto and asked the driver to call the police. Then a crowd gathered and the police came and took him away."

Police said the man, listed as Martin Murray, 33, had admitted such intentions.

ROBERTS DEATH VERDICT UPHELD

MT. HOLLY, N. J., April 13.—(Universal.)—Deaths of pretty Ruth Mowdray Wilson and her fiance, Horace Roberts, Jr., were again held yesterday to be murder and suicide.

The grand jury returned no indictment, agreeing with the coroner's jury that Miss Wilson was killed by Roberts, who then shot himself. The grand jury also found no link between the case and the murder of Bradway Brown, of Palmyra, slain mysteriously recently.

WIDOW QUIZZED IN SLAYING OF BEER BARONS

Ex-Reading Newsboy One of Two Killed In Hotel

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 13.—(AP.)—The widow of Joseph Greenberg, one of the two beer racketeers who fell yesterday before enemis' bullts in a hotel suite, was subjected to close questioning for hours today by Abe J. David, Union County prosecutor.

Through the widow police hoped to piece together the details of the careers of Greenberg and Max Hassell, alias Feldman, who were slain yesterday afternoon in the Elizabeth Cartaret Hotel.

The flow of beer, legal or illegal, was said by police to have been the cause of the double killing but detectives were unable to single out any of the pair's known enemies or rivals as the possible slayers.

Hassell, an immigrant boy who abandoned a newsboy's hawking for the beer trade in Reading, Pa., and Greenberg, who because of a missing left thumb was believed by police to have been a former notorious St. Louis gangster, had not long been associated, investigators said.

Twenty minutes before the shooting, Louis Palkovitz, of Elizabeth, told police he had left Hassel and Greenberg and gone to another part of the suite. He heard shots, he said, and found the two bleeding from gunshot wounds. They died before hospital aid could be administered.

Palkovitz and a number of other reputed associates of the two men were held as material witnesses. A safe, a key to a safe deposit box, and fingerprints from the victims and from articles about the room were among the clues the police found. Officers believe there were several men in the room shortly before the shooting.

Polic admitted, without suggesting any connection, that Hassel was an intimate of Al Lillien, New Jersey rum king, who was found shot to death in his Atlantic Highlands mansion the night of March 23.

Hassell Fought Gunplay, Reading Friends Say

READING, April 13.—(AP.)—Max Hassel, whose name was synonymous with prohibited beer, is dead. The former Russian immigrant newsboy, whose income the government counted in seven figures, was shot to death last night in his Elizabeth (N. J.) hotel suite.

Though stories of Hassel's widespread beer holdings—hard-gotten and precariously held—are numerous, his name has never been connected with the sagas of blood-spilling which frequently marked the careers of other beer lords. Friends knew him as a modest, retiring person.

Many anonymous philanthropies were known by charity officials to have been his. They included Christmas baskets to the poor, cash gifts to perpetuate historic shrines and outright donations to many who, attracted by his reputed millions, sought financial aid.

Chicago Bookmaker Kidnaped in Auto

CHICAGO, April 13.—(INS.)—Two kidnapers today seized Peter McKeone, 33-year-old bookmaker, in front of his home, forced him into their automobile and sped away.

Floyd Burkert, a garage attendant, said two well-dressed men waited at the front entrance of the gambler's apartment house until McKeone dashed for the door. They seized him and pushed him into their automobile.

DOUG, JR., DIETZ SCORE IN SUIT

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—(AP.)—Points were won by both Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Jorgen Dietz in technical legal fencing yesterday over the $50,000 alienation of affections suit Dietz filed recently against the young actor.

Superior Judge Lester W. Roth overruled Dietz' demurrer to Fairbanks' answer denying that he stole the love of Dietz' former wife, Solvieg Dietz.

But Judge Roth acceded to a motion to strike from the answer the charge that Dietz and Lucy Doraine, now Dietz' wife, had conspired to extort $6,000 from the film star through threats of publishing his alleged relations with the first Mrs. Dietz.

KIDNAPER ROBS SCHOOL GIRL

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 13.—Police here today are checking the story of a 13-year-old Schenley High School girl, daughter of a Pittsburgh Presbyterian minister, who said she was forced from an auto after she was abducted yesterday morning in Pittsburgh. She was driven to Lincoln Heights, near here, and robbed of a purse containing $1, she said.

She says she was stopped by a man in a blue coupe on her way to school. She told police the man grabbed her, pointed a gun at her and forced her into his car.

There were marks on her wrists, police said, but the girl said the stranger did not harm her during the drive to this section. Her parents took her back to Pittsburgh last night. Because of her age the Sun-Telegraph will not publish the girl's name.

WEEPS TELLING OF SHOOTING

A wife and her three small children in Morals Court today heard Ethelbert P. Steele, 27, of 1413 Madison avenue, husband and father, tearfully relate the events leading up to the probable fatal shooting of Edward Hellerman, 16, friend and neighbor. Steele was held pending the outcome of the boy's injuries.

Crestfallen and nervous, Steele, who defied police last night, today told Magistrate Thomas D. Jones the shooting and threats were all a mistake. Steele said he had been drinking.

Going home last evening, he testified, he met George Hellerman, the boy's father. Jokingly the elder Hellerman and Steele scuffled, according to the latter's story. The son came out of the house and thought it was a fight and struck Steele. Steele said he didn't remember much after that.

Steele was trailed by police and a posse of citizens to his father's home in Guckert way, North Side, shortly after he was alleged to have shot the boy. Lieut. James J. Callaghan and two officers kicked in the door and found Steele hiding in a rear room, they reported.

Kansas City Strike Closes 41 Movies

KANSAS CITY, April 13.—(AP.)—Kansas City movie fans turned to bridge and jig saw puzzles last night with 41 of the 47 theaters in the city closed because of the wage scale controversy between the owners and the projectionists' union. The downtown section was almost deserted. Parking stations, cafes and drug stores felt the effect of the movie holiday and several closed early.

He's All the Wise Men Under Beard Of One Prophet

-By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER-

We believe that George Bernard Shaw is all the wise men of the East under one beard.

He can talk the lid off an iron kettle. But he says plenty and he loves the echoes.

Every newspaperman who has interviewed Shaw has collapsed from answering questions.

Listening to the intellectual patriarch talk is like being educated from ambush. He is a human filing system. What we admire about him is that he is no literary squid beclouding himself in his own ink.

There's a lesson he can teach you. Get to the point. Smack it in the face, and be brief even if it takes you two hours.

INDICT MEANS IN LINDY HOAX

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—An indictment charging Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker with conspiring to commit larceny of $35,000 from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, estranged wife of the former Washington publisher, was returned today by a District of Columbia grand jury.

Means, a one-time Department of Justice agent, already has been convicted of the larceny of $104,000 from Mrs. McLean in connection with the purported attempt of himself and Whitaker to ransom the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

An alleged attempt of the two to obtain an additional $35,000 from Mrs. McLean forms the basis of the new indictment.

MRS. ROOSEVELT FALLS IN MUD

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was thrown into a mud-puddle in Potomac Park early today when her horse slipped down.

The wife of the President was uninjured and remounted and continued her morning ride in mud-spattered costume.

The horse, traveling along a slippery course, fell to its knees and, as Mrs. Roosevelt described it later:

NARCOTIC JAILS SPORTSMAN

Patrick A Nee, 66 well-known in sporting circles of Pittsburgh, was sentenced to serve a year and a day in a federal penitentiary today when he pleaded guilty to selling and possessing opium.

He was arrested October 27, when, according to authorities, he was observed coming from a Chinese store at 512 Second avenue to meet Mrs. Katherine Lilly, of North Dithridge street, to whom he turned over the opium. Mrs. Lilly, who also pleaded guilty to possession of smoking opium, was placed on probation for two years, and Yee Jack Li, proprietor of the store, was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years.

Nee's attorneys asked leniency for their client, who was said to be in failing health.

EXPERT SCORES NEEDY MEN'S HOMES HERE

Report Charging Filth And Disease Sent To Harrisburg

Attempts to stifle an expert's criticism of the Helping Hand, Improvement of the Poor and the Central Application Bureau were futile today as it became known that a report containing the criticisms is in the hands of Dr. E. N. Clopper, of the Federation of Social Agencies.

Attempts to obtain the report had been balked as Cloper insisted the statement should be referred to the three organizations for criticism and "correction" before being made public.

A talk made by Morris Lewis, special investigator for the National Committee on Homeless and Transient Men, last Friday brought the information before a large body of social workers. Lewis had investigated the situation here for the committee and leveled severe criticism at the three institutions.

SECRECY SOUGHT

At that time, it was agreed no word of the talk would be given to newspapers. Meanwhile, an apparent attempt to avoid publicity on the report was planned after Lewis presented it to the Department of Welfare, in Harrisburg, and it was forwarded to Clopper.

But as the report reached Clopper today word of the Friday meeting reached the public.

In brief, Lewis severely criticized the Helping Hand, charging it with failure to provide proper medical care for its guests. These men have on occasion, he said, been sent to other institutions while suffering from disease.

One-third the 364 men transferred from there to Mayview last year were suffering from ailments which had not received proper treatment, he said, continuing:

"These men have worked to glorify Pittsburgh and Allegheny County. They have labored in your mills and have labored so that the very word 'steel' has become synonomous with Pittsburgh. Let us hope that steel has not crept into your hearts."

FLANNERY ANSWERS

To these charges, J. Rogers Flannery, of the operating committee of the Helping Hand, took vigorous exception when he said:

"Mr. Lewis' remarks are not based on facts. We maintain a clinic at the Helping Hand to care for sick men."

Flannery said he disliked the idea of outsiders cirticizing local institutions without constructive suggestions.

Lewis retorted that conclusions would stand all examination. Men at the Helping Hand, he insisted, are treated more like robots than humans.

The Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, Lewis declared, is forcing men to work for subsistence which is, in reality paid by public funds.

QUARTERS CROWDED

Large crowds of men must sleep in cramped quarters there, he charged, while less crowded spaces are reserved for "paying guests."

Of the missions, Lewis had no word of praise, saying:

"Only the Lord whom they glorify could rid them of filth."

Since 95 per cent of the homeless men here have lived in Pittsburgh for more than five years, Lewis charges that the Central Application Bureau should, with its public funds, have trained social workers to help men settle down, with or without employment. Enough for 24 hours' eating and sleeping is not sufficient provision, he asserted, saying:

PRAISES NEWSBOYS' HOME

The Pittsburgh Newsboys' Home was called a "model" institution by Lewis, who also praised the Pittsburgh House of Shelter and the City Hospital at Mayview.

Mrs. Margaret Liveright, State Secretary of Welfare, had this to say of the Lewis report:

"We have reason to believe the facts Mr. Lewis presents are correct. The facts are not new, but present conditions for the first time in one report.

"Although this is not a Department of Welfare report, many of the facts in the Lewis statement will undoubtedly be included in the Welfare Department report for the entire state within a few weeks."

Lewis is a social worker of long standing employed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He was loaned by the R. F. C. to the Committee on Homeless and Transient Men especially for this and similar investigations.

PRESIDENT DAY RADIO TRIBUTE PLANNED HERE

While Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, noted rabbi, added words of compliment to the idea of April 30 becoming President's Day, Radio Station WJAS announced that it had arranged a program in honor of the day, with three ministers officiating.

The prayer broadcast was arranged today by James Hughes, program director of Station WJAS, for Sunday afternoon, from 3 until 3:30 o'clock. Mr. Hughes will direct it.

Five-minute periods of prayers have been planned. Rabbi Herman Hailperin, of the Tree of Life Congregation; the Rev. A. J. Holl, First English Lutheran Church, and the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's, will conduct the prayers.

A choir singing sacred songs, and other musical background will complete the program. W. A. MacDonald will direct the singing.

Rabbi Goldenson, of Rodef Shalom Congregation and noted liberal preacher, today commented on "President's Day" as follows:

"Any movement that tends to deepen one's sense of loyalty to the country and willingness to co-operate with the Chief Magistrate of the nation, especially when he is facing in a realistic way the problem of bringing about a more just political society is worthy of the support of every right-thinking citizen."

Senators Laud Program For Roosevelt Tribute

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The American people were urged today by nation's leaders to join in a universal expression of gratitude to President Roosevelt on the occasion of President's Day, April 30.

Setting aside of this day to honor the President was suggested by the Hearst newspapers.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, said:

"Setting aside of April 30 as President's Day is splendid. We may extend our tribute to the leader who brought us back from the lethargy of despair to hope and confidence. Our people are pleased with the chieftain who has done so much in such a short time to restore our morale."

Senator Walter George, of Georgia, said:

"In times like these when the President is under great stress we should welcome an opportunity such as President's Day to let the nation show its true sentiment toward the chief executive."

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida, said:

"I do think that President's Day is not only praiseworthy, but fills an essential need. We are entering a difficult phase of national affairs and are about to undertake foreign negotiations of the utmost importance. The President should know that he has the support of the people now, as he did last November, but more important—foreign nations should be shown ne speaks with the full authority of America."

New York Mayor Asks Prayers for F.R.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(Universal.)—Mayor O'Brien, by official proclamation, yesterday designated Sunday, April 30, as President's Day, and called on all people of the city to gather in their churches that day and "offer up sincere thanks to our Lord for the advent of our leader, President Roosevelt.

Jersey's Governor Proclaims F. R. Day

NEW YORK, April 13.—(Universal.)—New Jersey today had joined with other states in designating Sunday, April 30, as President's Day.

Gov. A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey, in a telegram, announced his intention of designing President's Day, officially, by proclamation.

Easter Flowers For Woods Run Mothers

Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., will continue her annual custom of distributing potted Easter flowers to neighborhood mothers throughout the Woods Run Settlements this year.

At 2 p. m. today, 350 mothers have been invited to attend Mrs. Thaw's annual Easter Flower Show at the Woods Run Settlement House. An operetta, "Flowers of all Nations" will be presented by the Girls' Department, and each mother will receive a potted Easter flower.

CHILD BEATEN, TWO QUIZZED

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 13.—(AP.)—A 7-year-old schoolgirl, Dorothy Rowe, was discovered badly beaten and unconscious near her home in Pennsylvania, just across the state line, early today.

Taken to a Chambersburg (Pa.) hospital, the child was said to be in a serious condition.

Officers at Mercersburg, Pa., questioned the child's aunt, Mrs. Lucy Rowe, and Charles Atherton, a farmer of the community known as "In-the-Corner." Mrs. Rowe was housekeeper for Atherton, and the child lived with her aunt.

East Borough Scout Honor Court April 30

East Boroughs' Boy Scout Council will hold its annual court of honor in the Rowland Theater, Wilkinsburg, April 30. Jack Woolley, of KDKA Artists' Bureau, will lead 11 Eagle scouts in an Indian ceremonial entertainment.

Illinois House Indorses F. R. Day

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 13.—(Universal.)—By unanimous vote, the Illinois House last night passed a resolution indorsing the nation-wide "President's Day" proposed by the Hearst newspapers in honor of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Arizona Sets Aside 'President's Day'

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 13.—(Universal.)—Gov. B. B. Moeur, of Arizona, yesterday issued a proclamation setting aside Sunday, April 30, as President's Day, in accordance with action by governors of other states.

DARROW WINS HEARING FOR DOOMED BOY

Universal Service.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 13.—Hope had brightened today that 18-year-old Russell McWilliams may be saved from the electric chair in which he is under sentence to die a week from Friday.

Gov. Horner announced he would hold an open hearing in the boy's case after he receives the recommendation of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago lawyer, made a three-hour plea in behalf of McWilliams before the board Tuesday.

NEW HOPE HELD

Another development giving encouragement to the relatives and friends of the condemned youth was the passage by the Senate of the Gunning bill eliminating the death penalty for persons under 19 years of age. It was passed, 27 to 11, and sent to the House, where its passage is expected.

The attitude of the Legislature against the execution of boys is expected to receive the consideration of the Governor as he weighs McWilliams' fate. McWilliams was only 17 when he killed a street car conductor in a holdup.

Darrow visited Gov. Horner, an old friend, yesterday. Later he was an interested spectator as Senator Thomas P. Gunning's bill was passed.

CITES HEARST VIEWS

Calling the bill up, Senator Gunning directed the Senate's attention to the editorial written by William Randolph Hearst, based on the Winnie Ruth Judd case, and printed in the Chicago Herald and Examiner and other Hearst papers. Gunning said:

"In my opinion, the editorial is right. It states my views more emphatically than I can, and I want to read it."

The Senator then read the editorial in full.

WOMAN, 3 MEN HURT IN CRASH

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., April 13.—A woman and three men were injured today when the car the woman was driving and a truck collided on the Leechburg road.

Miss Catherine Yingst, 21, of 332 Ridge avenue, New Kensington, is in a serious condition in Citizens General Hospital, where she and Amerigo Pezzana, James Waltenbaugh, 21, and Leo Scott, 20, all of Hyde Park, were taken.

Miss Yingst suffered two fractures of the right arm, a possible skull fracture and had six teeth knocked out. Pezzana suffered head injuries and a possible skull fracture. The other two were treated for numerous cuts.

According to a police report, the truck, driven by Carlo Pezzana, collided with the automobile of Miss Yingst near Falcon Park on the Leechburg road.

BOTTLING PLANT STRIKE ENDED

The 250 men and women employes of the bottling works of the J. T. & A. Hamilton Company, Twenty-sixth street, were back at work today, their strike that threatened to increase the city's beer bottle shortage settled to their partial satisfaction.

The workers walked out yesterday morning, and sent a delegation to the management with a demand for a 15 per cent increase over their present wage scale. After several conferences, the workers' committee turned down and then accepted a straight 5 per cent increase.

The plant is operating full capacity. Three shifts are busy turning out bottles 24 hours daily, L. J. Kihm, general manager, said he already was paying wages above the average scale. The minimum wage scale for girls was $1.52 for eight hours, he said. Packers' wages ranged from 30 to 42½ cents an hour, he said.

McKeesport 'Hikers' Held in Truck Theft

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., April 13.—Tiring after the first leg of a hitch-hike planned during their Easter vacation, three McKeesport high school youths "borrowed" a truck here and started home. Apprehended at Sunnyside, they were held for the grand jury by Justice of the Peace Crossland Nelson, of Belle Vernon. They went to jail in default of $500 bail each.

Alarm Box Wrecked, Bluff Man Arrested

John Webber, 30, of 909 Bluff street, arrested last night at Vickroy and Hooper streets, after, police say, he had pulled a fire alarm box from a pole causing an alarm to be sounded, was held over in Center Avenue Police Station today. Firemen said they would produce the wrecked alarm box tomorrow.

Burns Prove Fatal To Aged Woman

Mrs. Louise Weber, 79, died today of burns suffered from a gas stove in her home at 3413 Fleming avenue, North Side, two weeks ago, the Coroner's office reported.

Your Hat Will Be Right

If it's from Horne's, though it cost only

Style-Rightness is an ideal with our Millinery Salons, which every price line must live up to. So if $3.75 is the price you have set out to pay for an Easter hat, our Millinery Salons is the place to find all the chic that you've hoped that price would buy.

Sailors and turbans, toques and cloches—they're all here, in models to make you look picturesquely pretty, and models for a sleek tailored effect. Hats to exactly match your costume, or to contrast it in the new manner of dark accessories with light-colored coats and suits. Hats of straws, fabric or felt.

An event planned to solve the coat problem for everybody. It is a sale that would be remarkable any time, because of its extraordinary values and the big way it presents the spring coat picture, but to zoom in with it two days before Easter makes it seem almost too good to be true!

Everything that's "good" in coats for Easter, with every new fashion trick, turn and quirk of 1933. Coats trimmed with long-haired, fluffy furs, short-haired and flat furs. Unfurred coats for sophisticates who put far greater value on correct line and smart finishing detail, than on flutter. And sports coats, too, if you're that type. And everybody has been remembered in the matter of size as well as type and fashion:

F. R.'S MESSAGE URGES HOME LOAN AID

mortgages are drafted along the lines of the pending agricultural refinancing measure and are designed to save thousands of city home owners who are burdened with debts.

A Home Owners' Loan Corporation would be created under the Federal Home Loan Board with a capitalization of $200,000,000 subscribed by the federal government. Funds would be obtained through the Reconstruction Corporation.

The Home Loan Corporation would be authorized to issue tax exempt bonds up to $2,000,000,000 at 4 per cent interest, which would be exchanged for existing mortgages. The government would guarantee the interest but not the principal.

Bonds exchanged for mortgages would be limited to 80 per cent of the value of the mortgaged home, as appraised by the corporation. Refinancing would be limited to homes valued at $10,000 or less, occupied by not more than three families.

Any mark down in the face-value of the debt accepted by the mortgagee would be credited to the mortgager.

EXTENSION OF TIME

The home owner would amortize his debt to the corporation within 15 years, with interest at 5 per cent. The board would have authority to grant a three-year extension of time for payment of principal or interest.

In refinancing the home owner, the corporation could advance cash for the payment of taxes or assessments or provide for necessary maintenance or repairs.

Cash advances for these purposes also could be made to home owners whose property was not mortgaged up to 80 per cent of the value.

Federal savings and loan associations would be set up under rules and regulations prescribed by the Home Loan Bank Board "giving primary consideration to the best practices of local mutual thrift and home financing institutions." The bill says:

"But no such association shall be incorporated by the board unless in its judgment the community to be served is insufficiently served by local thrift and home-financing institutions.

"Such associations shall be authorized to make loans upon homes secured by duly recorded home mortgages and to invest their funds in obligations of the United States and in Federal Home Loan bank bonds."

MEMBER OF BANK

Each association would automatically become a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank of this district in the same manner as other institutions.

The Treasury would subscribe to capital in such associations up to $100,000 at the request of the board, but the amount paid by the government could not exceed capital subscribed by other shareholders.

After five years, each association would set aside one-third of its receipts to retire the government holdings.

Any member of a Home Loan Bank could convert itself into a federal institution by votes of its stockholders and subject to the regulation of the board.

A separate appropriation of $250,000 is authorized by the bill to enable the board to promote organization of these associations.

The bill would repeal that section of the existing Home Loan Bank law under which Federal Home Loan banks are authorized to loan directly to home owners.

Text of Roosevelt's Home Loan Message

To the Congress:

As a further and urgently necessary step in the program to promote economic recovery, I ask the Congress for legislation to protect small home owners from foreclosure and to relieve them of a portion of the burden of excessive interest and principal payments incurred during the period of higher values and higher earning power.

Implicit in the legislation which I am suggesting to you is a declaration of national policy.

This policy is that the broad interests of the nation require that special safeguards should be thrown around home ownership as a guarantee of social and economic stability, and that to protect home owners from inequitable enforced liquidation, in a time of general distress, is a proper concern of the government.

The terms are such as to impose the least possible charge upon the national treasury consistent with the objects sought.

It provides machinery through which existing mortgage debts on small homes may be adjusted to a sound basis of values without injustice to investors, at substantially lower interest rates and with provision for postponing both interest and principal payments in cases of extreme need.

The resources to be made available through a bond issue to be guaranteed as to interest only by the Treasury, will, it is thought, be sufficient to meet the needs of those to whom other methods of financing are not available.

At the same time the plan of settlement will provide a standard which should put an end to present uncertain and chaotic conditions that create fear and despair among both home owners and investors.

Legislation of this character is a subject that demands our most earnest, thoughtful and prompt consideration.

Home Loan Bill in Brief

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—Here are the chief provisions of the home financing bill introduced in Congress today with President Roosevelt's indorsement:

Creation of a governmental corporation under the Home Loan Bank Board with a capital of $200,000,000 and borrowing power of $2,000,000,000 to refinance small home mortgages.

Creation of a permanent system of federal savings and loan associations, with a maximum total subscription by the government of $100,000,000 where people may place their investments and borrow for home financing.

The corporation could exchange tax-exempt bonds bearing interest at 4 per cent for existing mortgages, with a government guarantee on the interest but not on principal.

Debtors would repay the corporation over a 15-year period at 5 per cent interest. Any mark-down in the face value of the indebtedness would be credited to the debtor.

Federal savings and loan associations could be set up by the board in communities which it felt were "insufficiently served by local thrift and home-financing institutions."

The government could subscribe up to $100,000 in return for preferred stock in each association, provided an equal amount was paid by other shareholders.

Any member of the Home Loan Bank system could convert itself into a federal institution by vote of its stockholders.

Each association would begin repaying the government advance out of receipts after five years.

Associations would be authorized to make loans on homes secured by mortgages and invest funds in obligations of the United States or the board.

300 Men Recalled To Car Shop Jobs

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 13.—(AP.)—Frank E. MacCormack, superintendent of the Buffalo division of the New York Central Railroad, announced today that 300 men would return to work Monday with the reopening of the East Buffalo car shops.

In announcing the reopening of the shops, MacCormack said the action was necessary because a continuous upward trend in car-loadings in the Buffalo area in the past few weeks had made it impossible for the Gardenville shops to fill the additional demands for cars.

Police Hold Girl, 13, Masquerading as Boy

McKeesport police today are holding a 13-year-old girl, who they had docketed as a boy. Last night the child, dressed in her brother's suit, applied for lodging saying she had lost her ticket back to her home at Collinsburg, near West Newton. Police checking the story that the boy had spent yesterday with a family in Cronomyre avenue, learned that their guest was a girl.

Because of the girl's age, the Sun-Telegraph will not print her name.

TOTAL OF HOME DEBTS PUT AT 20 BILLIONS

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, in an explanation of the new home mortgage bill he introduced today, said there are $20,000,000,000 outstanding in home mortgages.

Senator Robinson said:

"The administration is making an effort by this bill, first and primarily, to give immediate relief to the small home owner now in distress and to the mortgagees holding these mortgages, and to provide for the payment of taxes to prevent the loss of homes, and, at the same time, to promote the development of a sound system of permanent home financing.

"The federal home loan bank system, which is now advancing about $10,000,000 a week, the major portion of which is going into home loans, is not disturbed in any way.

REFINANCING PLAN

Explaining the provision for emergency refinancing of home mortgages, Robinson said:

"It is intended by this provision to provide special relief for the small home owner and it is estimated that these figures will include approximately three-fourths, in number, of American homes.

"It is hoped that this plan will give relief to many small home owners whose mortgages are held by institutions unable to carry the same and at the same time, give these institutions the reasonable present value of their mortgages in a bond with interest guaranteed by the United States and give the home owner a 5 per cent mortgage, amortized over a period of 15 years, which will result in home owners having a very low required monthly payment for interest and principal."

FEDERAL ASSISTANCE

Robinson said the proposal for federal subscriptions to the stock of the savings and loan associations was "very similar to the investment of the government in preferred stock of national banks." He declared:

"All their funds are to be loaned on homes in the community, and provision is made for further expansion of their funds by borrowing from a federal home loan bank so that about $3 can be loaned on home mortgages by this means for every dollar put up by the United States.

"These associations are provided for as permanent institutions which will continue to provide the people a means of saving their own money to finance their own homes in communities which are not now so served."

Robinson said it was estimated these associations would be formed in about one-third of the counties of the nation which now have no means of financing their homes.

LEADERS HERE WITHHOLD COMMENT

Several Pittsburgh building and loan leaders and bankers today declined to comment on the President's mortgage finance proposal until they have an opportunity to study the plan in detail.

It is generally felt that if the plan is made law there would be little immediate direct effect on Pittsburgh's numerous building and loan associations, many of which are eligible for membership in the proposed chain of federal savings and loan associations through their connection with the Federal Home Loan Bank.

It is felt that the plan indicates increased activity for the Home Loan Bank branch here. W. F. Duffy, executive vice president of the Los Angeles Home Loan Bank, is in Pittsburgh today inspecting the local branch.

BEST PRAISES F. R.'S PLAN

William E. Best, of Pittsburgh, former director of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board under the Hoover administration, today expressed approval of the general outline of President Roosevelt's plan for refinancing homes. He said:

"While I am not familiar with all the provisions of the plan, from what knowledge I have I am inclined to believe the President is on the right road. I know the building and loan associations will co-operate in the effort to relieve conditions."

West is president of the United States League of Building and Loan Associations.

Says Pinchot Roads 'Lead to Pigsties'

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today was accused by Judge Raymond MacNeille in Quarter Sessions Court of using funds of the state treasury to build roads that lead to pigsties.

For this reason, the jurist directed that a $100 fine levied on Frank Seiderman for operating a lottery be given to the Salvation army.

PITCAIRN WINS MUSIC HONORS

Pitcairn High School music students, under the direction of Miss Sara Elizabeth Wonders, supervisor of music, have carried off a number of honors in interscholastic competitions during the last few weeks.

Master Ricci

Last Monday night Guido Ricci, 16, who has won first place in the Allegheny County contests for two years, took first place for baritone horn in the western Pennsylvania sectional contest in Charleroi. In several weeks he will again compete in the state contest at Sunbury, Pa.

Miss Beth Colclough, daughter of the Rev. J. Hackney Colclough, pastor of the Pitcairn Presbyterian Church, won third place in piano and Miss Claire Daugherty was awarded first place in the Allegheny County vocal solo contest on April 4.

Guido Ricci has been invited by Lee M. Lockhart, head of instrumental music in the Pittsburgh Schools and at Carnegie Tech, to attend the Eastern Music Camp in Maine this summer.

MUSIC

Harvey Efimove
Y. M. & W. H. A.

Harvey Efimove, who has so often entertained us with his Jewish character sketches in drama and song, and who now leaves Pittsburgh for a more profitable field in New York City, gave his farewell recital in the auditorium of the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association last night. There was an understanding audience which obviously appreciated every nuance in dialect and gesture.

Mr. Lissfelt

Since last hearing this young singing actor has improved again in several ways. His tempo is better which means that the many verses to his songs are no longer so tiresome; his voice was clearer though he still needs to learn control of pitch; and his pantomime is richer, perhaps no longer so monotonous. That he understands his people goes without saying, for the slightest turn of his hand or change in his glance can control the entire scene which he is depicting.

His program included simple folk songs of the religious and daily life of the Jew and Chassidic songs, many of them made known by the famous Chenkin. One need not understand Yiddish to enjoy this plaintive and often comic music for there remains much in the music itself which sings to us as directly as the poetry of the song. J. FRED LISSFELT.

BEER REVENUE SWELLS U. S. INCOME

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(INS.)—Uncle Sam's income from miscellaneous internal revenue taxes, including levies against beer, tobacco and other articles and services, probably will be well in excess of $800,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Figures available at the Treasury today indicated that if receipts are maintained during the next three months at the level of the first three quarters of the year, miscellaneous internal revenue, exclusive of the beer taxes, will total $784,649,400.

AIDS FIGURES

The income from beer has been variously estimated. If the estimate of $150,000,000 annually is correct a total of $12,500,000 a month would be collected which would add about $37,500,000 to miscellaneous receipts for the next three months. Judging from the tremendous consumption of beer the estimates may be exceeded. Some experts placed the annual income at $250,000,000 or more than $20,000,000 a month.

Miscellaneous internal revenue receipts for the 1932 fiscal year amounted to $503,315,503.

DRIVE ON EVADERS

For last year income taxes yielded $1,057,335,000. On the basis of receipts for the July 1-April 10 period income taxes will aggregate $800,000,000, although the rates for the last half of the year were double those in the 1932 fiscal year.

There has been considerable evasion of tax this year. This has resulted in an intensive drive by the Internal Revenue Bureau to determine the evaders and to take steps to get this revenue into the treasury. Furthermore, there have been millions of dollars in taxes postponed for those unable to meet the payments. Exact figures were not available.

Indications point to customs receipts of $253,183,000 as compared with $327,752,000 in the 1932 fiscal year.

Master Chooses Jail Term Over Losing Dog

WILMINGTON, Del., April 13.—(Universal.)—James Neal, 65, could have escaped jail yesterday had he parted with the dog he has had for nine years. Instead he accepted a sentence of five days in default of a $5 fine, imposed for allowing his dog to run at large at night.

W. VA. BEER BILL BECOMES LAW

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 13.—(AP.)—Gov. Kump today signed the 3.2 beer bill. It became effective immediately.

While the Governor, Attorney General Homer A. Holt and Tax Commissioner Fred L. Fox studied the bill passed by the Legislature yesterday, corriders of the tax commissioner's office were literally jammed with applicants for license.

Fox said issuance of licenses would be started immediately to those who applied in person.

He pointed out, however, that applications must be submitted in affidavit form before licenses can be granted and that two or three days would be required to act upon those submitted by mail.

Prohibition Agents Confiscate Still

Federal prohibition agents reported today they had arrested Frank Comfort, 48, at 1219 Ridge avenue, and confiscated a quantity of moonshine, mash and a 50-gallon still in operation.

A short time later they arrested Ross R. Cavallo, 36, of 1724 Branchport street. They said they found 25 gallons of moonshine in Cavallo's automobile.

WOMEN DRYS SEE NEW PARTY

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—Women prohibitionists swung into the second day of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement convention today, with predictions of a new dry political party sounded in the keynote address.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, general chairman of the committee, which includes the leading women prohibition groups in the country, said last night that a strictly women's party to fight for retention of dry laws was not sought, but that a new coalition of the men and women to form the Constitutional Party of America" was "bound to come."

She said:

"Women are rising. They will drive the money changers and brewers out of our national temple.

"We thought we had sent men to represent us but they have betrayed the Constitution for revenue and beer. Until women in every state organize for political action as they are doing in many states, the cause may be temporarily lost, and with it a far greater cause, our free government.

"Therefore we, representing 10,000,000 women in 10 national organizations, will hold the line."

Senator Sheppard (Dem.), of Texas, co-author of the Eighteenth Amendment, was listed as the main speaker today.

The beer law was attacked last night by Senator Capper (Rep.), of Kansas. He said:

"I believe that beer of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content is intoxicating and its sale a violation of the Constitution. This beer law is not going to assist in restoring prosperity to the people of the country."

DRYS POSTPONE BEER FIGHT TO BEAT REPEAL

Universal Service

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The Anti-Saloon League and other dry agencies are more concerned at the moment in resisting repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment than in testing the constitutionality of 3.2 per cent beer.

This declaration was made today to Universal Service by Dr. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the dry league. He said:

"What we want right now is retention of the Eighteenth Amendment. We are concentrating on that. Beer is a legislative matter that can be changed by Congress or knocked out in the courts.

"Of course, a test of the beer law will be made in the courts, but it may not come in the next few days or few weeks. It will come in the natural process. We want the right kind of a case before taking the issue into the courts. That will come eventually. When we see a case that we believe will clearly present the issue, we shall get behind it and push it for a clear cut test."

The dry forces, McBride said, in addition to resisting repeal, also are laying plans for next year's congressional and legislative campaigns.

By electing dry congressmen and state legislators, the present beer legislation can be set aside through legislative action, he declared.

Thieves Steal Beer From 'Thirsty' Town

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 13.—With a dearth of beer in Uniontown, thieves early today further complicated matters when they broke into the warehouse of Sol Sieff and carted away 210 cases valued at $400. The beer consignment had just been received from Pittsburgh for distribution today.

Court Fines Youth For Jag on 3.2 Beer

COLUMBUS, O., April 13—(INS.)—Police Judge Harold L. Kime, in fining a 19-year-old youth for drunkenness yesterday, held it was his opinion "that when Congress passed the recent bill legalizing 3.2 beer which was later supplemented by the Ohio legislature, it meant the moderate use of the same."

The defendant, Willis Camp of Circleville, who was fined $10 and costs, testified he had been drinking only 3.2 beer. Arresting officers asserted he was "staggering, bleary-eyed and his speech incoherent."

BEER SHORTAGE RACKET DENIED

Reports that bootleggers, exploiting the beer shortage, were offering the brew to retailers at fanciful prices, today brought scoffing denials from many stores.

In fact, in very few places was there a scarcity of beer. On the North Side and downtown several proprietors reported that frequently they were without the lager for perhaps a half hour but seldom longer.

Only one instance of a boosted price was found. In a small store a retailer said he had bought a few cases at 30 cents above the wholesale price.

Dry Leader Urges 'DE-Beering' Stations

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 12.—(INS.)—Declaring that it takes about four hours for the alcohol in a "permissible drink" to be absorbed by the human system, Mrs. William Tilton, dry leader, today urged de-alcoholizing stations for automobile operators who drink 3.2 per cent beer.

Such stations would be set up at every place where the foamy liquid is sold and where imbibers would be held for a period of four hours.

MICHIGAN BEER VETO LOOMS

LANSING, Mich., April 13.—(AP.)—The prohibition situation in beerless Michigan was further complicated today as Gov. William A. Comstock announced in vigorous terms that he will veto the beer bill passed last night by the Senate unless it is changed.

The Governor, long an anti-prohibitionist and one of the subcommittee which drew the national Democratic repeal plank, objected to an amendment repealing outright the state's prohibition enforcement act.

POPE REVIVES ANCIENT HOLY WEEK RITES

VATICAN CITY, April 13.—(AP.)—A Pope carried the Blessed Sacrament from its tabernacle in the Sistine Chapel to the Pauline Chapel for the first time since 1870 today. There it will be exposed until tomorrow, Good Friday.

Thus Pius XI, on the one thousand nine-hundredth anniversary of Christ's institution of the Eucharist, restored to the Roman Catholic world one of its most picturesque and traditional ceremonies.

The ritual inaugurated the three most sacred days of holy week. It was one of several symbolic acts abandoned by Pius' predecessors through the past 63 years. He is reviving them as part of the extraordinary holy year program he initiated April 1.

MOURN PASSION

Surrounded by high dignitaries of the church and a few invited guests, he first said mass in the Sistine Chapel. This chapel is famous for Michael Angelo's frescoes covering the barrel vaulted ceiling and his "Last Judgment" on the altar wall.

Then, accompanied by the sacred college of cardinals and a uniformed company of noble and Swiss guards, he carried the sacrament slowly in procession to the Pauline Chapel, where it was ceremoniously uncovered.

Tomorrow, he will take it back to the Sistine Chapel, where he again will say a special mass.

The bells of Rome's 400 churches greeted Holy Thursday this morning, but stopped ringing after a few minutes to remain silent until Saturday noon. The Catholic world is now mourning Christ's passion and death.

DISPLAY RELICS

Thousands of Pilgrims, including many Americans, attended services in St. Peter's, where Cardinal Pacelli officiated.

Other thousands went to the Cathedral of St. John Lateran, in Rome, to venerate the table, which, it is said, was used at the Last Supper.

They also saw two skulls reputed to be those of SS. Peter and Paul, a part of the sponge said to have been lifted to Christ's lips when he suffered thirst, and other prized relics.

Priests in many churches repeated Christ's washing of the apostles' feet. They selected 12 poor men for the purpose and after bathing their feet gave them food and money. Thirteen priests from foreign countries were chosen for the ceremony in St. Peter's, the thirteenth representing St. Paul.

CROSSES MARK TORTURE RITES

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 13.—(INS.)—A dozen crosses dotted high mountain peaks today in the Sandia Range east of here as members of the Penitente religious sect prepared for self-torture, flagellation and crucifixion they will enact tomorrow, Good Friday, as a climax to weird Holy Week rites.

Self-inflicted punishment and, sometimes, even death, marks the practices of the religious cult in New Mexico's mountain regions that terminate with Good Friday observances in desolate places far removed from the centers of population.

The Good Friday ceremony is most barbaric. As the procession moves toward the cross, the member who is to enact the role of Christ takes his place at the head of the column, bearing a heavy wooden cross upon his shoulders. All those doing penance are stripped to the waist and all carry whips made of tough fiber.

Each penitent is accompanied by a vigilant companion who likewise carries a whihp and uses it whenever a flagellant weakens in his self-inflicted blows and beatings.

At the scene of the crucifixion rope is used to lash the victim to the cross. The penitents are supposed to have substituted tying for the more brutal practice of nailing. When the victim is tied securely to the cross in a maner prescribed by ancient custom, the other penitentes form a circle around the base and beat themselves with their lashes.

MISS PERKINS SEES 30-HOUR PLAN GAIN

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, believes the Black bill to establish a 30-hour work week "has a real chance for serious consideration."

Miss Perkins spoke last night at a meeting at which Gov. Pinchot said the two problems raised by the economic distress are the care of the unemployed and reasonable security for workers against future disaster.

The addresses were made at a meeting sponsored by the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, the Pennsylvanian Labor Standards Commission and the State Department of Labor and Industry.

REVEALS PROGRAM

Miss Perkins gave a program of labor standards as:

Minimum wage standards; shorter work day; abolition of child labor; old-age pensions; security for workers; sanitation and prevention of industrial diseases and accidents, and better housing for workers.

She asserted everyone wants "progress to social and industrial justice with peace" and added that her entire program could be accomplished "in the immediate future."

Miss Perkins, in speaking of the 30-hour work week, said many manufacturers and managers of great industries favored such legislation as a curb on "uncivilized competition in industry."

Roosevelt Backing Short Week Principle

WASHINGTON, April 13.—President Roosevelt stands squarely behind the objective of the 30-hour work week bill pending in Congress, it was disclosed at the White House yesterday while a battle raged in Congress over details of the measure.

The President believes the measure in principle offers a formula for better planning of industrial development as well as to reduce the great army of unemployed, the White House revealed. He is undecided whether 30 hours or more should be the maximum established.

Meanwhile in the Senate, Senator Black (Dem.), of Alabama, declared industrial leaders are carrying on an "under cover" campaign to defeat the measure. His charge was made during an unsuccessful attempt to obtain a vote on the motion of Senator Trammell (Dem.), of Florida, to reconsider the vote by which it passed the Senate last week.

our influence as a friendly and disinterested power and constitute a menace to our peace and security.

The resentments we have so carelessly invited are well illustrated by the case of Japan, our ancient friend and excellent customer, now plainly in an ugly and threatening mood.

To such a point is our naval and military strength reduced, that any second-class power might readily gain a temporary advantage in a conflict with us and inflict incalculable damage in the destruction of our exposed cities which we are without the readiness to properly defend.

But thank God we no longer look to a Hoover. We have a Roosevelt.

And thank God, President Roosevelt has a patriotic American policy of adequate defense for our great country and our millions of people.

The President is staunchly supported by Secretary of the Navy Swanson, Chairman Vinson of the House Committee on Naval Affairs and Speaker Rainey.

There seems to be complete agreement that the failures and omissions of the past shall be speedily redressed.

THE CONSTRUCTION program now under discussion contemplates the building of 30 vessels of various types at a total cost of $230,000,000, and with the beneficial employment of thousands of men.

The type of vessels will be determined in conjunction with the Naval General Board, whose function is to provide technical advice on ship construction policy.

The total cost would be spread over a period of three years and the annual appropriations necessary to maintain the work at the present capacity of our shipyards would be included in the President's general employment program. This plan is sure to meet with acceptance and approval throughout the country.

Full speed ahead should be the order of the day.

And let us hope that our fine American President will throw his matchless energies into the promotion of this sound and American program without a moment's delay.

There is plenty of delay in the past which only the utmost promptness now can retrieve.

A modern Navy fully conforming with the quotas agreed upon in the London naval treaty, together with adequate airplane equipment, is the objective at which we should aim.

Our country must be safe from the greed, envy and hostility of a war-mad world.

Carlyle Blackwell's Divorced Wife Dies

LONDON, April 13.—(AP.)—England's "queen of diamonds," the former Leah Barnato, who was recently divorced from Carlyle Blackwell, the former American film actor, died suddenly today.

She was the sister of Woolf Barnato, the millionaire racing motorist, and daughter of the late Barney Barnato, associate of Cecil Rhodes in exploitation of South African diamond mines.

Governor Named For British Outpost

LONDON, April 13.—(AP.)—Tasmania, which discovered two years ago that it could not afford a governor at $15,000 a year, is in better financial circumstances now, and will have a new executive in the person of Sir Ernest Clark. Sir Ernest was appointed yesterday by the King to succeed Sir James O'Grady who retired in 1930.

Student Dies, Three Hurt in Auto Crash

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 13.—Albert Soehl, 19, of Brooklyn, was killed and his three companion students at the University of Ohio at Athens, O., were injured, toter holidays. Semour Finger, 19, also was removed to the hospital. His brother, Clarence, and Herbert Mayer, escaped with lacerations and bruises.

Two Hurt as Auto Crashes Into Pole

Robert E. Horne, 23, of 114 South Third street, Duquesne, and Louis Klein, 24, 446 Atlantic avenue, McKeesport, were taken to McKeesport Hospital today after their automobile struck a semaphore at Second street and Hamilton avenue, Duquesne. Neither was seriously hurt.

RICHMAN BROTHERS CLOTHES

Fine Clothes at a Price Everyone Can Afford!

For 54 years, Richman Brothers Clothes have been the world's finest modestly priced garments. This is proved by the fact that more men wear Richman Brothers suits and topcoats than any other brand in the United States.

There are reasons . . . and good reasons . . . for all this. To begin with, we don't buy Richman Brothers Clothes from other manufacturers. We make them ourselves, in our own tailoring shops. Then, instead of selling them to retailers, we sell them direct to you, thereby saving you enormous wholesale overhead expense as well as the middleman's profits.

We are also America's largest buyers of woolens, and get the cream of the crop at much lower prices than smaller makers. You, of course, get the benefit of these savings. We also save vast sums of money by buying and selling for cash . . . savings that we share with you.

From the day our raw materials enter our factory until the day the finished garment goes on your back, nobody but Richman Brothers has anything to do with them. This simple, economical way of doing business enables us to give you finer materials, better workmanship, fresher style, larger selection and guaranteed perfect fit.

Our store is filled almost to overflowing with new Spring suits and topcoats . . . all the new styles, every new color, all the most desired weaves . . . in all sizes.

Come in and take your choice of any suit or topcoat in the store . . . they're all $18.50

TOUCHES OF PIQUE BRIGHTEN THE NEW MODELS FOR SUMMER

A DASH of pique will banish your troubles more quickly than anything else we can think of. If your dress or coat hasn't pique touches, wear a fine waffle pique gilet, or a striped pique scarf and hat. Of course, you've got to have pique gloves and you'll love them. They wash perfectly, are cool and very inspiring.

THE COAT at the left shows how pique can be used on a severely tailored outfit and make it extremely feminine and beguiling. It has great square cloth shoulders, half epaulet, half revers, starting from the neck line. These are faced with white pique which extends about an inch further than they do. The white is repeated in buttons, gloves and hat. A pique flower right under the chin is the plot of the grey sheer outfit in the center. This has a line of the magic white edging the little jacket and relieving the stern line of the collarless neck. Then at the right there are pique revers in a big way, streaming out on the shoulders. There's more of the same waffle sort of pique used for the cuffs of the three-quarter length sleeves, which close with immense pearl buttons and there are four huge pearl buttons on the front.

BROTHER FREED IN HOLDUP

George Otten, 28, of 50 Wabash avenue, brother of two men held in the shooting of Fred Kronz, West End service station proprietor, in a holdup, was discharged in Mt. Washington Police Station today. He had been detained as a material witness. The brothers, Bernard and Lawrence, were captured in Cleveland, the former with a bullet wound received in the holdup, police say. He is in Mercy Hospital, Lawrence in jail.

League For Justice Elects New Officers

Dr. B. J. Hobbe was re-elected chairman of the executive committee of the League for Social Justice at a meeting last night in the Y. M. and W. H. A. Three vice chairmen and nine committee members also were re-elected. They are: Dr. Ralph S. Boots, Sidney A. Teller and Dr. Ralph B. Urmy, vice chairmen; Maurice Schneirov, Ralph C. Weaver, Charles P. Douds, Rose M. Stein, Elmer S. Cope, Charles W. Mason, J. W. Matson, Nathan Miller and Frank J. Skalak, members of the committee.

Six new members were named to the league: Samuel Suss, Dr. A. McKibben, the Rev. B. F. Crawford, Harry Glickson, Marjorie Hanson and King Gerr.

'VIRGINIA JUDGE' -:- Rudy Offers Scene From 'Anna Christie' -:- ON AIR TONIGHT

Stoopnagle Again Goes Operatic

Rudy Vallee's weekly one-hour variety show again takes the lead among the Thursday night air features bringing to the microphone on WCAE at 8:

Milton Berle, dispenser of flip comedy.

Walter C. Kelly, the Virginia Judge.

Zez Confrey, pianist.

In addition, Rudy presents Katherine Perry, a dusky songbird discovered by Lew Leslie, producer of the "Blackbirds" revues, supported by a Negro chorus.

* * *

Red and Ramona, the Whiteman piano and vocal team, board the Show Boat, on WCAE at 9, for a guest appearance with Lanny Ross, Annette Hanshaw, Muriel Wilson, Molasses 'n' January and Don Voorhees' orchestra.

Col. Stoopnagle and Budd repeat their original operetta, "Stoopnocracy," in the Gilbert and Sullivan manner, on WJAS at 9:30. The Colonel, Budd, and even Louis Dean, the commercial announcer, all contribute to the performance by lifting their voices—such as they are—in song.

* * *

WAGNER PROGRAM

An all-Wagner program, including excerpts from "Das Rheingold," "Die Walkure," "Siegfried," "Gotterdammerung" and "Die Meistersinger," is offered by the Minneapolis Symphony, with Eugene Ormandy conducting, over NBC-KDKA at 11:30 tonight.

Thomas Munnell, WJAS staff baritone and announcer, resumes his 15-minute song recitals at 8:15.

* * *

Sacred music, dating back to the sixteenth century, comprises a special two-part broadcast by the Epiphany Senior Choir of 20 male voices at 4:45 p. m. on KDKA.

* * *

On the same station at 7:15, Horace Britt, famed Belgian 'cellist, who at the age of 14 won the first prize at the National Conservatory in Paris, makes a Concert Footlights guest appearance.

A two-hour play-by-play account of the Pirates' second game of the season—at Cincinnati—is listed for WWSW listeners until 4:45, with Ed Sprague announcing and Joe Sartory decoding.

* * *

On Board

Program Pointers

Other ace features on tonight's waves are:

WCAE—Olga Albani, Spanish soprano, 6:45; The So-and-So Trio and the Andrini Brothers, 7:35; Jack Pearl's Munchausen-isms and Al Goodman's rhythms, 10; James Melton, tenor, 11; Paul Gannon's midnight songs.

WJAS—Easy Aces, 8; Kate Smith, 8:30; Abe Lyman's music, 8:45; La Etting, giving her audience a full measure of her theme song, 9; Mills Brothers, 9:15; Foreign Legion drama, 10; the Boswells, 10:30; Howard Barlow, 11.

KDKA—The Regimentalists, 7:45; Cape Diamond adventure story, 8; Rin Tin Tin Thriller, 8:30; Death Valley Days drama, 9; Wayne King, 9:30; Vic and Sade, family sketch, 10:15.

'Globe-Trotter' Broadcasts

Going on the air from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, relays the latest bulletins over WCAE and WJAS at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. today.

In order that WJAS listeners may hear a CBS broadcast of the three-hour Washington Cathedral Passion Service beginning at noon tomorrow, the 12:15 and 2:15 Globe-Trotter periods will be carried by WCAE only.

"I'm slower'n molasses in January. . . . and I'm proud of it"

This careful hand pressing is one of the things that makes the jacket of a Parkleigh settle over your shoulders and chest without your giving a wriggle every time you put it on.

"When I started making men's suits in England back in 1887 I wasn't taught the value of speed. All I learned about was doing the job right. And I learned that the final pressing a suit gets can make a lot of difference in the finished product. And that's as true now as it was in 1887. Machines? Wonderful things; but—" and he gave us a sly look, "I don't think a machine will ever put me out of a job."

We stood watching this fellow putting the finishing touches on a Parkleigh Suit. It took him a good full hour to press each suit. But when he got through, it was pressed right! We could have the work done by mechanical pressers, yes! But you'd feel the difference the minute you settled the coat on your shoulders!

So we're going to have men who are "slower'n molasses" continue to work on Parkleigh suits. After all, you don't care if we take a long time, do you? . . . The important thing is that the suit is right. That's why more and more men are wearing

Bestor Asks Fans to Name New Song; U. S. to Hear Jerusalem Broadcast

By AIRCASTER

Don Bestor's playing his newest composition on the frequencies tonight over WCAE at 11:15 . . . It's a classical opus set to rhythm, but for the life of him, Don can't christen it . . . To the guy who suggests the right tag, Don will hurl a gala night at his hotel.

Tests have shown, finally, that it can be done, so America's first program direct from Jerusalem has been scheduled over NBC-WJZ (KDKA) next Tuesday at 12:30 p. m. The program, marking the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and Canada, is to consist mainly of an address by Field Marshal Edmund Lord Allenby at the dedication of the new Jerusalem Y. M. C. A. building.

Molly says she doesn't think the new gal did as well as she might have . . . . Original Rosalie is sorry, asks for old job, wants to take the cut . . . Molly agrees, for the good of the act, and so that's the lowdown . . .

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

One more word about the reforestation army now being recruited.

Letters from surrounding counties and towns have deluged me. The writers want to know if they are taking applications from any place except Pittsburgh. Up to the present, only those residing in the city of Pittsburgh proper have been eligible to join. Their names were taken from the welfare lists and certified by the Allegheny County Director of Relief, George P. Mills.

The army of 900 men which completes the quota already has been chosen. This does not necessarily mean that more won't go. As soon as plans progress farther more orders will issue from headquarters and what the requirements of the next quota will be remains to be seen.

For you, who live outside of Pittsburgh, I would suggest that you be sure your name is on the relief lists in case the next quota should have a similar requirement.

* * *

The globe trotter who signed himself an amateur gentleman farmer might be interested to know that his suggestions concerning gardens already are in use. Every Friday at noon we hear Henry Eby, who knows his onions.

* * *

Here is a calendar combination worth mentioning. J. A. Moffat and his wife, of McKeesport, both were born on April 27 and that is the wedding anniversary, too. Mrs. Moffat, hold out for two presents, anyway.

* * *

Awfully glad to note that by your letters you approve the arrangement of the birthday and other announcements. So as not to disappoint the little women and men home for lunch from school we give their names at the end of the 12:15 broadcast, using about a minute and a half for that. On the 2:15 we put on "around the town" globe trot with the neighborhood news.

Good Friday Rites Broadcast

One of the longest religious broadcasts in the history of radio will go on the air over CBS-WJAS tomorrow at noon when the Rt. Rev. Dr. James Edward Freeman, Bishop of Washington, conducts the solemn three-hour Passion Service at the Washington Cathedral.

The service will include seven meditations on the words spoken by Christ from the cross on Calvary, with musical interludes by the Cathedral choir under the direction of Edgar Priest.

Another outstanding Good Friday presentation—on NBC-WCAE-KDKA at 11 a. m.—is the radio version of Maeterlinck's "Mary Magdalene."

Indians Ban Beer From Reservation

GALLUP, N. M., April 13.—(AP.)—Old tribesmen of the Zunis fear beer might arouse the wrath of the Zuni gods.

Today they asked G. A. Trotter, superintendent, to keep the new 3.2 beer off the reservation. Zuni religion bans the drinking of alcohol in any form.

STATE RELIEF FOR 2 WEEKS ALLOCATED

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(INS.)—All possibility that any of Pennsylvania's unemployed will go hungry during the Eastertide was removed today when approximately $3,245,000 was allocated by the State Emergency Relief Board.

The grants, based on the anticipated receipt of $7,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation today, increased the total allocations for April to $6,800,000.

Aroused by a deluge of complaints against the severance of water supplies because consumers were unable to make regular payments, the state board decided to investigate. Water companies throughout the state have discontinued supplies, creating a serious condition, Gov. Gifford Pinchot asserted.

The board deferred action on the "Pittsburgh plan" for food distribution submitted by the wholesale grocers of Pittsburgh.

The plan, if adopted, would automatically abolish the Tarentum Community market, according to William B. Rodgers, executive director of the board.

BALANCED RATIONS

The new plan provides for distribution of balanced food rations by general retail grocery stores in Allegheny County.

Relief allocations are tentative and will not be made public until the state board is advised of the action of the R. F. C. on its application for federal aid for April and May. The board went ahead, however, on the basis of the $5,000,000 emergency appropriation enacted yesterday, Gov. Pinchot said:

"The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has not yet acted on the request for additional funds for April, but we expect that a recommendation will be made some time today and the board will act today or tomorrow."

SCOTT BILL PASSES

Disregarding the inability of Republican organization leaders and Gov. Pinchot to agree in informal conferences on a relief program for the 1933-34 Biennium, the Senate today passed finally and unanimously the Scott bill appropriating $13,000,000 for aid to the unemployed for the period starting June 1.

The bill was sent to the House.

MILITIA LOOMS IN RELIEF FEUD

ST. PAUL, April 13.—(AP.)—State Senators gave varied reactions today to Gov. F. B. Olson's threat to invoke martial law and seizure of wealth to provide relief for the unemployed and residents he described as "tax burdened."

The Farmer-Labor party Governor, speaking to a group of relief marchers gathered on the State House steps yesterday, said the Legislature, particularly the Senate, had been delaying measures to alleviate suffering.

If the lawmakers did not provide sufficient relief, Gov. Olson said he would "invoke the powers that I hold and declare martial law."

Alexander, Veteran Showman, to Wed

HOLLYWOOD, April 13.—(AP.)—Alexander the Great, veteran showman known in private life as Claude Alexander Conlin, glanced into his famed crystal ball today and predicted that he and Mrs. George Coughlin will be married. He said:

"It will be in a couple of weeks."

Coyne Boosts Pay For 'Carpetbag' Judges

HARRISBURG, April 13.—Senator James J. Coyne, Allegheny County, has stepped in to block an effort to cut the pay of "carpetbag" judges from $30 to $15 a day.

The House passed the bill slicing the pay of traveling judges in half, but when it came up in the Senate, Senator Coyne inserted amendments to make the rate $20 a day. The Senate approved the amendments yesterday.

"Carpetbag" jurists, those who sit on the bench as visiting judges in other than their home counties, have been subject to attack in Allegheny County because they have been called in repeatedly to hear cases in which election frauds were charged.

STATE TO VOTE ON 'METRO' PLAN

HARRISBURG, April 13.—The proposed constitutional amendment permitting a referendum on a metropolitan Pittsburgh was passed finally by the House today. It already has been approved by the Senate.

The amendment will appear on the November ballot. If approved by the electorate of the state, enabling legislation will be necessary by the 1935 session to allow the voters of Allegheny County to pass on the question.

Representatives McClure and McBride were the only Allegheny members to vote against the measure.

'PHANTOM' VOTE HIT BY BILLS

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(INS.)—Senator Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., Allegheny, had a bill in Senate committee today to completely revolutionize the election registration system of Pittsburgh by making registration permanent.

In addition to abolishing the law requiring registration prior to every election, the bill would wipe out the present commission of four members. One commissioner would be appointed by the governor with the consent of the Senate to hold office for a 10-year term at an annual salary not less than $4,000.

In order to maintain his name on the permanent registration record, a person would be required to vote at least once every two years.

Permanent registration also is provided in a bill by Senator Frank J. Harris, Allegheny, which the Senate election committee reported to the Senate with a favorable recommendation.

By terms of the Harris bill, voters after once registering will remain upon the voters' list unless they change their residence, die or fail to vote once in four years. It provides for checking the vote lists to purge them of illegal names and for comparison with vital statistics report and other public records to keep the lists free of phantom voters.

Bell, Dickinson Nominations O. K.'d

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—The Senate Commerce Committee today favorably reported the nominations of Prof. John Dickinson, of Pennsylvania, as assistant secretary of Commerce, and Frank T. Bell, of Washington state, as commissioner of fisheries.

Dickinson is a former law partner of Senator McAdoo (Dem.), of California. He succeeds Julius Klein, resigned. Bell has been secretary to Senator Dill (Dem.), of Washington, for a number of years and is an authority on fishing.

STATE PAY CUT 'PERSUADER' UP MONDAY

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—The Legislature, forced to ignore its original plans to adjourn finally today, moved to the end of its fifteenth week seeking new roads to economy.

The House, which debated past midnight before approving a $500 cut in salaries for Legislators of 1935, made ready to vote on a pay reduction for present lawmakers.

The Senate-approved Howell resolution was reported for action Monday night. It urges voluntary reductions of 20 per cent in the salaries of judges and state officials whose pay is fixed by law and asks Legislators to refund 40 per cent of the $600 they have not yet received.

TEACHERS PAY CUT

The Senate passed the Wilson (House) bill permitting school districts to cut teachers' salaries 10 per cent and allowing poorer districts to make further slashes in salaries and other mandatory expenses in order to balance their budgets during the next two years. The vote was 32 to 6.

Senators opposing the measure included Armstrong, Coyne, and Harris, of Allegheny.

The Senate sent the Bennett (Indiana) bill back to committee for further study. The measure embodied Gov. Pinchot's plan to have the state take over 53,000 additional miles of township roads.

PINCHOT TOUR FLAYED

The House set a schedule which called for adjournment for the week at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The inflexible order of business left no room for filibuster by House labor forces who lost every effort they made to discharge committees from further consideration of bills.

Charges that Gov. Pinchot is "stealing the show" from the Legislature, brought from an administration assemblyman a challenge that the executive be "impeached" as a "politician."

Representative James L. Bennett, Philadelphia, criticized the Governor for reported plans to make a direct-to-the-people speaking tour.

Representative John C. Hermansen, Luzerne, defending the Governor, said he does not regard Pinchot as a "politician" and that, if it is "politics" for him to go out into the state, "we should impeach him for being a politician."

POOR BOARD BAN PASSES HOUSE

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—The Walker (Allegheny) bill abolishing the elected Allegheny County Poor Board and authorizing the County Commissioners to create a county department of welfare was passed by the House last night, 142 to 10.

The measure was sent to the Senate for concurrence.

Under the measure city and county poor relief will be consolidated and, according to Representative William A. Walker, sponsor, will effect economy.

An advisory board and supervisory committees for institutions are provided in the bill.

Congressman Brooks Opposes 6-Hour Day

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—Representative Brooks, of Pittsburgh, a steel worker by profession, says he doesn't see how the steel industry could operate on a six-hour day.

Brooks' desk is heaped high with protests from Pittsburgh steel mill heads against the Black 30-hour-a-week labor bill.

WOMEN VOTERS FIGHT SCHOOL WAGE CUT

Charging that Gov. Pinchot has aligned himself with Republican State Chairman Edward Martin to the detriment of the public schools, the Executive Board, Allegheny County League of Women Voters, was on record today as strongly opposed to slicing teachers' salaries.

The board asserts the Governor cut the state school budget for a two-year period from $58,200,000 to $53,000,000, thereby reducing the state subsidies for teachers' salaries in many districts.

URGE NEW POLICY

Describing the alliance between Martin and Pinchot as "peculiar between men who have never been friends before" the women declare it is "against the children of the state."

Calling attention to the fact that thousands of teachers now receive only $800 a year, the board's report adds:

"It is interesting to note in looking over the Governor's budget to notice that custodians of the washrooms receive $1,500 a year."

A new plan for the schools of the state must be worked out before the next session of the Legislature, the report contends, if the schools are to continue to be efficient.

TAX REVISION

This plan, the report concludes, involves a larger unit of administration, such as the county, instead of the multiplicity of school districts; abolition of the fee system of collecting taxes and an equalization of assessments all over the state to make state aid to schools possible on an equitable basis. Revision of the school code is urged, as well as a $5,000,000 emergency aid fund to prevent collapse of the teacher salary system.

The executive board's report was adopted at a meeting yesterday. Mrs. R. Templeton Smith is chairman of the League of Voters in Allegheny County.

'Yellow Dog' Bill On House Calendar

The Judiciary General Committee reported favorably the Kane (Allegheny) measure outlawing yellow dog contracts and the Hoopes (Berks) bill requiring the licensing of private detectives after a public hearing.

State Aid to City Streets Advanced

HARRISBURG, April 13.—The Senate passed, 34 to 12, yesterday, the Williamson bill appropriating $19,250,000 for maintenance of city streets and rural roads not on the state system. The measure goes to the House.

A similar bill — sponsored by Senator Parkinson, of Greene County, and appropriating $17,891,000—was sent to the House Tuesday. The Parkinson bill appropriates the money to the State Highway Department; the Williamson bill permits municipalities to spend the money under department supervision.

Anti-Eviction Bill Up for Passage

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—The Hoopes (Berkes) anti-eviction bill meeting the most drastic demands of recent unemployed marchers on the Capitol was reported last night for passage in amended form in the House. The measure, which would prevent the eviction of any person unable to pay rent, interest or principle on liens due to involuntary unemployment, was amended to limit its action to a six-month period.

Child Labor Curb Dies in Committee

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today had indefinitely postponed action on the Salus (Philadelphia) bill reducing the maximum working hours of children under 16 years of age from 51 to 44 hours a week. The measure, which had received approval of two readings in the Senate, also limited the daily hours to eight a day instead of nine.

Bright Woman Lost 20 Pounds

Feels Much Better

"June 28th, 1932, I started taking Kruschen Salts. Have lost 20 pounds from June 28th to Jan. 10. Feel better than have felt for four years. Was under doctor's care for several months. He said I had gall stones and should have operation. Kruschen did all and more than I expected." Mrs. Lute Bright, Walker, Minn. (Jan. 10, 1933).

To lose fat and at the same time gain in physical attractiveness and feel spirited and youthful, take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

A jar that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at any drug store in the world, but be sure and get Kruschen Salts, the SAFE way to reduce wide hips, prominent front and double chin and again feel the joy of living—money back if dissatisfied after the first jar.

PINCHOT SILENT ON MACK PLEA

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—Connie Mack dashed into the Capitol yesterday, asked Gov. Pinchot to sign a bill permitting communities to vote on Sunday baseball and then dashed off to Washington in time to see his Philadelphia Athletics lose the season's opening game.

The tall manager of the A's carried away with him no promise that the Governor will approve the Schwartz measure for Sabbath baseball and football, forbidden by the 139-year-old Pennsylvania blue law.

Observers indicated that Pinchot may permit the bill to become law without his signature, but in any event Sunday major league ball cannot be played in the state this year. The bill calls for referenda at the November election.

The Schwartz bill is the first Sunday baseball bill ever to reach a Pennsylvania Governor's desk. The Legislature passed it finally Tuesday.

Old Age Pension Bill Gets Hearing

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—A public hearing will be held next Tuesday afternoon on the controversial Sowers (House) old age pension resolutions.

The measures would amend the constitution, if approved by the voters next November, to legalize appropriations for mothers assistance funds and old age pensions.

Faithfully shown by the size of this container is the abundant quantity of olive oil that goes into every cake of Palmolive. When we tell you that 20,000 beauty experts endorse this soap, it is easy to understand why

Enjoy the Beauty Magic of Olive Oil

Nature's own beauty aid

—that's what makes Palmolive green

For 3000 years no surer safeguard of youthful beauty has been found to compare with the soothing oil of the olive tree. Again and again women have learned the folly of entrusting their complexions to beauty aids of unknown content—and have hurriedly returned to the ever-faithful guardian of tender skins—gentle olive oil.

It is the olive oil that gives Palmolive Soap its natural shade of green—no artificial color or masking scent in this famous complexion soap. And now that Palmolive's price is just a little more than half of what it used to be, you may enjoy it not merely as your facial soap, but for your bath—for the entire family!

Now it costs less to keep that Schoolgirl Complexion

LACK OF SCARS FREES HUSBAND

SOMERSET, Pa., April 13.—Thomas Hamilton, of Fayette County, today was free of a court order to pay $10 a month to support a child of Mrs. Mary Hamilton. He proved to the court he was not the woman's husband. Hamilton was arrested while hunting near Bakersville last December. Mrs. Hamilton said the defendant was her husband and that he had deserted her and her one year old child 11 years ago. Hamilton appealed the court order, and proved he never had been married.

When Mrs. Hamilton told the Court her husband had two scars on the left leg Hamilton exhibited the leg and Judge Norman Boose ruled it was sufficient evidence that the prisoner was not the Bakersville woman's husband.

FUNDS NEEDED FOR CAR HOMES

Father Cox is up against an unusual problem. The Pittsburgh Railway Company has donated to him 10 abandoned street cars which he wants to convert into family living quarters at "Coxtown." The plan is practical according to a three-room layout that has been submitted. The street car company will deliver the cars on the rails to Millvale. From that point they must be otherwise transported to Coxtown on Kittanning Pike. Father Cox has a bid of $48 for moving each car from Millvale to his farming community, but, as yet, has not been able to raise the sum required.

He has 10 small families, destitute and unemployed, ready to occupy these "street car homes." These families will also be given a garden plot large enough to raise all the vegetables they can use. But, unless the heart of Pittsburgh opens up, it is feared that he will have to decline the offer of the street car company.

He requires all the funds he gets from the Sun-Telegraph subscription drive to feed the breadline at Old St. Patrick's which never seems to grow shorter. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

MINE RUNNING DESPITE STRIKE

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., April 13.—The Atlasburg mine of the Carnegie Coal Company, where 100 miners were on strike, was running in full today, miners said.

Sixteen pickets from Avella were dispersed by Sheriff J. A. Seaman as the 350 men reported for work.

3 JUDGES SCORE 'TAG' PLAN OF ELECTION

Independents Oppose Coyne Bill as Aid To Machine

Allegheny County's judges weren't agreed today whether they want to wear "tags" in future elections. But many of the younger members of the judiciary forcefully attacked the "tag" bill which was introduced by State Senator James J. Coyne, giving all sitting members of the bench a number based on seniority and requiring non-incumbent candidates to pick a particular Judge to run against.

Under this arrangement Common Pleas Judge James R. Macfarlane would be No. 1, and Judge Ralph H. Smith, the youngest and most recent member Common Pleas Court would be No. 14.

The bill was termed a blow at the independents by Judge Smith and Judges Benjamin Lencher and M. A. Musmanno, of the County Court.

MUSMANNO VIEW

To elect judges under the proposed scheme would be to play "ducks and drakes with our judiciary," declared Judge Musmanno in maintaining that no officeholder has the right to assume that the office he holds is a matter of personal right. Under the plan, he explained, a candidate with 150,000 votes might be defeated by his opponent, at the same time having more votes than the winning candidate in another judicial contest.

Smith will run for election this fall. Lencher will, too. Both are recent appointees.

INDIVIDUAL OPPONENTS

Any aspirant to the bench would have to single out one man to oppose.

The machine could concentrate against an unpopular judge by putting its strongest candidate in the field against him. Thus might it trounce Smith, possibly unbeatable otherwise. If Independents opposed a judge popular with the organization it might nominate one or more other Independents for the post, to split the vote, it was pointed out.

Sitting judges thus would not oppose one another. And this means a lot to Rowand. Rowand and Smith are the only members of Common Pleas up for re-election next fall. Macfarlane probably will not run.

Rowand is known to have had in his possession copies of the first drafts of the bill for some time before Coyne presented it in Harrisburg. Friends quote Rowand as liking the new idea. To the newspapers he would say only:

Not so undecided was Judge Smith, who said:

"The bill represents another attempt on the part of machine politicians to control the judiciary and dictate the selection of judges.

"There is a second objection to the bill. Every lawyer has equal rights with myself to aspire to serve on the bench. This bill would embarrass his candidacy by making it neces-

LITTLE, SOOST, PAPALE NEW 'BOSSES'

Control of Patronage Shifts as Herron Poises Ax

Three of the patronage bosses of Mayor Herron's new administration will be Councilmen Harry Little and William J. Soost and Magistrate Charles Papale.

Little will have the important word to say on the North Side. Papale and Soost will rule the East End, Papale usurping the same powerful throne occupied by Michael DeRosa in the Kline administration.

The new Mayor is expected to make his first important change today or tomorrow. He has promised an "important announcement" that may prove to be the firing of Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh, whose place is slated for Franklin T. McQuaide, city detective of years ago.

PAYROLL SHIFTS

Herron, however, has made no definite statement regarding payroll changes. That some shifts will be made on or before Saturday is a foregone conclusion. The Mayor late yesterday called attention to the fact that the first pay period of the current month ends Saturday. Although he did not elaborate on the remark it was taken to mean that those slated to lose their city jobs will draw their last pay Saturday.

Rumors about City Hall are that Director of Public Safety James M. Clark will soon be succeeded by Attorney Harmar D. Denny, Jr., and that City Treasurer Richard W. Thompson is to be ousted to make way for H. R. Hilliard, a former banker. Hilliard is described as a friend of Councilman George S. Oliver. His appointment would be due directly to Oliver, observers say.

WALDSCHMIDT MAY GO

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt will doubtless move out of his post to make way for his assistant, Thomas M. Benner. Waldschmidt, according to "the boys," has been too thick with ex-Mayor Charles H. Kline. Then, too, Benner is considered a Herron favorite.

It is not generally known, but Mayor Herron may find a new and better place for his close personal friend and neighbor, Traffic Magistrate J. Scott Morgan. Magistrate Morgan is Republican chairman of Herron's ward—the Thirteenth.

Who will be elected to fill the vacant chair in Council and when he will be elected is a matter of guesswork. It is believed that the Coyne-Herron machine will carefully study the coming political campaign before making a selection. A month may pass before action is taken.

Questioning Leader After Rioting

DETECTIVES, DEPUTIES QUESTIONING VALENTINE DELLE DONNE (LEFT) ABOUT A RIOT

Prisoner Delle Donne in Rankin's police station as he was questioned about the battle between massed police, county detectives and deputy sheriffs and a crowd of 300 "unemployed." He, police report, was the mob's ringleader. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

6 HURT, THIRTY ARRESTED IN BATTLE

Leader Asserts Pitt Professors Gave Him Red Literature

One man was in a serious condition and five others were nursing injuries today after a 20-minute melee between police and 300 jobless demonstrators at the threshold of the Hawkins High School, Rankin, last night.

Thirty men charged with rioting and inciting to riot will be arraigned for hearings tonight. Valentine Delle Donne, of 100 Fleet street, Rankin, alleged to be the leader, was taken to the county detective bureau for questioning.

Delle Donne evaded questions as to whether he was a Communist, and said only that he was an "organizer." He said he studied law at Pitt, Duquesne University and Florida University, and told Rankin police professors at Pitt and the Florida institution gave him Communistic literature.

GIVES UP STUDIES

The alleged leader said he gave up his law studies because he was unable to continue his work as a ticket agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and attend classes. He was a student at Pitt and Duquesne only a few months, he said. Pitt authorities say he attended that institution part of one semester in 1927.

Delle Donne said it was not the intention of the demonstrators to break into the Hawkins school.

The injured, who for the most part suffered cuts and lacerations, were Nick Zezza, 51, of 124 Fleet street, Rankin; Edward M. Frank, county detective, 3507 Shady avenue; John N. Chulick, 29, of 132 Fifth street, Rankin; Carmine Forgine, 58, of 300 Fleet street, Rankin; Fred Smacker 40, of 24 Orchard alley, Rankin, and Ben Garrett, 32, 700 Washington avenue, rear, Braddock.

At the scene of the fighting the officers arrested a score of alleged participants, and 10 were lodged in the Rankin Police Station after a raid on the headquarters of the Tri-Borough Unemployed Council in Fleet street.

PROSECUTOR CONSULTED

At 6 o'clock last night, Chief Jordan said, he planted a score of officers inside the school building, and the force was supplemented with a dozen deputies and eight county detectives under John Burke. They waited for the invasion.

Meanwhile, a procession was forming at the Duquesne-Rankin Bridge. Behind a dozen women the line, 300 strong, marched three blocks to the school, where Chief Jordan and five of his regulars met them.

Chief Jordan said they ignored his order to disperse, and when the mob moved to the doors the fight was on. Out poured the police, raining blows from their clubs on every side, while the deputy sheriffs and the detectives who had been waiting a half a block away, attacked from the rear.

And they fought back. Here and there an officer dropped from the fist of a terrorized demonstrator, and it was not until tear gas from the officers' bombs wafted through the air that the tide of the battle turned. The fighting went on for 20 minutes. Many fled and those who remained were taken to the Braddock General Hospital or the police station.

GIRL CHARGES RADIO FRAUD

Police today were checking the operations of Charles Hathaway, 25, of 214 East Lacock street, after they had arrested Paul and Harry Getty, of 1036 Spring Garden avenue. Yesterday Hathaway is alleged to have taken a radio from Miss Mary Spagnola, 22, of 1102 Spring Garden avenue, after he had represented himself as an agent for the concern from whom it was bought. Later Miss Spagnolo notified police, and Hathaway was arrested. The firm denied Hathaway was an employe.

Early today the radio was returned. Miss Spagnolo said the Getty brothers returned it and warned her not to testify against Hathaway. When Magistrate Ray Schneider learned of the recovery of the radio he ordered the arrest of the Getty brothers.

NEW STORE FOR WOMEN HERE

Pittsburgh workers, including many unemployed persons, will be given work in a $30,000 reorganization and alteration plan for the Smithfield street store formerly owned by Lewin-Neiman Company, it was learned today from Boyd's Corporation, which has purchased all assets of the former concern.

Thirty thousand dollars will be spent immediately on new fixtures and store improvements, and additional clerks will be hired. The new store, to be known as Boyd's, will specialize in women's clothing.

The present store's personnel will be kept nearly intact, it was stated. Many have been with the concern for 15 years.

H. A. Koch, manager for 20 years, will continue in that position and will serve also as vice president of Boyd's.

Oppose Homestead Garbage Project

Members of the Homestead Taxpayers' Association last night adopted a resolution condemning the construction of a garbage incinerator on Sixth avenue, Homestead. The resolution charged that the incinerator would be erected in the center of the school and church district.

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, of Pittsburgh, in an address on election reforms, criticized the State Legislature for pigeon-holing many election reform laws during the present session.

Man Hurt as Auto Skids Into Pole

James Davis, 20, of Stowe Township, was treated in the Ohio Valley Hospital for lacerations suffered today when the automobile in which he was riding skidded into a pole on the Moon Run road.

President Repudiates Naval Agreement at Debt Conference

Gabriel Over the White House

Adapted from the novel, "Gabriel Over the White House," and from the motion picture produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer —a Cosmopolitan production.

CHAPTER XI.

Whatever interest the Far Eastern crisis aroused, with its brief and spectacular finish, was speedily forgotten by the more immediate interest in the proposed conference to settle the dominating problem of international debts.

The American people had come to expect material action from President Hammond. There were all sorts of rumors as to how he would handle this dynamite-loaded question, again to the fore in the cabinets of the world powers.

The nation was not to be long in doubt. One sunshiny morning he received the newspaper correspondents in the executive office of the White House, and without preamble stated his views: "Gentlemen," he said calmly, his piercing eye taking in the group of eager listeners, "from the newspapers I gather that there is quite some sentiment to the effect that once again the President is about to be outgeneraled by crafty European politicians.

"That once again America is to walk out of a conference room with empty pockets. You may allay those fears. You may say that America is through with conferences in ROOMS.

"The International Debt Conference scheduled for the White House tomorrow will be held instead on the deck of a private yacht, placed at my disposal against a background of American warships now in Hampton Roads."

The President paused while a gasp of astonishment swept the room. Then he asked: "Any questions, gentlemen?"

A correspondent of a New York daily ventured the thought in the minds of all. "May we draw the inference that the President intends the debt conference to end satisfactorily to America?"

The answer came clear and incisive. "Those debts have got to be paid."

"The President intends to collect by force?" asked another correspondent incredulously.

Representatives Amazed

With a finality which left no doubt in the minds of his hearers the President still again repeated: "Those debts have got to be paid—that is all, gentlemen."

The correspondents rushed away to telephone this momentous interview to their various papers. Within an hour extras announced to the whole nation the President's ultimatum.

"Those debts have got to be paid" became a slogan repeated from one end of the country to the other. The die had been cast and the millions waited at white heat for the coming conference proud of Hammond's forthcoming attitude and wondering what his next step would be.

The amazement of the visiting international debt delegations on learning that the epochal conference to discuss the war debts was to take place aboard a yacht knew no bounds. Cables in code were rushed to the world's capitals—worried diplomats talked cautiously over transocean telephones, but there was nothing to do. The President of the United States had decreed the place of conference and the mystified plenipotentiaries boarded the luxurious craft outwardly suave but inwardly perturbed.

There a further surprise shocked them into whispered rebellion. An array of microphones made it evident that the proceedings were to be broadcast to the world.

It was unheard of — revolutionary — indiscreet — ridiculous—but Hammond was adamant and the microphones remained.

That conference, now familiar in history as one of the milestones in human progress began as Hammond had arranged in a setting in keeping with the occasion.

As the yacht steamed out toward the open there came into view the magnificient array of our imposing navy. The sea was calm, scarcely a cloud flecked the blue of the sky.

I shall never forget the scene as the conference opened. President Hammond, on whom all eyes were focussed, sat unsmiling as the various envoys made their pleas and dilated on extenuating circumstances.

The English ambassador spoke with a conciliating gesture. "We paid when we could, but you can't get blood out of a stone."

"True, true," echoed the German envoy, "to pay your debts means more taxes on our half-starved people—they may burst into open revolution."

"Does the United States want other peoples crushed and starved to exact its pound of flesh?" asked the Italian representative.

The Polish minister, in a voice which he sought to control, remarked suavely: "The money was loaned to my oppressed people to help them free themselves from the yoke of a foreign conqueror."

To that Hammond retorted gently: "America has always been ready to support freedom and oppose tyranny."

"Who," asked the French envoy, with a glance directed at the President, "who sided with the little American colonies when they wished their own freedom? Who helped them with leadership—with men—with money?"

No More Compromises

"Yes," replied Hammond, and his words struck home, "you helped us—because you hated England—yes, you loaned us money, and notwithstanding our meager resources you collected every cent of it within five years after the loan—under threat of war. Let rich France pay America as promptly as the then poor America paid France."

There was a tense silence broken by the plaintive plea of the Belgian minister: "Do you think little Belgium — neutral, unoffending little Belgium — would suffer the ravages of invasion for 10 times the money she owes you?"

A complete change of mood seemed to permeate Hammond. His words came sharp, incisive: "I believe in magnificent isolation for America. I believe that America should have kept out of the war. I believe that she should have kept out of the consequences of the war. I believe that we should have refrained from compromising the debts, and I believe that we should now refrain from conferences with other nations regarding their affairs and their obligations.

"We have already compromised the war debts more than

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 3.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

Poor Chicago, the teachers are trying to get their salaries. The beer bootleggers claim they have been discriminated against, that America overnight wiped out an industry. And right in the midst of all their troubles they are hit by a world's fair. But I believe they will come out of it. In years to come Chicago will be the biggest city in the world.

Soon as Capone gets out and gets back, you will see a big difference. Bernard Shaw lectured on "America." That's about like me lecturing on the atmospheric conditions over the South Poles. He left by police escort for his boat.

INDEPENDENTS ASSAIL JUDGE 'TAG' BILL

sary for him to alienate friends of a sitting judge whom he opposes who might otherwise be for him as well as for the judge."

LENCHER AGREES

Judge Musmanno's indictment of the bill continues:

"It is the office which functions, not the individual. It is the office which is to be perpetual, not the office holder. And even if an office holder be repeatedly elected it is still the office which governs, or judges, or administers, as the case may be, not the office holder.

"To require that non-incumbent judicial candidates shall announce the particular incumbent they intend to try to dislodge, is to make a political contest a personal or private war. . . The public demands and it has the right to demand that public office shall be a public trust and not a personal privilege."

Judges who refused to make any statement on the bill, either because they hadn't had time to study it or were restrained by their judicial position, included Judge George B. Moore, Judge William H. McNaugher, Judge Macfarlane, Judge Sara M. Soffel, Judge John P. Egan, Judge Elder W. Marshall and Judge W. Heber Dithrich.

In favor of the measure is Common Pleas Judge Samuel H. Gardner, who said:

"I think it's a very good bill. It gives a voter an opportunity to choose between men for a particular position, clears up the present hodge-podge."

Judge Thomas P. Trimble, who comes up for re-election to Orphans' Court, supposed it was a good plan saying:

CAMPBELL UPHOLDS PLAN

George J. Campbell, editor of the Legal Journal, is in favor of the bill, for the framing of which he is given much of the credit. He said:

"The best elements of the bar throughout the state are struggling to have this plan adopted where two or more judgeships are to be filled at one time. Politicians heretofore have jumped all over the bill each time it was introduced in Harrisburg because they thought they could do more with the old system than with this fair system.

"It will prevent the sitting judges from having to make the kind of campaigns they've recently been dragged into, and save them from being the object of demands by political organizations who want campaign funds."

The bill would not apply to the Supreme Court. The "tags" would pass after each election to the judges running in the next election.

DAWN SERVICE ON EASTER

With the united young people's societies from more than 500 Allegheny County churches participating, the third annual Easter sunrise service is scheduled for Flagstaff Hill, Schenley Park, at 7 a. m., Easter morning.

The Rev. Dr. A. R. Robinson, pastor of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church, will preach on "An Infidel's Easter," a massed choir of 200, under the direction of Clyde Wolford, will sing.

The Swift Mission Brigade of the Second Presbyterian Church, North Side, will form a huge cross on the hillside during the service. The brigade band, under Lieut. Harry Osborne, will play.

City authorities are assisting by erecting the platform and handling traffic arrangements. Boy Scouts will usher.

The program will be made audible by amplifiers. If the weather is unfavorable the service will be held in the First Baptist Church, Oakland.

they should have been compromised. If your nations want to repudiate their honest obligations, let them do so; but let them take the full odium for such a discreditable performance.

"Either pay your debts or finish this conference by yourselves." He paused for a second and a dry twinkle lit his eyes. "These conferences are too expensive for us."

At this downright statement of his position general consternation was expressed on every face. Some sought to conceal it, but the air of hopelessness that settled over the assembly could not be hidden.

The French ambassador, in a voice which betrayed his pent-up despair, cried out: "We—are—not—able—to—pay."

The President's reply was crushing. "You are able to maintain the heaviest armaments the world has ever known. You are able to subsidize the armaments of allied nations. You are able to plan for future years, but you cannot pay the honest debts you contracted in the late war. There will be no further compromises—no further reductions. Gentlemen, will you pay your debts?"

Agreement Repudiated

This question, direct, demanding an answer equally direct, met with a sullen silence. These men, trained in the school of diplomacy that dealt with glittering generalities, in subtleties clouded with words and permeated with selfishness, looked from one to another until the French spokesman again took up his plea.

"How can the President of a great country be so hard-hearted," he asked, "as to refuse to continue this conference reasonably?"

If the members of the conference hoped against hope that Hammond could be inveigled into more discussions they were speedily disillusioned. "We'll have no more conferences," he announced with a glance that took in the whole assemblage, "because I have never seen the American eagle go into one of those conferences that it has not come out plucked to its pin feathers.

"We have had too many conferences in which America figured as the catspaw of Europe. Very well, gentlemen, I hereby repudiate one of our past conferences which jeopardized American safety—I refer to the naval limitations agreement. As a result of this agreement America destroyed battleships when European nations destroyed blue prints.

"As a result of this agreement European nations and Asiatic nations, too, dictate how many ships and what kind of ships America shall have in the navy which defends her lands and her citizens.

"I hereby repudiate all agreements on naval strength. From now on America refuses to have any foreign nation place a limitation upon the forces which protect our country and our people."

To Build New Navy

"But, Mr. President," protested the French envoy, "you cannot repudiate the signature of your country to an international agreement."

"It is you," returned Hammond, raising an accusing finger, "who have repudiated treaties. It is you who have destroyed credit and confidence and honor among nations. It is you who have made the sacred pledges of nations—the solemnly signed agreements—nothing more than scraps of paper—soiled scraps of paper, stained with disrepute.

"If you can repudiate the debts you owe this country, incurred to save you from destruction, there are no standards of ethics left. You have gone into moral bankruptcy. I can repudiate anything."

A chill silence settled, seemed to penetrate the air as the Italian minister asked: "Does the President realize that his naval policy might be construed as an unfriendly act?"

"Is the President inviting—war?" demanded the French envoy.

"Dear me, no," said Hammond, and suddenly there was a warmth in his voice, "I'm not inviting war—I'm inviting you to take now"—and his arm swept the horizon—"a last look at America's SMALL Navy—a last look at an American Navy controlled by foreign powers. When I get through with America's NEW Navy, America's own navy, it will make all your navies look like a lot of toy ships in a bathtub."

An Important Question

All eyes were directed to the array of warships. The English Ambassador did not trouble to conceal his apprehension. "Mr. President," he asked, "you have made a great record as a humanitarian—a true friend to the American people. Would you plunge them again into the horror of a world war?"

The President met the challenge squarely—unanswerably. "The United States," he replied, "must have the greatest navy in the world because we want PEACE. But to have peace while the nations of the world are preparing to spring at each other's throats we must be able to command peace."

"But," cried the spokesman for England, "you leave us no alternative—tell us—how—how in God's name—we can pay."

To Pendie and me this question marked one of the high lights of this historic meeting. It was evident that Hammond so regarded it. For as he turned a little more squarely toward the microphones which were broadcasting his words over the world he remarked dryly. "I've been waiting for someone to ask me. HOW. I'LL TELL YOU HOW. People of America, I've just seen the pride of the United States Navy, a sight calculated to chill your blood with honest patriotism and glorious pride. Yet when I think of the billions spent on these glorified pieces of scrap iron it makes me despair of humanity."

The implication—the portentous import of his words—stunned the men around him. They bent forward eagerly as he went on.

FOREST QUOTA HERE ENLARGED

As 94 youths remained to be sent tomorrow to complete Pittsburgh's original reforestation army quota of 900, orders have been received to increase the quota by 350.

A detail of 88 left the city this morning for Fortress Monroe, traveling on the Pennsylvania Railroad to Baltimore and then by boat to the training camp, according to Maj. William Buerkle, of the United States Army recruiting station here. This figure, with 152 sent last night, brings the total recommended by the Allegheny County Emergency Association and accepted by the army office to 806. Maj. Buerkle expected the remaining number of the quota to leave here tomorrow morning.

The additional 350 will be sent to Carlisle Barracks, near Harrisburg, Maj. Buerkle said. Assembling of this group will begin with the close of the first quota.

Youths volunteering for the service must be 18 to 25, unmarried with dependents, and now on a relief list. They are recommended by the emergency association.

THUGS HIJACK TRUCK; TIEUP DRIVER

Highwaymen kidnaped a truck driver near Ambridge early today, and while three left him tied with rope in a field near Mt. Nebo, a fourth drove off with the truck containing merchandise valued at $400.

Frank Snyder, of Vandergrift, driver for Andrew Magyan, of 2301 Eccles street, was driving along the Beaver road, between Ambridge and Baden, he related, when a sedan with four men drew alongside, blew a police whistle and shouted for him to stop.

As one of the four jumped to to the truck and sped away, the other three bound Snyder, blindfolded him and took him in their car to a point near Mt. Nebo, where they carried him 20 feet from the roadway and left him.

Working himself loose, Snyder walked several miles to Glenfield and reported the robbery to Patrolman Clem Schofield.

Pittsburgh police broadcast a description of the stolen truck and contents. It contained 24 rugs, a box of stogies, a drum of oil, carton of coffee and a carton of drygoods. The goods were being transported to Cleveland.

JOBLESS, FILM EXTRAS CLASH

BIOT, France, April 13.—(AP.)—A moving picture set at this Riviera Village was under guard today after some 1,500 clashing extras and unemployed actors turned a staged street battle into a real one.

Four participants were taken to a hospital and a score more were slightly hurt.

While 1,200 amateur extras were enacting the street battle yesterday for a film production of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," some 300 jobless professionals tried to tear down the set which represented the old quarters of Paris.

The directors of the French company making the picture ordered former Russian troopers, who were acting in the movie as mounted police, to drive off the invaders.

The melee lasted an hour and finally was quelled by gendarmes and police rushed from the nearby towns of Nice, Cannes and Antibes.

MILITARY RITES FOR WAR NURSE

The body of Katherine Mae Joyce, only Pittsburgh nurse to die in France during the war, will be buried with military honors in Arlington Cemetery, Washington, D. C., Saturday afternoon, April 22.

Members of Katherine Mae Joyce Post, No. 50, American Legion, will accompany the woman, from whom their organization takes its name, to her final resting place. Miss Joyce's body has lain since 1919 in the United Cemetery here.

A graduate of Allegheny General Hospital, Miss Joyce went to France with Camp Hospital No. 21. She received a government citation for conduct under long range shelling while with a group operating on German prisoners near Chaumont. In September, 1918, she died of influenza.

Expenses of this burial will be met by nurses of her post. Her body will be sent to Washington April 21.

ARTIST AUGUST BENZIGER . . . HE PAINTED PITTSBURGHERS

Painted Portraits Of Pittsburghers In 1896

An early associate of Andrew Carnegie, the Thaws, the Phippses and the Fricks, as they sat for portraits when his fame as an artist spread from Europe, August Benziger today had completed a visit to Pittsburgh friends. He returned East preparatory to sailing for his Switzerland estate.

Benziger retired 12 years ago, devoting his time to private interests including two hotels on Lake Lucerne in Brunnen, Switzerland. The famed portrait painter was dinner guest last night of the Wallace H. Rowes, Morewood avenue.

Reminiscing in his Hotel William Penn quarters of the famous persons he has met in Pittsburgh when he first came to America in 1896, Benziger related the Thaws, of whom he had painted four portraits, brought him from Paris. Andrew Carnegie was one of the first prominent men he met. This meeting led to friendships with Charles M. Schwab, Henry C. Frick, and Henry Phipps. He later became art advisor to Frick.

Among prominent persons of the city he had painted were Mrs. Edward Thaw, Miss Amelia Oliver, Prof. John A. Brashear whose portrait is owned by Schwab, Mrs. William P. Snyder and Mr. Snyder, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James Speer Kuhn and Mr. and Mrs. William Speer Kuhn, Mrs. W. J. Critterden, and former Gov. John K. Tener. Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft had sat for Benziger, as well as J. P. Morgan.

Benziger, whose father was the founder of the Benziger publications of Europe and America, started art study at 4 years, prepared for the printing art but decided upon portrait painting.

Father, Son Found Dead of Gas Fumes

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 13.—Carbon monoxide gas caused the deaths of a father and son, police today announced, following rumors of murder and suicide.

Jerry Fisher, 71, and Walter Eugene Fisher, 19, were the victims. The bodies were found when police broke into the dwelling to be confronted by clouds of escaping steam and gas. A hot water heater is believed to have filled the house with fumes. It is believed the deaths occurred late Friday night or early Saturday morning.

PRINCE, CAMPUS CUT-UP, QUITS PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J., April 13.—Prince Prasob Mom Chow Sukhavati of Siam has quit Princeton University and his departure brought both regret and relief today.

His royal highness, it appears cut quite a campus swath as a student and was told, politely, that some other place might be more conducive to his welfare, whereupon the Prince resigned.

QUITS AFTER 'CONFERENCE'

"The Prince was an Oriental. He did not understand American ways. No disciplinary action was taken. He was told he was not doing well here. He was not doing himself any good, and he resigned."

The immediate result of the departure of the Prince will be the reopening of the Campus Club, of which he was a most active member.

NEPHEW OF QUEEN

The club was closed after a series of dances and parties which had the town and Princeton halls buzzing with gossip. Rumor had it that there was drinking of beverages and more potent than 3.2, jolly good times with Princeton's young girls leaving at quite late hours.

The Prince, nephew of Queen Rambaibarni of Siam, entered Princeton last fall. In filling in his application with the name of the person good for his debts he wrote "the King of Siam."

Jenners Man Fined For Liquor Violations

John C. Griffith, of Jenners, Somerset County, was fined $100 and placed upon probation for one year by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, when he pleaded guilty of violating the prohibition law. The indictment charged him with sale and possession of contraband liquor, and maintaing the Quemahoning Hotel as a common nuisance.

Injured by Auto, North Side Man Disappears

A man injured when he was struck by an automobile at Lacock and Federal streets early today was being hunted by North Side police.

Meanwhile, James H. Byers, 32, of 617 Allegheny avenue, or 1711 Greenleaf street, who, police said, admitted hitting the man, treating his wounds and then giving him money for a new pair of shoes was being held on charges of reckless driving and suspicious person, pending the search.

Byers surrendered to police after they said they had made an unsuccessful attempt to find him at the Greenleaf street address. He said the man was not seriously injured.

Piccard Plans Two Flights for Pupils

LE HAVRE, France, April 13.—(AP.)—Prof. Auguste Piccard, encouraged by his reception in the United States, announced on his arrival here that he would organize two more flights into the stratosphere this summer in Belgium.

He said:

"I shall probably not go up myself. My young and enthusiastic pupils will take my place."

ARREST ECHOES BAZZANO CASE

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—Anthony Bonasera, known to police as "The Chief," was arrested today charged with being the head of an extortion gang which has been preying on Brooklyn grocers.

His police records lists 20 arrests and three convictions. Four of the arrests were in murder cases.

On August 17 last he was arrested with 13 others, nine of them from Pittsburgh, in connection with the murder of John Bazzano, Pittsburgh, whose body was found stuffed in a sack in Brooklyn. He was released for lack of evidence, rearrested as a public enemy and again released.

Anthony Columbo, a grocer, picked Bonasera's picture from the rogues' gallery as that of a man who on March 15 entered his store and demanded "$5,000 within 24 hours or see the undertaker."

Why did you buy this NEWSPAPER?

SUPPOSING that, beginning tomorrow, all the newspapers are discontinued. What a furore the public would make. "News! News! We must have news or we will be no better off than the ancients." All right, suppose we give them news but cut out the advertisements.

Then you would discover that politics, the doings of society, notices of fires, accidents, deaths, scandals, sports, the activities of the police and criminals add little or nothing to the real comfort and happiness of this greatest age in the world's history.

Advertising is the NEWS of all the looms, of all the furnaces, of all the laboratories, of all the shops, of all the stores, of all the world, and all working for you.

Because of advertising, luxuries and necessities that once cost a king's ransom are yours at little prices. Advertising pits merchant against merchant, artisan against artisan, producer against producer, for your benefit, forcing out the best there is in everything and telling the world about it.

Read advertising. Keep abreast of today. Advertising furnishes you with facts and opportunities that otherwise you would never know.

TELL IT TO ELSIE

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Much Unhappiness Is Caused By Grown-Up Babies

Is it a wife's first duty to keep a husband pleased with himself?

Should she continually make him feel that he's the First Favorite around the house, and that his comfort is the family's most important concern?

"Willie" thought it was, and that she should.

But if she does? Suppose a baby comes along? What then? Millie can tell you what happened in her case.

Dear Elsie:

That letter from "Willie," who says, so smartly, that a wife's sole duty is to live for her husband and keep him feeling he's a great guy, makes my blood simply boil! The selfish, conceited bonehead!

I want to warn girls against guys like Willie! They can't see anything or anyone but themselves, and, believe me, they're bum specimens as husbands. I should know! I was fool enough to marry one and to fall for the line that "Willie" pulls.

Right now I want to say, "Big Boy, there are other folks in the world besides you who need consideration—and you'd better wake up to that fact before you get in a jam!"

Of course it's true that a girl doesn't have to be highly educated to make a good wife. Plenty of alert, live-minded people manage to be interesting, in spite of the fact that they haven't a lot of schooling. But as for a wife having to center all her interest exclusively on her husband, any man with notions like that is considerably less than a man, I've found out.

A NEW RESPONSIBILITY

When I got married that was what I did. I was pretty young and full of romantic notions, and I was actually flattered that I "meant so much" to my husband that he didn't want me noticing anything else. Well, I learned my lesson—now that it's too late.

I began by thinking I couldn't do enough for him. I waited on him and praised him, and I can see now that I treated him just like a baby. I did everything I could for him, and he told me that I was a "great girl."

Well—then I had twins! And what happened? Why this happened!

I had to do all my own work, and with two babies to take care of I could no longer devote all my attention to him. Then, instead of being man enough to understand what a job I had on my hands, he got sullen and sore. Instead of bucking up and at least sympathizing with me, or trying to help me, he felt abused and sulked, because he was no longer the king pin. He took to feeling sorry for himself, and staying away from home or coming home drunk.

So now, with two babies only a year and a half old, our marriage is just about to go smash.

Now don't imagine that I neglected him for the babies, or shoved him aside, like some women do when babies come. I didn't. But I did expect him to understand, and to shoulder his part of our new responsibility. Instead of that, he caved out on me.

GROWN-UP BABIES

So, girls, before you listen to the line of a guy like Willie just ask yourself—what will happen when our family grows, and he's supposed to be just one of its pillars instead of the main squeeze? And be warned by what has happened to me.

Men like Willie are just grown-up babies. They haven't the sand to be regular, or to take life as it comes. If you can't carry them around on their pet chip, you'll soon find that they're "feeling injured" all over the place, and then where'll you be? In the soup! That's where! With them putting on a Big Martyr Act!

MILLIE.

Yes, youngster, "men like Willie are just grown-up babies." But, thank heaven, the world is full of men who aren't like Willie! For every such Big Pout, there are a hundred men who are splendid partners, and who'll gladly endure any sacrifice if it will make "The Missus and the little Feller happy."

So suppose, just for a change, we ask for letters from some of the happy wives, who'll give us a glimpse into some of the contented homes. Are you such a wife, Mary Ann? And is your husband a Big Pout—or just a Precious Ole Pet?

Fay King Would Avoid Dislikes and Imitations

I DON'T LIKE HER.
I DON'T LIKE HIM
OH DEAR! OH DEAR! THIS HAT AND SCARF WILL NEVER DO TOGETHER
BUT BOTH ARE NICE!
INTUITIVE DISLIKE IS OFTEN A CLASH OF PERSONALTIES
FAY KING

By FAY KING

At times, when we contact certain persons, a kind of repelling feeling comes over us. An aversion and dislike for them. This is called intuition.

It does not necessarily mean that these persons are evil, or dangerous. It is more often just a clash of personalities that do not match, like some colors that should not be worn together.

Our sense of justice urges us to overcome this unfair and unreasonable feeling, but we are seldom successful. There will always remain a certain discord which is bound to prove an unpleasant attribute to a forced friendship.

Better to be distantly polite, and avoid irritating one another. It is foolish to risk marriage in spite of such an adverse impression. Yet some have!

Noel Is Assigned to Light Signal Flares

Hugh Grantland put a firm hand upon my arm as he warned Harry Underwood to rush everybody back against the pine trees encircling the glade in which we were standing. The words were hardly out of his mouth before he had run with me to the shelter of a little irregular jog in the circle of trees, so that while in the circular glade in one sense, in another I was outside it.

"You'll be safe here, I think," Hugh said. "But don't stir! I'll be back."

He turned away and began to skirt the trees. He was running beautifully, effortlessly, and I remembered that he had been a crack member of his track team at college. Then the darkness swallowed him up. In less than a minute he was back, still keeping close to the trees, and followed by all the rest of our party except Wynne. He ranged us all in line against the trees, warning us not to move from our places.

Wynne came dashing back as he finished and handed something to Hugh, who took it and then spoke quickly, incisively.

"Go back to the men, Wynne, and keep them on their toes. Mr. Underwood and I will be there to give you the signal. It may be delayed a minute or two."

FLYING AUTO-GYRO

He turned to us as Wynne vanished into the darkness. In my mind three distinct trains of thought were going on. With one I was paying attention to Hugh. With another I was noting that we were upon the other side of the glade—I judged directly across—from the opening through which we had entered. With the third I was agonizedly listening to the whirr of Dicky's motor, which now seemed directly above us.

"For some inexplicable reason," Hugh began, and I resentfully imagined that there was disapproval in his voice, "Mr. Graham is flying an autogyro tonight, which can only mean that he intends to make a landing somewhere near here. This is the only open space near the shack where there is room to land an auto-gyro," Hugh went on, "so he undoubtedly will come down here. He does not know that we are here, so he will make no provision for that in coming down. Do not move from your places, and—Noel!"

"Right here, sir. What can I do?"

"Mr. Graham must not come down on this side of the glade if we can prevent him," Hugh said. "I want you to take these flares, go to the other side, kneel down and light them. From one side, they will not show above the trees, but he will be able to see them. You'll have to watch sharp, though. He'll come down fast. Don't forget that in the excitement of tending the flares. Come on. I'll go with you and show you how they're done. Then I'll have to leave you to yourself. Now, remember," sternly to the rest of us, "do not move!"

WOMEN ALARMED

He walked rapidly away with Noel, both keeping close to the trees, while from overhead came the steady drone of Dicky's motor.

"Oh! What is he doing?" I whispered tensely, for I was almost beside myself with fear. I am always terrified when Dicky is in the air, and there is a valid reason for my jangled nerves. Never have I been able to blot from my memory that day at the Mineola air field during the war, when I stood helpless while Dicky high above me battled futilely and gamely with a wing treacherously cut, and finally crashed to earth, saved from death only by his own superhuman skill.

So absorbed was I in my battle to keep from shrieking my fear aloud that I hardly noticed Hugh's return, as he passed close to us and on to the place where I knew the men were waiting for the attack upon the shack. But I heard with quickened terror Harry Underwood's answer to my whispered query.

"He's circling above us, getting ready to shut off the motor and come down. Ah! Noel has the flares going. I hope he remembers to watch the Dicky-bird's boat."

Mary clutched my arm hard. "I can't stand this," she whispered, with her lips close to my ear. "Don't give me away, but I'm going to Noel."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

An Error?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently my husband and I were invited to a friend's home for dinner. Being unable to accompany him, I followed later. Before my arrival, this friend and my husband repaired a light socket in the tenant's apartment upstairs. Arriving before they were finished, I went upstairs to see if they were about finished.

My husband claims that I made a mistake in going into a stranger's home, even though he was there. I feel differently about it. I cannot see where I made a mistake, even though I wasn't acquainted with the tenant.

Please give us your opinion.

SINCERE READER.

I agree with you that you didn't do anything especially incorrect, but on the other hand, I agree with your husband that it would have been just as well if you had waited for him to return.

Chlorosis a Penalty of Faulty Diet

Many young women and some young men suffer from anemia. There is a less common ailment known as chlorosis. It is confined to young women. Sometimes this ailment is called the "green sickness."

Dr. Copeland

This disease is indicated by a peculiar green color of the skin. The appetite is lost. There are languor, listlessness and decided unwillingness to indulge in exercise. There are likely to be frequent attacks of fainting.

Chlorosis is not confined to the hard-working city girl. Yet there can be no doubt that the conditions surrounding the country girl are not so likely to produce it.

There is just one thing about the country that should be considered by all of us. Boards of health have not been so active in most rural communities for the past 25 years as they have been in cities. Consequently, it is probably true that open windows are less the rule in rural districts than in the city. Of course, until very recently, furnaces were unheard of in the country districts, and, to preserve the heat of the stove, there was a temptation to keep the windows closed.

The frequency with which we meet anemia in the cities is a shame. Sit in a street car any day and observe the people who enter, especially the women. When they first arrive, and for a period of five or 10 minutes, the cheeks are red. Unfortunately, however, as soon as the effect of the exertion of catching the car has worn off, the color fades away and the face is as white as wax, unless rouge has been applied.

There are tens of thousands of such persons in New York City, and they are to be found in every commercial or industrial community.

It speaks well for industry, however, that large employers of labor are now organizing and maintaining well-equipped welfare departments. Labor organizations have health and sanitation committees. Health authorities and state industrial commissions are aiding all these efforts. Intelligent welfare legislation is being employed. All in all, the prospects seem bright for the removal of many factors that have militated against health.

Anemia and chlorosis will be less common in the future. They are the penalties of wrong eating, wrong habits and personal neglect.

Answers to Health Queries

E. E. B. Q.—What do you advise for an oily skin? Would an astringent be of any great value?

A.—Correct your diet and keep the system clear. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. The use of an astringent should help temporarily.

Contract Bridge

-:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Problem of Defense

The problem of defense in Contract Bridge is one that presents itself in varied forms. The player who defends a hand in a routine manner generally finds, when the score is being written up, that he might have defeated the contract had he applied himself to the problems of play rather than by lazily following the path of least resistance and the one that required no exercise of ingenuity on his part.

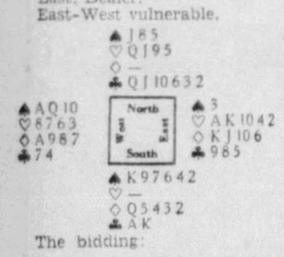
East, Dealer.

East-West vulnerable.



The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♡	1 ♠	2 ♡	2 ♠
3 ♡	3 ♠	3 N T	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

North and South, defensively, had reached a contract of four spades after West had bid three notrump, and West, certain of at least 2 trump tricks with a partner strong enough to open the bidding, doubled for a penalty. This was passed all around and the heart 3 opened. South ruffed, then laid down the Ace and King of clubs and followed with a small spade. At this point West has only one course which will assure the defeat of the contract, and in the actual game he failed to follow it. The spade must be won with the Queen and another round of spades taken with the Ace. Now, if West gives the Dummy a ruff by leading a diamond, the contract must inevitably be defeated as it removes the only entry card which permits the making of the established clubs.

The rare defense of forcing the short hand to ruff is the only effective one in this instance.

Today's Question

Please explain the scoring of overtricks at an undoubled notrump contract.

Answer: Odd-tricks (all tricks taken over the book of 6) are valued the same whether contracted for or not—that is, the first, third, fifth and seventh tricks, 30 points each; the second, fourth and sixth tricks, 40 points each. For example, if Declarer, at a one notrump contract, succeeds in taking two-odd, he scores 30 points in the trick score and 40 points in the honor column. If Declarer, at a two notrump contract, succeeds in taking three-odd, he scores 70 points (30-40) in the trick score and 30 points in the honor column. If the contract is three notrump and Declarer takes six-odd, he scores 100 points (30-40-30) in the trick score and --0 points (40-30-40) in the honor column.

Household Hints

Keep a piece of flannel under the needle of your sewing machine. It will never get rusty and work will not be soiled.

After washing windows with a chamois leather, rub them with soft tissue paper. This will produce a brilliant polish.

After oiling a sewing machine, sew through a piece of blotting paper. This will prevent any surplus oil from soiling material.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair -With- Patricia Pitt

What we're anticipating most of all in the whirl of events to follow Easter is the calendar of society weddings.

And though all of them will be much more simple in detail than pre-depression weddings, a wedding is a wedding for all that, and something we all look forward to eagerly.

Neil Stewart Zang, the William Zang's daughter, who'll wed George Cummings Stephenson, of Pittsburgh, son of the Frank Stuart Stephensons, of Galesburg, Ill., on the final Saturday in April, the twenty-ninth, has named her attendants.

Bridal Party

Mrs. George Z. Fencil, of Alton, Ill., formerly of Pittsburgh, will be matron of honor, and Martha Edmonson, Betty McCance, Alice Rust and Laura Collord will be bridesmaids.

Laura, who's the George L. Collords' daughter, will return to Pittsburgh for the wedding. She's been abroad this year with her mother, spending the past several months in Geneva, Switzerland.

Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Juniors is making plans for a spring bridge to be held on Sunday afternoon, April 23, at the Hotel Schenley. This affair, which will be the last official gathering of the current social season, is open to members and their friends.

Mrs. Nathan Balmuth is chairman and has named as members of her committee Mrs. Morris Hirschfield, Miss Eleanor Kaufmann, Miss Sophia Askenase, Miss Beulah Wolken, Mrs. Harry Epstein, Miss Violet Ziff, Miss Ruth Hamburg and Miss Madelaine Half.

Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Morris Hirschfield.

North Avenue League To Give Play May 11-12

The North Avenue Epworth League is planning to produce a three-act play, "An Old Fashioned Mother," a dramatic parable of a mother's love, on Thursday and Friday evenings, May 11 and 12. The plot is taken from William Carlton's poem, "Over the Hills to the Poor House."

The play is better known to the legitimate stage and in the motion pictures as "Over the Hills." A special musical setting has been arranged for the play.

The cast includes Miss Sarah Smith, Arthur J. Kreuger, Miss Dorothy Sweeney, Oliver N. Douds, Miss Ellen Henne, Frank Fisher, Miss Ellen Cunningham, Robert Henderson, Miss Helen Paslawsky, Filson Williams, and Miss Vivian Knoch.

The production is under the direction of Allan Shay.

Dormont C. E. Society To Hold Country Fair

An opportunity of witnessing once again an old-fashioned country fair will be presented to the people of Dormont on Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Dormont Presbyterian Church.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

I'm not supposed to use this routine until tomorrow, and all that sorta hooey . . . But I'm keyed up about some things and I want to get them into print . . . That Gene Fowler tribute to Wilson Mizner in the H'wood Reporter (the movie colony's up-and-at-'em movie news collector) still rings in my ears . . . Hype Igoe and Damon Runyon, who were pals of Mizner, and knew him so well, naturally prepared grand accounts of a one-time Broadwayfarer . . . I laid off—because it was never my good fortune to meet Mizner—although he sent me a gag now and then, or a nice note . . . But it is Gene Fowler's piece that I am saving—it is that good . . . Said Gene: "But to the ones who knew him best, he will be remembered for his inner sentimentalities, his unflagging kindness, his courageous struggles—for those lived beneath the glamorous mask . . . And anyone who tries to write of him as one apart from the era in which he moved will fail—and will deserve to fail. And anyone who attempts to over-sentimentalize his virtues, and to under-state his lovable vices, will be doing an insult to one who laughed as heartily at himself as he did at a merry-go-round world, with its gas-inflated riders on sawdust horses . . . No, do not ask me to attend his funeral, for I do not think Wilson is dead so long as one atom of his legend remains; so long as one note of that ribald laughter lingers in the far places where the gods catch good echoes in nets of finest silk . . . He will be remembered for his faults long after we are forgotten for our virtues . . . God got very bored on that Monday night and simply had to call Mizner home."

Far be it from one of his worshippers to steal his stuff, but call it being George-M-Cohany or what you like—I like this "President's Day" plan better than when it was first suggested . . . "President's Day" is important for several reasons. . . . We have a Mother's Day, Father's Day and so forth . . . A President's Day should be on Sunday, April 30th—the day before May 1—the day when the Communistic Reds land on all front pages with their activities . . . If all American citizens went to their respective churches on that Sunday, April 30th—that would be the front page news on May 1, a Monday. . . . In fewer words, the Red, White and Blue movement would shove the Red hoodlums off the most conspicuous page of a newspaper. . . They are like other hams—and when they don't get terrific publicity, they pout, too . . . But most important of course, is to show President Roosevelt how grateful we all are to him for his action and results—and to pray a little while for his continued good health.

Leave it to Elinson to get gay best—he says: "Aw, this beer has only made things worse. I've been drinking so much I see two depressions!" . . . The Club Richman, erroneously reported as collapsing—didn't and is planning for a beer garden in the near future. The Richman merely unloaded its overhead—by letting out 10 dancers and others, and the girls who were released naturally thought the place was closing . . . The newspaper hero of the Akron disaster was Jimmy Ritchie, a young copy boy at the City News Ass'n . . . He will be one of the better newspapermen some day, watch and see . . . After putting in a hard night at the office, working overtime on the fatal accident, he went to the Coast Guard radio station on Staten Island near where he dwells . . . To see what he might pick up in the line of news on the Akron crash . . . And the kid picked up the first news of Lieut. Commander Wiley's report on the catastrophe—which every paper in the world was trying to get! . . . Wiley had been picked up by a Coast Guard boat, after being taken from the German freighter which rescued him . . . And while on the Navy boat he radioed the first report to Washington on what had really happened! . . . And there was little Jimmy Ritchie, a copy boy, the only real newspaperman on the job! . . . O-Kay, Jimmie Ritchie! An orchid to you!

There ought to be a stiffer sentence for petty crooks such as Jack Stein, of Brooklyn, who has been getting away with second-rate crime stuff too long—by using other people's names . . . He's the bird who has been using my name here and there, and he's the same small-time criminal who told the Camden, N. J., police that his name was Charles Eberstadt . . . My name doesn't matter . . . But the name of Charles Eberstadt, an honor student at Brown University, might have remained on the police blotter at Camden—had it not been for my reprinting the Camden paper's story about Stein's arrest . . . Eberstadt, the honor student, whose family is among the respectables in this town, Miami and Providence, is an upright and honest young man—and I apologize to him for my being deceived by the thief in Camden . . . Who, of course, also misled the Camden papers and the Camden police—by saying that his name was Charles Eberstadt . . . I reprinted the story about his capture only because the papers there stated that he posed as "a representative of Walter Winchell, the columnist"—And Eberhardt and his kin, who have been unusually calm about it all—but certainly expect to see this paragraph published—should also know that the police there and all of us might never have known that the prisoner's name was really Jack Stein—were it not for republication of the tale here—Because Stein (as Eberstadt) had already been convicted and sentenced to four months in the Camden jail . . . After the story here—they investigated further—and learned his real name, and that he was wanted in several other cities . . . So an orchid to me.

WORK DISPLAY AT DIXMONT

Decked in state colors of blue and gold, sturdy teams pulling harrows, a seeding machine, and a wagon loaded with specimens from the poultry yard passed in review, followed by white-clad farmhands leading blooded Jersey cattle from the Dixmont herd of 41 head.

The institution, according to Dr. Hutchison, does much to support itself. In the workshop, machinery is repaired, welding is done, and harness made and repaired.

'Henry VIII' To Be Renovated For Bard's Birthday On Tech Stage

By GEORGE SEIBEL

The dramatic season about to close has not brought a single Shakespearean play to Pittsburgh. And next week comes the Bard's birthday. He'll get his annual wreath, we know—"there's rosemary, that's for remembrance"—otherwise he would be quite forgotten. No, not quite! The Baconians won't let him be forgotten. But they are forgetting Bacon. Just now the plays are being blamed on Edward de Vere, seventeenth Earl of Oxford. Eva Turner Clark has written a new book on "The Satirical Comedy 'Love's Labor Lost'," proving it to herself. It's almost as good as a jigsaw puzzle, but the busy world will keep on believing the plays were written by Shakespeare or another fellow of the same name.

Mr. Seibel

His last play, "Henry VIII," in which he had the help of John Fletcher (junior partner in the Beaumont and Fletcher drama factory), is to be presented 10 times in the Tech Little Theater by the School of Drama, beginning next Thursday—So after all the season will not be quite barren. And if the Dracomitra Players on the South Hills carry out their intention of giving open-air performances of "As You Like It," many people will like it well enough.

Suppose the plays were written by Ignatius Donnelly in collaboration with Mrs. Pott. What difference does it make?

LOOK TO FIRE INSURANCE!

But the authorities of Tech had better look to their fire insurance if they are going to put on "Henry VIII." This is the play that burned down the Globe Theater when it was first presented. Some wadding from a cannon fired in a salute fell blazing on the thatched roof of the theater—"this wooden O," as Shakespeare called it—and the result was a grand bonfire. Many Shakespeare manuscripts must have been burned, to give the Baconians a chance to ask where they are. Why don't they produce "Hamlet" in Bacon's hand?

"Henry VIII," last produced in Pittsburgh by Beerbohm Tree, who played Wolsey, while Sydney Greenstreet played the adipose Adonis, is a historical drama full of propaganda. So was "Richard III," which blackened the character of a good king who lost his horse and a battle and his crown, the winner being Henry VII, ancestor of Good Queen Bess, who was Shakespeare's most indulgent patroness.

But "Henry VIII" was propaganda for Queen Bess's mother, Anne Boleyn, who first lost her head and married Henry and later lost it when he divorced her.

A GLORIOUS SPECTACLE

Will they have enough costumes, cannon, farthingales, madrigals, cardinal's hats and fur of the black jennet to put "Henry VIII" on the Tech stage properly? Well, B. Iden Payne will see to that.

This is the twentieth annual production in honor of the Bard—and there should be no shortage of halberds, hautboys, silver maces and pillars. The scene, it is rumored, is laid in Reno.

Originally this historical pageant play carried the subtitle, "All Is True," which confirms the suspicion of propaganda. On the three hundred and sixty-ninth anniversary of Shakespeare's birth we can forgive him a little press-agentry for the administration. But we'd like to know how much of the royalty was collected by John Fletcher, who is supposed to have written most of this play. Every one agrees that Shakespeare wrote Wolsey's Farewell Address, and some think Ben Jonson wrote the Prologue.

There are great acting parts in the drama — Katharine, Anne, Wolsey and Henry—but it is first of all a spectacle, a parade of pomp and circumstance—a poetic hint that the circus is coming! And there's also a reference to "bumbards" (ale-barrels) by the Lord Chamberlain which may have something to do with the return of 3.2 Brew.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Robert Lowes, a member of the cast of "When Ladies Meet," Rachel Crothers comedy coming to the Nixon next week, is around town. The company is laying off for Holy Week and when the Washington engagement ended last Saturday all of the company except Mr. Lowes hit it for New York. Bob said a week among friends in Pittsburgh would suit him. Y'see he used to be a member of George Sharp's company down in the Pitt. That was in 1929, and stock was going strong in the theater. Seats for "When Ladies Meet" are on sale now in the box office of the Nixon, where it will open Monday as the fifth subscription offering of the American Theater Society. It is the joint production of the author and John Golden.

* * *

The annual musical production of the Pitt Cap and Gown Club, "All to the Point," to be given in the Nixon the week of April 24, as stated previously in this department, relates to that part of Pittsburgh known as The Point—or Fort Pitt. The period is colonial, and a number of "first families" are represented among the characters of the operetta, the book of which is by G. Norman Reis. Gus A. Schnabel, Dr. Benjamin Levant, John M. St. Peter, Bernard Rosenson, Harold Levenson and Charles Textor are the composers.

Reginald Denny has gone in for independent film production, and has Claudia Dell as his leading woman in the first picture of the new deal for himself...When Helen Hayes returns from a vacation on the other side she will go to work on her next M-G-M film, "Night Flight"...Because Herb Williams was barred from visiting an actor friend in the Radio City Roxy, he insisted on a special clause in the contract permitting visitors to his dressing room when he was signed to play there... Teddy Joyce has organized his own orchestra, which has just made its debut in night club near Culver City, Calif...London will see its own version of "Music In the Air," with Mary Ellis in the leading role.

Pittsburgh Man's Play Opens May 1

"It Happened Tomorrow," billed as a prophetic comedy by Leo A. Levy, of Pittsburgh, will open on Broadway, Monday, May 1. Helen Raymond and France Bendsten are being featured, and other players include Barry Townly, Anne Dayton, Winifred Cahoon, Frances Sage, John D. Stradley, Jack Voegtlin, Donald Douglass, Therese Rossiter, Alfred Jenkin and Grenna Sloan.

Speaks on 'Russia' At Sorority Tea

Mrs. I. Mouromtseff will speak on "Russia" at a Kappa Alpha Theta tea in the sorority house, Neville Street, Oakland, Saturday afternoon. Ten hostesses will pour.

Comedy

Frieda Inescourt plays one of the leading roles in "When Ladies Meet," which will be in the Nixon all next week as the fifth play in the subscription series for the season.

War, Jobless On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

With his camera and sound recording equipment on the front line, a daring Hearst Metrotone News cameraman made thrilling pictures of the Chinese army's retreat from the Great Wall at Ku Pei K'Ou on the border of Jehol Province. The pictures are presented in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News and are the first of the final stand of the Chinese against the invasion of the Japanese. Rifle and machine gun fire and the bursting of shells can be plainly heard. The Globe Trotter gives a vivid description of the battle.

More than 18,000 jobless men, vanguard of the army of 250,000, are seen starting on their way to civilian conservation camps for the work of reforestation inspired by President Roosevelt.

Pictures from many points show the nation rejoicing over the return of beer. Included are scenes in cabarets. Six huge horses are seen hauling a truck through New York streets to the Empire State Building, where ex-Gov. Al Smith is presented with a case of beer.

In Rome, Mussolini reviews the Fascisti air force. More than 4,000 pilots march past and salute Il Duce.

Harrowing pictures from the Mississippi flood area show many miles of the countryside inundated.

Dot and Joel Have Story Assigned

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, April 13.—Forget about the various stories announced as the first co-starring picture of Dorothy Jordan and Joel McCrea. The latest plan is to introduce the team in E. Arnot Robertson's "Three Came Unarmed."

Yes, this is the story that was planned for Katharine Hepburn, but Merian C. Cooper has decided that the Hepburn time will be fully occupied with "Morning Glory."

In assigning the Robertson novel to the girl Hollywood says he is going to marry, Cooper gives her a colorful vehicle. The book tells the experience of three young people—the movie may cut it down to two—who leave the almost savage country where they have been raised and go to live in cosmopolitan London.

Al Green was to have directed Hepburn in this picture. Presumably he will remain at the megaphone.

* * *

A new drunk story had all the stars laughing at the Little Club party. Sidney Lanfield was the first to pas it on to me.

It seems a souse got onto a bus and sat down next to a woman. After giving her frowning glances for several blocks, he leaned over and growled:

"Madam, you're an extraordinarily homely woman."

Outraged, his victim sought to wither him.

"Well sir," she said, "I can't help that."

The drunk's brow became even more beetled. He shook his finger in the woman's face.

"Yah!" he cried, "you're doing it just to aggravate me."

* * *

No, I'm not going to tell you any more about the Lilyan Tashman-Hedda Hopper style feud. At least not unless there are major casualties. I'm no fool. I'm taking cover. . . Poor Esther Ralston. She has a suit on her hands to collect her film salary, she has been nursing her stepdaughter since an automobile accident and now thieves have stolen $1,500 worth of oriental rugs from her home.

Didn't we all say the Alice White-Cy Bartlett friendship was cold? Well, the two had their heads very close together at the Beverly Wilshire. What to think about it . . . Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., were dining there again, too. Doug asked Joan, banteringly, if she would go to Europe with him this summer. Said she: "Surely I will" . . . Eddie Hillman was playing host to Mona Maris. He wasn't taking even a glass of beer . . . Joan Bennett and Gene Markey were showing the sights to sister Barbara . . . And Connie Talmadge, in a little Scotch cap, was dancing with Lloyd Pantages.

* * *

Sunday was Elisabeth Allen's birthday and Howard Hughes helped her celebrate the early hours of it at the Little Club. This producer will be flying East in a week. He plans to spend the summer there . . . It's to be a rendezvous in Spain for Ruth Chatterton and George Brent and Ronald Colman . . . Anna May Wong is leaving here for Europe, too. She'll tell Hollywood goodbye on Friday.

Cottons Are Smart and Thrifty

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

You'll want to plan a new wardrobe this season . . . but you need not be extravagant about it, especially when you "sew your own." The advent of cottons to be worn morning, noon and night, is a great help to limited budgets. They're inexpensive, fresh and neat . . . and easy to keep that way! Take this charming model, for example. Select any embroidered batiste, then the rever flares and drop shoulders will perk up beautifully and a ribbon sash will add a bright splash of color. Dimity, lawn, swiss, or organdie would be equally lovely, and inexpensive.

Pattern 2589 may be odered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards 36-inch fabric, and 1¼ yards 2½-inch ribbon. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

'PEEPER' HURLS 3 DOWN STAIRS

UNIONTOWN, April 13.—Investigating the turn of a key in the lock of the room where they were dressing, Mildred Ritz, 17; Helen Ganzy, 21, and Jeannette Ritz, 15, made a gallant effort to capture an intruder.

They had the best of the fight until they moved too close to a stairway, down which they were pitched by a masked unknown man.

Scantily clad the three fell in a heap at the bottom of the steps. Patrons in a restaurant below, attracted by the noise of the battle and the screams of the trio as they tumbled down the steps, rushed to the apartment above. They forced open a barred door but found a window leading to the porch roof open. The masked terror had departed.

The three girls suffered painful bruises.

OIL MAGNATE'S WIFE IN RENO

RENO, Nev., April 13.—(INS.)—Mrs. Henry Huddleston Rogers, wife of the multimillionaire Standard Oil magnate, today was a resident of Reno, presumably to file suit for divorce, it was learned from an authoritative source.

She declined to see interviewers. She is residing at a fashionable divorce colony hotel.

Mrs. Rogers, the former Mrs. Basil Miles, Philadelphia, was married to Rogers in 1929.

Sharpsburg Seizes Penny Slot Machines

Complaints to Sharpsburg Council last night caused it to order Chief of Police Chester Zygello to start a drive on penny slot machines in the borough. Councilman Lawrence Bragg said that he had received complaints that machines were in stores near schools. Zygello reported that he seized six machines yesterday.

W. H. WOODIN'S MOTHER DIES

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. C. R. Woodin, 86, mother of Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin, died early today at the Woodin home at 32 East Sixty-fourth street.

Mrs. Woodin was reported to have suffered a stroke of paralysis Sunday and had been critically ill since then. She died at 4:20 a. m. today.

Mary Dickerman Woodin was born November 24, at Harford, Pa., the daughter of Dr. Clark Dickerman. She was married in 1865 to Clemuel Ricketts Woodin, who died in 1931. Clemuel Woodin was one of the founders of the American Car and Foundry Company, which William Woodin headed at the time of his appointment to the Roosevelt Cabinet.

The Secretary of the Treasury was her only son. She is also survived by Payson Kingsbury Dickerman, a brother, of Milton, Pa.

Burial will be at Berwick, Pa., on Saturday afternoon.

HEAVENS! THEY'RE TALKING ABOUT ME
NEXT DAY . . . KOLYNOS PLEASE.
MONDAY WHITER
TUESDAY MUCH WHITER
WEDNESDAY SPARKLING WHITE!
LATER: YOU'VE THE MOST KISSABLE SMILE OF ANY GIRL I KNOW. IT CERTAINLY GETS ME, AND HOW! FLATTERER!

HOW IT WORKS
IF YOU THINK yellow, unsightly-looking teeth are natural—do this: Start using just a ½ inch of Kolynos on a dry brush twice daily. In 3 days you'll be amazed. Teeth will look 3 shades whiter!
For Kolynos contains two important ingredients that literally work wonders with stained, off-color teeth. One erases stain and dingy film—foams into every fissure and washes away decay-causing germs. The other ingredient kills millions of germs that cause most tooth and gum troubles—helps make teeth sparkling, flashing WHITE!

HOW can these expensive coffees COST YOU SO LITTLE

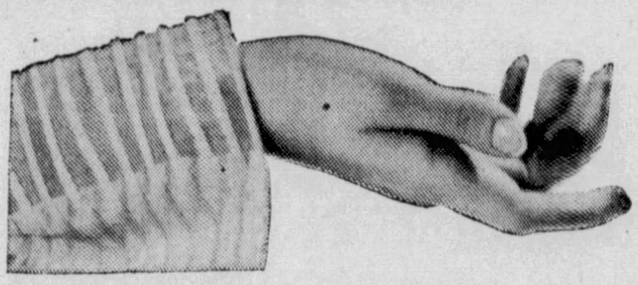
BOKAR COFFEE VIGOROUS AND WINEY 25¢ lb.

Equal in quality, though different in flavor, these coffees are packed in the bean, ground fresh in the store. Bokar also packed "steel-cut."

A & P Coffees are expensive coffees—at the plantations in South America. As the world's largest coffee buyer, we always have first choice of the crops. We pay an extra premium, when necessary, to obtain the quality we insist upon.

But these fine coffees cost you little because we bring them to you from the planter direct—bought, shipped, distributed, roasted and sold—all by A & P and all at one small profit.



And because they are roasted in our widely distributed coffee roasting plants, we are able to deliver them frequently to your neighborhood A & P Store, inexpensively packed, still in the bean, with all the flavor of freshly roasted coffee protected by nature's own unbroken seal.

Your coffee is then ground before your eyes exactly right for your method of making—and the aroma of oven-fresh coffee in every A & P Store is your guarantee of the natural freshness of A & P Coffee.

This is A & P Coffee Service. No other coffee merchant has it. So A & P alone can offer you these expensive coffees at these low prices.

AND REMEMBER, the coffee you like best is the best for you, no matter what it costs.

STOCKS SPURT ON COMMODITY STRENGTH

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—The stock market turned abruptly upward after midday today, as bullishness received fresh stimulus from strength of commodities.

After a listless morning, trading quickened on the advance, and many issues registered gains of 1 to 3 points. Strong support for wheat, after a sag in the early dealings, evidently gave momentum to the movement in shares. Cotton, sugar, silver and several other commodity markets were firm.

Strength in shares was particularly notable in those issues calculated to benefit from higher commodity prices. Pronounced weakness of the American dollar in foreign exchange dealings gave new life to the discussion of possible inflation. Foreign exchange dealers said selling of the dollar abroad seemed to represent fresh bear speculation, evidently based on the urging of inflation by some members of Congress. Nevertheless, usually well-informed quarters in the financial district understood that according to present plans such inflationary steps as might be taken would be through expansion of credit.

While some conservative quarters in Wall street viewed the advance with some skepticism, in view of the low level of corporate earnings, others felt that first quarter reports had been largely discounted, and expressed much encouragement over reports of business improvement in various lines in the last fortnight. Reports of last week's movement of freight by individual carriers indicated that the total to be published Saturday would show some recession from the previous week, but that it would be less than seasonal.

CAPITAL NEWS BOOSTS GRAINS

CHICAGO, April 13.—Big buying that started afresh late today simultaneously with new steps at Washington toward currency inflation hoisted wheat to above any quotation yet this season.

Adding to the upward momentum of values was word that the administration farm mortgage bill had been adopted by the House of Representatives. Prices moved up about 2 cents a bushel for wheat after being ½ cent lower early. Advances in foreign exchange were taken as confirming that inflation moves were being given more serious general attention.

Wheat closed strong, 1⅜-2 cents above yesterday's finish. Corn, 1⅛-1½ up, oats ½-¾ advanced, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

Activity Slack When Security Prices Decline

By B. C. FORBES

A GOOD SIGN: Lately when stock prices have begun to move downward, activity was slackened; dealings have exhibited most animation when quotations took an upward turn.

Mr. Forbes

This is interpreted by Wall street as signifying that there are more prospective buyers than sellers on the sidelines eagerly waiting for a cue. The reasoning manifestly is that there is more danger of missing the market on the buying side than of being unable to liquidate.

But you never can tell how suddenly speculative sentiment can perform a somersault.

The New York Stock Exchange, it is interesting to recall anent the present investigation into the New York curb's unlisted securities, used to have an unlisted department. The present Chief Justice Hughes opened a trail to it when conducting his historic insurance investigation in 1907. As a result of his recommendation, the exchange abolished the department, thus obviating need to pass legislation.

A veteran of Wall street, recounting this, declares that the curb exchange is today doing what the larger exchange gave up doing almost a quarter of a century ago. But, he adds:

"The present investigation means that regulation has once more caught up with this injustice to the public."

In view of current consideration of proposed legislation regulating security issues, it is pertinent to note this conclusion expressed in the Hughes' report:

"We have given consideration to the subject of verifying the statements of fact contained in the papers filed with the application for listing, but we do not recommend that either the state or the exchange take such responsibility. Any attempts to do so would undoubtedly give the securities a standing in the eyes of the public which would not in all cases be justified."

For any one body to attempt to pass upon the merits of every piece of new financing, on every new bond and note and stock issue, would be utterly impracticable. If the task were done conscientiously, thoroughly, intelligently, a staff of staggering size would be essential, and even then it is inconceivable that disastrous delays would not frequently, even chronically occur. In other words, the delicate, vital problem of financing American development, American progress, would be bedevilled.

On the other hand, should the job be done superficially, perfunctorily, the rank and file of investors would be grossly misled, misled into believing that, because a security had been sanctioned, it must necessarily be trustworthy, attractive, safe.

PRIVATE BANKERS are uneasy. They can't tell what may be in store for them. They find themselves, in very truth, facing a "new deal."

Public sentiment assuredly has become unfriendly to the nation's bankers and banking. Influential financial leaders are pilloried as having been more responsible than industrial or railway leaders for flooding the country, for swamping unwary investors, with securities which have despoiled many a modest nest-egg, many a competency, many a fortune.

The talk delivered by Bernard Shaw, while flanked by the foremost J. P. Morgan & Co. partner and by the president of the historic First National Bank of New York, isn't calculated to modify the public's unfavorable judgment of bankers.

Few know that Morgan & Company and other firms doing an important banking business have to furnish the Federal Reserve with a statement showing their resources. But don't ask Gov. Harrison, of the New York Reserve Bank, for the figures!

Seeing that security affiliates of banks are being abolished, investment bankers will be confronted with the gigantic problem of drawing from the pockets of millions of investors the billions needed annually to send this country ahead. Washington's objective, therefore should be to take every feasible action to enable the right type of investment bankers to win public confidence. Publicity, not secrecy, will be conducive to attaining this momentous end.

Finding, providing capital for enterprises isn't always child's play, as many have discovered and are discovering today.

MARKET MUST 'SHOW' PUBLIC FOR BUYING

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, April 13.—It still seems to be at least a 50-50 chance that some further progress will be made by the stock market on the up side. One can hardly deny, however, that the performance yesterday was disappointing to the bulls.

A painful lack of spontaniety has been evident throughout the rally. It is as if the market this time had come to a point last week where it did not want to go down, but neither did it want to go up.

It was whipped up in the last hour Monday, and this brought in some buying Tuesday at the opening. Then for nearly two days it did nothing but sag slightly and irregularly, with no volume.

NO PUBLIC RUSH

As I see it, the latest rally was based almost entirely on this talk about so-called "inflation." To the average man, all inflation means is "higher prices." So when he is told that "inflation" is bound to come he is put in a buying attitude.

Such a move, based on a popular notion that prices are going to rise because of talk about inflation, seems to me to depend essentially upon a "public following." Therefore, the action (or lack of action) yesterday is significant, for no one by the wildest stretch of imagination could see any "rush of buying by the public."

Evidently the public wants more evidence (Maybe, too, it is somewhat lacking in cash or credit).

OPERATORS MUST BUY

So it seems to me that if the operators who led the buying Monday afternoon want this rally to carry on, they are going to have to buy more stock. This market is not going up of its own accord, the public will have to be shown.

In fact, it has to carry a good deal of weight just now. The imparalleled intervention by the government in business affairs is one difficulty. The large amount of liquidation which keeps coming on, is another. (And it may be added that the recent weakness of the dollar in foreign exchange suggests that European speculators and investors are not in the buying side of our market.)

It is now quite evident that difficulties in holding together the divergent interests of different classes and different sections, are growing. The bills keep coming in to the Congressional hopper, but the laws passed are few.

You see "the government" can't "do something" for one class or section without hurting another class or section. Personal enthusiasms are apt to wane when one's economic interests are stepped on.

CAN'T PREDICT MOVES

Reports indicate that Secretary Woodin feels that the Glass banking bill should help the banks so that they can make a market for government paper, while Senator Glass wants to make the banks safe for depositors.

The 30-hour-week bill does not seem to fit exactly into the regular program.

All of us are beginning to wonder just who is going to pay, and how "the government" (all of us) is going to sell bonds with one hand and revalue dollars with the other.

Maybe the stock market would do well to fluctuate narrowly for a while until we can see where we are going—and how we can get there.

But I would not go short here. Any move up is likely to be a sharp one, while at the moment any decline seems likely to be gradual. Until the legislative situation clears up the market is not predictable.

March Egg Storage Near Record Figure

CHICAGO, April 13.—(AP.)—More than a million and a half cases of eggs were moved into storage during March, the monthly cold storage report showed today. The inward movement ran to the unprecedented total of 1,658,000 cases, a figure that has been exceeded only twice in five years.

Total holdings of eggs on April 1 were 1,821,000 cases, which was 1,121,000 cases more than last year and 527,000 cases greater than the storage figures for five years. The storage movement in March, 1933, exceeded that of March, 1932, by 1,216,000 cases.

Canadian Wheat Stocks Increase

OTTAWA, April 13.—(AP.)—Stocks of wheat in Canada on March 31 are estimated in a crop report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at 312,819,144 bushels, as compared with 246,150,573 at the end of March, 1932, an increase of 66,668,671 bushels.

The report states that returns indicate a carry-over of wheat at the end of the crop year, July 31, next, in Canada of 156,000,000 bushels. This would be a record carry-over for this dominion. Last year the carry-over was 131,844,846, and July, 1931, it was 134,078,963, the highest so far.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 13. — The bond market continued to tread softly today and prices, as a whole, followed a rather narrow range in trading that at times verged on dullness.

United States government securities, after sagging yesterday, displayed rallying tendencies. German obligations were again disquieting factors in the foreign department.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column): United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

BUCS SHOW BEST IN DOUBTFUL SPOTS

THE WINNING OR losing of the opening game of a baseball season means no more than the winning or losing of any other single contest. It's just one of 154, and the outcome is no indication of what a club is going to do through a long stretch of 25 weeks. Still, there's a little extra satisfaction in grabbing the curtain raiser and getting off on the right foot, and the manner in which the Pirates took the Reds for a 4-to-1 decision in the inaugural was particularly gratifying to Pittsburgh district fans because the greatest show of strength was made in the two spots that had been considered most doubtful. One was the pitching and the other was Gus Suhr's hitting.

Gus Suhr

Bill Swift, who, by the way, has held Cincinnati to a total of seven runs in four straight games against that club, counting his last three in 1932, turned in one of the masterpieces of opening day, and but for a leak in his support would have registered a four-hit shutout. If a few of his slabmates now deliver in something like the same style, pennant rivals soon will cease harping about the weakness of the Buccaneer pitching staff.

Suhr has been classed as the only question mark in the Pittsburgh attack, but with three ringing hits, to be tied only by Gabby Hartnett and Joe Cronin, and being the leading hitter of both big leagues on opening day when his extra-bases are considered, the hustling first baseman held out plenty of hope that he is going to fool a lot of the critics.

There is no doubt about any of the others. Those who did not connect yesterday may be depended on to come through later on. All around, it was a most encouraging start. A more gratifying one to local fans could not have been made to order. The thing now is to keep it up.

BASEBALL'S BOW IN general for 1933 left no doubt of the continued popularity of the diamond sport. The inaugural card in the majors was marred by the postponement of three of the eight scheduled games, due to unfavorable weather, but even at that the push-off was impressively successful on the whole.

In spite of an attendance of only 5,000 at the American League opener in St. Louis, from which city sooner or later one club may have to be moved, the five lid-lifters drew a total attendance of close to 100,000, more than half of it in the National League, which had only two games to the American's three. An excellent showing, considering the times.

OPENING-DAY PITCHING was of a surprisingly high order. Only 24 runs were scored in the five games. Only one club, the Cubs, made double figures in the hit column. Four of the five winning clubs won with four runs and the other with three. Three games ended in the same score, 4 to 1, another was 4 to 2, and the fifth was 3 to 0.

With Lonnie Warnecke starting another year impressively with a shutout, an even more notable pitching performance was the victory of Alvin Crowder, which, following 15 consecutive wins last season, gave that Washington hurler a mark of 16 straight and equaled the American League record, held by Walter Johnson, Joe Wood and Lefty Grove.

YOUNG PITCHERS WHO neglect to add a change of pace to their stock in trade might learn something to their advantage by studying the case of Ed Fallenstin. That big right-hander failed with the Phillies a year ago because he had nothing but a fast ball. Old catchers told him he could not throw the swifter past the batters all the time, and suggested that he try to acquire a slow ball. Fallenstin had not yet succeeded in doing so when he suffered a broken hand at Scranton, and he was considered done, but this spring, under the coaching of Bill McKechnie and Hank Gowdy, he finally managed to develop the needed change of pace and now he is established on the staff of the Braves. A good change of pace adds greatly to a pitcher's effectiveness, which explains the improvement in some of the Pirate hurlers since Otis Crandall became slab coach here. Crandall was a master at pulling the string on his fast one in his pitching days and is equally good at teaching the trick to others.

Fred Marberry

ONE THING TO be noted as the season progresses is the extent to which the Senators will miss the strong relief pitching of Fred Marberry, and how much the Tigers have gained by adding the famous iron man to their staff. He was obtained with Carl Fischer for Earl Whitehill.

A capable finisher saves many a ball game in a season, and Marberry never has had an equal in that role. In 1926 he smashed all records by finishing 47 games, almost one-third of Washington's schedule. The exceptional nature of that performance is shown by the fact that the record for games finished in the National League is only 31, and that was set just last year by the venerable Jack Quinn.

THE GIANTS HAVE hung up one record this spring, even if they don't set any new marks in the pennant race. They traveled more than any other club ever did on a training trip, covering 8,700 miles —8,617 on trains and the remainder on boats.

Bill Terry's ballers journeyed from the Atlantic to the Pacific and return; from the Great Lakes to the Gulf and into Mexico besides. They were on nine railroad lines, two ferry rides and had an ocean trip to Catalina Islands. They were in 21 states.

IF YOU WANTED to pick a league-of-nations hockey team, you could select from the ranks of the major loop a pretty strong outfit presenting at each of the six positions a player of a different nationality from any of the rest. Bill Cook, of the New York Rangers, is a Canadian; Aleck Smith, of the Ottawa Senators, is English; Taffy Abel, of the Chicago Blackhawks, is an American; Gus Forsland, of Ottawa, is a Swede; Johnny Gottselig, of the Blackhawks, is a Russian, and Chuck Gardiner, Blackhawk goalie, is a Scot.

IT WAS BROUGHT out at the recent meeting of the country's leading coaches that basketball is booming in South America. Some New York men who took a team down there reported a very successful trip, and Georgia Tech has accepted an invitation to play a series of outdoor games in the larger cities the coming summer.

Speaking of outdoor basketball, Clark Shaughessy, new Chicago football mentor, was engaged to coach the floor game some 10 years ago at Morro Castle in Havana, which is used as a military school. There was no place available for a court, so he built one on the roof of the historic fortress, and it's still getting a big play.

IRATE SPORT FANS have been known to toss many varieties of missiles at unpopular athletes and officials, but hockey bugs have outdone the rest in this year's Stanley Cup games. A gallery god in Boston threw a sawed-off double-barreled shotgun and a visiting player narrowly escaped being killed or severely injured.

And in Detroit a fan tossed a deck of playing cards on the ice. The referee had to pick them up while on skates, which one commentator observes is just like picking salt out of sugar with boxing gloves.

Max Schmeling

BECAUSE THE BOXING Commission of the Empire State refused to suspend or modify its rules for the occasion, a proposed exhibition by the Jack Dempsey-Max Schmeling troupe, such as will be given at Motor Square Garden here next Monday night, had to be called off in New York. When the Ridgewood Grove club asked permission to show Schmeling boxing an exhibition, with Dempsey refereeing, the commission ruled that Schmeling could box, but that a decision must be rendered. It was further decreed that Dempsey could not act as referee, as he is also a promoter, and the New York rules specify a man cannot hold licenses in two capacities. In the face of the double obstacle, the Ridgewood club then withdrew its request.

Baseball Season Gets Off to Good Start

Associated Press.

The grand pageant of baseball has begun its six-months parade through America, attended by crowds only slightly smaller than those of a year ago and with a lot of very unpleasant weather to account for the decrease.

Nearly 100,000 fans, ranging from the President of the United States down to the humble holders of bleacher tickets, saw the five major league getaway games yesterday and the displays of fine pitching that went with them. Although the total was some 20,000 lower than the 1932 opening-day attendance, there was no defection on the part of fandom. Rainy, cold weather, winding up in a freak April snowstorm, forced the postponement of three games along the eastern seaboard that were expected to attract more than 70,000. Last year's figures of about 117,000 attendance covered six games.

YANKS HELD IDLE

Opening day is still to come in New York where 40,000 or more are expected to see the World Champion Yankees open their new season against the Boston Red Sox; in Boston, where the Braves face the New York Giants and in Philadelphia, where the aspiring Phillies tackle the equally hopeful Brooklyn Dodgers. With clearing weather predicted, all three delayed opening were due today.

President Roosevelt, assuming his new role as the nation's first fan, was one of the 24,000 who saw the Washington Senators, under the new management of Joe Cronin, give their first demonstration of their threats to the American League supremacy of the Yankees by setting down a makeshift team of Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 1.

Cronin led the assault on Tony Freitas, Connie Mack's surprise pitching selection. He smacked three singles in four tries.

Two four-hit performances, a five-hit job, and one brilliant 13-inning mound duel turned up in the western sectors of the two major leagues.

INDIANS BEAT TIGERS

Only 19,000, fewer than expected, were on hand at Detroit, where Clint Brown and Tommy Bridges battled on the hill for four extra innings before an error turned the tide and gave the Cleveland Indians a 4-to-1 triumph.

Lonnie Warneke, young ace of the National League hurlers last season was one of the four-hit moundsmen as he started the Chicago Cubs along the right road toward their second championship in the elder circuit by shutting out the St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 0.

Pittsburgh's Pirates, considered the most serious threat to the Cubs, got the benefit of a four-hit twirling job with Bill Swift doing the elbowing, and defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 1.

Eddie Durham, ex-Bostonian, and Joe Heving, up from Indianapolis, combined for the second four-hit game, and with the aid of Red Kress and Al Simmons gave the Chicago White Sox a 4-to-2 victory over the St. Louis Browns. The day's smallest crowd, 4,500, saw this game.

FANS ACCLAIM ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt yesterday extended the new deal to Washington baseball, breaking the precedent set by President Hoover, who consistently saw the Nationals lose when he attended.

After tossing out the first ball for the opening game, the President watched Washington defeat Philadelphia, 4 to 1, for one of its few season starter victories in recent years.

The huge crowd out to see the revamped Washington club, under the management of youthful Joe Cronin, gave the President a welcoming cheer as his car was driven to the box next to the Washington dugout.

Wrapped in a heavy coat to withstand the cold wind, Mr. Roosevelt, smiling broadly, held the ball so long at pleas of photographers before throwing it into the field that many of the fans were yelling:

"Throw it, Frank."

Vice President Garner marched to centerfield with the two teams and hoisted the American flag.

Mr. Roosevelt shook hands with Garner and with Manager Cronin.

The ball thrown by the President over the heads of the circle of photographers in front of him was scuffled for by Johnny Kerr and Nick Altrock. The former got it.

Mrs. Roosevelt was at the side of the President and his entire office staff was scattered about him. In his box also were Postmaster General Farley, Joseph O'Mahoney and W. W. Howes, first and second assistant postmaster generals, respectively.

Welk Beats Watson In Billiard Duel

By the narrow margin of a single point, Marty Welk defeated Jim Watson in an annual city three-cushion billiard championship tournament match at Tobin's parlors, Smithfield street, last night. The score was 50 to 49.

Tonight, Bill Kish takes on Harry Schoeller.

SUNDAY BILL PASSED

TRENTON, N. J., April 13.—The Richards bill, legalizing Sunday amusements and sports in New Jersey, has been signed by Gov. A. Harry Moore. Each municipality will vote to determine whether to permit such pastimes on the Sabbath.

Ferris Five Wins Floor Loop Title

The Frank Ferris passers defeated the Question Club, 35 to 29, in the final game of the playoff series for the Greater Pittsburgh League championship on the Logan Armory floor last night.

Manning led the Ferris' club attack with 12 points, with Sobehart getting 15 for the losers.

LOCAL COACH WINS TITLE

Glen (Babe) O'Donovan, former Homestead High and Westminster College star, won the Long Island scholastic championship for Freeport (N. Y.) High School during the past season. O'Donovan's team won 19 out of 20 games.

GOB-CARNERA GO DATE SET

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—Barring further moves in the struggle between Jack Dempsey and associates and the Madison Square Garden Corporation in their struggle to get the best early summer date for a heavyweight fight in New York, the two big scraps of the summer, Max Baer vs. Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey vs. Primo Carnera, are scheduled to take place just 21 days apart in June.

The Garden picked June 29 for Sharkey's title defense against the big Italian fighter yesterday. The former heavyweight champion previously had succeeded in getting June 8 for the battle of the Maxes after his first choice, June 1, proved impractical.

The New York State Athletic Commission, which had ruled against holding two big fights within 20 days, refused to consider the possibility of a postponement of the Schmeling-Baer fight when it approved the Garden's June 29 plan.

HERE NEXT MONDAY

Max Schmeling is scheduled to open his exhibition tour at Motor Square Garden here next Monday night, and will appear in Boston the following night. He will be accompanied by Jack Dempsey, who will act as referee.

Ladysman, Derby Choice, Ready For Racing

BALTIMORE, April 13.—(AP.)—Ladysman, a winter book favorite to capture the Kentucky Derby, is fit as a fiddle once more and probably will be raced Saturday at the opening of the Havre de Grace track.

The William R. Coe entry, which last year was juvenile champion with earnings of $111,435, has recovered completely from the knee ailment that caused retirement from racing in the fall.

Trainer John H. (Buddy) Stotler, who has had charge of the stalwart son of Pompey and Lady Belle, while wintering at Sagamore Farm near Baltimore, said the colt is now in shape to do his best.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

WASHINGTON, April 13.—I haven't computed all the attendance figures for baseball's opening exercises, but it must have been a tough day for outdoor industries like watching steam shovels excavate or looking at the puppies in bird-and-animal store windows. In practically every city the innocent bystanders flocked up to the ball park and the turnstiles were whirling around like roulette wheels. Anybody that thinks baseball is on its last legs forgets the old pastime is built like a centipede.

Nick Altrock

I do not claim prosperity is around the corner. If it is, it's probably got a parking tag by now. But, with the opening attendance figures up in the hundred thousands, I will state that the wolf isn't on Uncle Sam's rubber doormat, either.

We are off to another big season, so save your drying towels for wiping off your razor blades.

Kansas City Wins In DeMolay Shoot

KANSAS CITY, April 13.—(AP.)—Scoring 791 out of a possible 800 points, the No. 1 team of the Kansas City DeMolay Chapter won the third annual international telegraphic rifle match of the order, officials announced today.

Omaha, Neb., placed second with 768 points and Melita Chapter, of Missoula, Mont., third with 764 points. Baltimore won first place in class B with 749 points.

SWIM MARK BROKEN

CHICAGO, April 13.—(INS.)—Don Horn, Northwestern University swimmer, today held a new senior men's 220-yard backstroke record, having bettered the former mark by four-fifths of a second last night in the Central A. A. U. swimming and diving championships. He covered the distance in 2:54.

CINCINNATI, April 13.—The wise man of baseball who first declared that speed and control were the hall marks of great pitching gave voice to an utterance that should go ringing down the ages. The Pirates today attributed their fine start in the National League sweepstakes to the factors mentioned and the boy who illustrated them so strikingly is still being called front and center to take a bow.

Bill Swift walked fewer batters proportionately than any major league pitchers of last year. The Scranton sharpshooter with the side arm fast ball was asked to carry the responsibility of winning the opener with the Reds here yesterday and he blended his fine control with his "swifter" to gain the goal. The score was 4 to 1.

Bill walked one Redleg, but when Johnny Moore won the single free trip the count was three and two. The fast ball was working so well that only three clean hits were made off his delivery.

Earl Grace had some first hand information on the Pirate pitcher of the big day. Earl wrote the words for the opening performance and Bill supplied the music, said Grace:

"Bill was fine yesterday. His fast ball was good and his exceptional control made things very tough for the Reds. Swift put almost every pitch where he wanted it thrown."

HAFEY STOPPED

The tipoff on Swift was forthcoming each time Chick Hafey went to the barrier. Chick is liable to knock a third baseman for a loop any day, but the slugger could not get out in front of Bill's "swifter." The one hit accredited the slugger was a fluke.

The current editions of "Who's Who" snubbed the Scranton boy despite his rare performances of last year, but the youngster has sent the Pittsburgh pitching stock soaring just the same, and Bill vindicated Boss Gibson's judgment in giving him the preference over Larry French in the jump-off game. A few short days ago the blues were being sung over Gibby's "staggeritis" slab staff, but there were none of these symptoms visible to the 25,000 fans who stormed the gates of Redland Field to see the opener.

Fred Lindstrom made his bow as a Pirate in fine style. It was none other than the Swede who opened the first inning attack on Silas Johnson that brought enough runs to win the first contest of the year. Silas turned in a good job of getting Sprout Waner out, but Fred nicked him for a short single to right and in

RANGERS AFTER DECIDING WIN

TORONTO, April 13.—(AP.)—Their string of playoff victories broken by Monday night's setback, the New York Rangers return to the Stanley Cup hockey wars against the Toronto Maple Leafs here tonight, hopeful of again hitting their winning stride and returning the big silver trophy to Madison Square Garden.

The Rangers went into the series determined to end it in three straight, as the Maple Leafs did against them last year, but the little rookie, Ken Doraty, sensation of the Leafs' playoff games to date, proved too big an obstacle. He banged in two tallies in the Leafs' 3-to-2 victory.

If they win, the New York team will be the first ever to finish in third place in regular season play and then go on to win the cup.

Cliff Heathcote Released by Phils

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—(INS.)—Cliff Heathcote, veteran National League outfielder, was a free agent today. The Phillies released him unconditionally.

He formerly played with the Cardinals and Cubs.

PENA, DEGRASSE IN ARENA BOUTS TONIGHT

LOCAL BOXERS IN BATTLES WITH STARS

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Amateur bouts, Cramer's Arcade, Brownsville, Pa.

Leo Massey vs. Pete Neho, 10 rounds, and Al Trainor vs. Henry Taylor, Leonard Dixon vs. Umberto Arce, Joe Carto vs. Georgie Glass and Dominick Burrone vs. Joe Hilser, 6 rounds each, Philadelphia.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

A galaxy of bantamweight and featherweight boxing stars strut their stuff in the Arena, on the North Side, tonight in what looms as the best balanced show for little fellows ever offered here. Consider the cast.

The main bout brings together Johnny Pena, of Chicago, finalist with Tommy Paul in the N. B. A. featherweight elimination tournament, and Jackie Wilson, local Negro star, who halted Paul's winning streak his last time out, after Paul had beaten Jimmy Thomas and stopped Mose Butch here.

BUTCH MEETS HINDS

A six-rounder beween Dominick Mancini and Georgie Schlee, local lightweights, completes the card, in arranging which Matchmaker Lew Raymond has done himself proud. He ought to be able to buy himself a pocketful of new cigars on the morrow.

This week's Arena show is being held tonight instead of tomorrow, to avoid conflict with Good Friday.

The Motor Square Garden management is a-bustle with excitement preparing for its exhibition of Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, next Monday night, with Jack Dempsey, another former champion and the promoter of Schmeling's bout with Max Baer, in New York on June 8, acting as referee. A card of four local bouts will precede the feature event. Reservations are swamping the ticket office, and Manager Joe Mazer is sitting back complacently waiting for his first sell-out house of the season.

RANDALL DOES GOOD TURN

A little touch of human nature: Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welterweight, of Elizabeth, taking some jigsaw puzzles to Danny Devlin in the Mercy Hospital, where the latter is recovering from a broken jaw suffered in his bout with Randall at the Arena last Friday night. Joe wanted to take him fruit and candy, but a fellow with a broken jaw can't appreciate those delicacies, hence the jigsaws.

DEATH CLAIMS ODY ABBOTT

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 13.—Former Sheriff Ody C. Abbott, 45, of New Eagle, and a former major league baseball player, died today at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Death resulted from complications received during World War time service. He had been in the hospital since last January 1.

Abbott was sheriff of Washington County from 1926 to 1930 and for a number of years prior was warden of the county jail.

He was a graduate of California State Teachers' College and Washington and Jefferson, playing end for the Red and Black football team of 1907. Shortly after his graduation Abbott played outfield with the Charleroi team, of the P. O. M. Baseball League, and with the New Castle team of the Ohio and Pennsylvania League. After service with these he was sent west where he played middlefield on the Tacoma, Wash., team of the Northwestern League and the Oakland, Cal., team of the Pacific Coast League.

In 1909 he joined the roster of the Newark team, of the International League and in 1910 played with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Shortly after his service with the Cards, Abbott retired from baseball and entered politics in Washington County.

Funeral services have not been completed.

City Volleyball Champs Crowned

Peabody won the senior championship last night, defeating the Westinghouse team on the Silver Lakers' floor, 15-6, 15-8.

The junior crown was won by Westinghouse on the Fifth Avenue floor yesterday afternoon, Overbrook being defeated in the final match, 8-15, 15-5, 15-12.

Illinois May Tax Boxing 15 Per Cent

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 13.—(INS.)—Passed by the State Senate by a vote of 35 to 0, the House amendment to the 15-round boxing bill, increasing the State's share of the receipts from 10 to 15 per cent, went to Gov. Henry Horner today for his signature.

FIELDS, JACKSON SIGN

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—(AP.)—Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, and Young Peter Jackson, hard-hitting Wilmington, Cal., Negro, have signed articles for a 10-round bout to be held here May 2. They will weight in at 147 pounds.

A Statement from

PITTSBURGH BREWING CO.

Owing to the unexpected enormous demand for our product, IRON CITY BEER, we have been deluged with more orders than can possibly be filled at this time.

The policy of this Company is to maintain strictly the quality of its products at all times.

In order to do this it has been necessary temporarily to restrict our sales.

We therefore ask the kind indulgence of the general public, restaurants, hotels and all other dealers to bear with us in this situation until our production catches up with the demand.

STEWART NAMED TECH FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

STAR WINGMAN HONORED BY TARTANS

By JESS CARVER

All that remains to be done to assure Pittsburgh of having three ends as varsity football captains next fall is for Pitt to name Muggsy Skladany the Panthers' leader.

Yesterday, Carnegie Tech followed in the footsteps of Duquesne and appointed a wingman, Colin (Red) Stewart, captain of the 1933 Tartan varsity. The Dukes some time ago made Al Krankota, of Butler, leader for the 1933 campaign.

In the event Skladany should get the Pitt position, it would be the first time in history that the three local varsity elevens were captained from the same position.

HAILS FROM LORAIN

Stewart succeeds William Egbert (Hooks) Sample and George Kavel, who co-captained the Plaid last fall. Red is a senior in the School of Industries and hails from Lorain, O. He's been the regular left end for two seasons and was captain of his freshman team three years back.

Stewart played football and basketball and took part in track in his prep school days and starred in the three branches of sport at Kiski. Upon entering Carnegie, he confined his athletic endeavors to football.

The appointment was made at the regular spring gathering of the Carnegie Tech athletic council, which also appointed Samuel Wicks, of Rutledge, Pa., varsity football manager, eliminated the regular freshman football schedule from the sport card; recommended the abolishment of varsity and freshman cross-country teams and named managers for boxing, basketball and swimming.

MANAGERS NAMED

The boxing manager for next season will be Anthony J. Cecchione, of Newark, N. J.; the swimming manager Warren Ailes, of Waynesburg, and the basketball manager Raymond Treasure, of Benton, Pa.

Boxing letters were Capt. Carr, Scott, Atlas, McGrane, O'Toole, Coulter, Manager Pressman and Freshman Manager Squiterri. Freshmen numerals were given to Boyd, Levine and Neilan.

WHEELING GETS GEORGE DICKEY

WHEELING, W. Va., April 13.—(AP.)—Youthful George Dickey, kid brother of Bill Dickey, New York Yankees' star catcher, has been turned over to the Wheeling club of the Mid-Atlantic League for seasoning.

George, who despite his tender 18 years, measures 6 feet in height and weighs 175 pounds, will arrive with the rest of the Stogie squad Monday.

Young Dickey, like his illustrious brother, is a catcher. He has been with the Yanks throughout their spring training campaign in the South.

KNIGHTS GET HURLER

BECKLEY, W. Va., April 13.—(AP.)—Released for more training by the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern Asosciation, Sheffy Hart, of Elkins, a pitcher, has joined the Beckley club of the Mid-Atlantic League.

Hart tried out with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1931, but was farmed out for seasoning. This spring he trained with the Crackers and survived the first cut.

FRIEDRICHS FARMED

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—Bob Friedrichs, Washington American League pitcher, has been transferred by President Clark Griffith to the Williamsport club of the New York-Pennsylvania League under option.

Friedrichs will be sent away as soon as arrangements for the transfer are complete with the Williamsport manager, Mike McNalley, a former Washington player.

International Loop Frays Postponed

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—Rain washed out one of the two opening games in the International League and caused the postponement of the inaugural games at Newark and Jersey City today.

The all-day rain, which turned into snow last evening, caused the Newark and Jersey City officials to announce they would play their opening games with Montreal and Buffalo, respectively, tomorrow. Weather permitting, Rochester will open at Albany today.

In the only game played yesterday, the Baltimore Orioles came from behind to defeat the Toronto Maple Leafs, 12 to 7, at Baltimore.

Letter Is Awarded 54 Years 'Late'

DELAWARE, O., April 12.—(AP.)—Fifty-four years after his graduation from Ohio Wesleyan University, Bishop W. F. McDowell, of Washington, D. C., today was awarded the letter "W" by the university's board of athletics.

His loyalty to his alma mater and the fact that he is known as a "battling bishop," brought the award. Wesleyan's athletic teams use the name of "battling bishops."

BUCK ENTRY WINS

SAN BRUNO, Cal., April 13.—(AP.)—John Bane, an R. Buck entry ridden by D. McCune, easily won the $500 Sunol purse, feature race at Tanforan yesterday, coming in a length and a half in front of Bonbonet. Sir Satin was third, leaving Uncle Henry, an odds-on favorite, out of the money.

Beer Sale Good Despite Cold At Cub Park

Concessionaire John Seys said the Wrigley Field bar, under the grandstand, did a rushing business despite the chilly spring weather. All sales were draught beer.

No sales of the new beer were made in the grandstand but may be later—in paper cups.

BUCS CAPTURE FIRST START

P. WANER LUCKY

Brother Paul caught George Grantham off balance as he followed Lindy to the plate. Grantham was moving toward first on a pitch he figured Paul would pull when the Pirate right fielder spanked the ball a foot to the right of George. Before Boots could shift gears, the drive was skidding into right center for a lucky triple.

Paul scored what proved to be the winning run on a fluke. Traynor bounced to Durocher, who threw to the plate, trapping Paul, who should have been tagged out. Morrissey dropped a bad return from Lombardi and Paul scrambled back. Suhr's first double, a line smash into the rightfield crowd, tallied Paul. Vaughan walked to fill the sacks, but Johnson rose to the heights, as he fanned Piet and Grace.

BOOTS' ERROR COSTLY

Grantham's first error opened the way for two Pittsburgh runs in the fourth. Grace singled to start the round, but Swift forced him. Grantham then messed up L. Waner's drive, and the two runners went to third and second. The Reds elected to pitch to P. Waner with first base open, and Paul slapped a single to left, scoring Swift. P. Waner was trapped between first and second on Hafey's throw to the plate, but in the mixup L. Waner scored.

Jim Bottomley scored the Reds' only run in the fourth. Jim hit a scorcher to right. P. Waner trying for a shoestring catch, the ball rolled away for a triple, and Bottomley tallied on Hafey's grounder.

Chilly Sauce

Gus Suhr, who is just about the liveliest member of the Pirate family, came out of the inaugural with two doubles and a single.

Lindstrom and P. Waner each connected for two hits. The other two Buccaneer bingles were produced by Piet and Grace.

One of the biggest moments for the 25,000 was supplied by Silas Johnson in the first when with the bases jammed and only one out he took Piet and Grace out of the batting picture on strikes.

Manager Gibson suddenly departed from the third base coaching line in the ninth inning. Gibby was not chased, he was merely doing a favor for the fans of the third base side.

Gibson benched himself out of respect to Honus Wagner. As he went to the first base box at the start of the game the flying Dutchman was accorded a thunderous ovation. As the game proceeded the fans on the other side wanted to get closer to Wagner and they made known their wants to Gibson. They shouted:

"Have a heart, Gibby. Let's have Honus over here with us for a while."

By far the greatest fielding play of the opener was contributed by Brother Paul as he robbed Andy High in the eighth. Andy batted for Johnson and pulled a short fly to right and Paul tore in for a one-hand shoe-string capture.

Little Lloyd was next to Paul in fielding thrills. He chased up the left field bank to Rob Ernie Lombardi of a drive that looked like a homer as it soared toward the wall.

Piet placed Swift in a jam in the ninth. With Hafey on first and one out, Moore hit a roller to Tony, who made a bad mess of the ball. Hafey reaching third, Swift, cool as ice, forced Hercules Lombardi to ground into a double play.

Local Volley Ball Team in Tourney

Pittsburgh will be represented in the third annual Cherry Blossom volleyball tournament at Washington Saturday by a team from the Downtown Young Men's Christian Association. Ten citoes will compete in the invitation event, this being the first time a local team has participated. Washington won in 1932.

The Pittsburgh Y held the national volleyball championship for the five years from 1922 to 1926, inclusive, and four of the national championship team will go to Washington.

ELMER KNETZER IS SIGNED BY DORMONT

By TOM BIRKS

Elmer Knetzer, Brentwood's most famous baseball citizen, returned to Pittsburgh's sandlots today. Following a conference with William Maish, president, and co-Managers George Falconer and Billy Fuchs, of Dormont, Knetzer signed on the dotted line, and will be on the firing line for the South Hills aggregation in the City League this season.

Elmer Knetzer

This means that Knetzer has decided to refuse the offer of the Reading club, of the International League, and play here this season.

The famous Carrick baron has seen plenty of service in the big leagues since he left the South Hills. He twirled for Brooklyn and Cincinnati in the National League, and jumped to the Federal loop when that organization got under way.

It was a smart move on the part of the Dormont club to secure Elmer for the coming campaign. Falconer and Fuchs will need plenty of good hurlers this summer, with Sunday games at South Park and the all-star night games at Greenlee Field.

Now that the City League has changed its contract rule, the fans will be able to get a good line on the makeup of the various clubs early this season.

Walter Kimmick, the Turtle Creek luminary, who once wore big league spangles, will cover first base for the Book entry in the league. Ray Bond, Homewood boy who played the initial sack for the Champions last season, will be with Bill Dalzell's Homewood team. Bond is very popular in the East End district, and he should fit in well with Walter Waite's infield.

A. A. PITCHERS WIN LAURELS

CHICAGO, April 13.—(AP.)—Thomas Jefferson Hickey's American Association baseball derby is off with the pitchers in command of the hitters and the West and East all square in the opening engagements.

As the weather relented, all eight teams struggled to deciding battles yesterday, Columbus, Toledo, Milwaukee and Kansas City emerging victorious in unusually close battles.

Columbus, the hand-picked favorite to win the flag, came through to land the first shutout of the season, defeating the title-defending Millers from Minneapolis, 2 to 0, behind Billy Lee's four-hit pitching.

Milwaukee and Indianapolis, unable to break a deadlock after 14 innings Tuesday, played another tight game yesterday, the Brewers winning, 4 to 3, with a rally in the ninth.

Monte Pearson hurled and batted Toledo to a 4-to-1 victory over St. Paul. Tris Speaker and his Kansas City Blues, given five-hit pitching by Niggeling and Garbler, subdued Louisville, 2 to 1.

150-Mile Grind Slated for Oakland

OAKLAND, Cal., April 13.—(AP.)—One of the arguments that automobile racing drivers warm up to, whether single seaters are faster and more dependable than the two-man type, may be cleared up here Sunday when the leading pilots of the country meet in a 150-mile event at the Oakland Speedway.

It will be the final Northern California appearance of the drivers before they leave for the annual Memorial Day classic at Indianapolis.

OUIMET'S GOLF

By FRANCIS OUIMET

Former National Amateur and Open Golf Champion.

I was very much interested to read the comment of Maureen Orcutt, one of the finest lady golfers ever developed in this country, when she said that she felt that, with the exception of Bobby Jones, she could meet any man of the game on equal scores.

For many years, I have been of the opinion that at some stage of the race a female golfer would arrive who would be able to hold her own with the best of the men golfers, but such a woman must be what I would call a super person; and, in my opinion and with all due respects to Miss Orcutt, that time has not arrived as yet. There is no question of a doubt but that Miss Orcutt, Mrs. Vare or Joyce Wethered on occasion could beat anybody, but those instances naturally would be very rare indeed.

Francis Ouimet

Perhaps one of the most interesting golf matches ever played was the one two years ago at St. Andrews between Roger Wethered and his sister, Joyce, against Bobby Jones and Jimmy Johnston. The two Americans were holders of our major championships and they elected to give Miss Wethed's ball a third of a stroke a hole. Although the two Americans were very much on their game, Miss Wethered scored a 74 on her own ball, and this in spite of the fact that she took 6s on each one of the last three greens. Such a performance, of course, is one of those things that happen, you might say, once in a lifetime. Just as Bobby Jones stands out by himself, so does Miss Wethered, but even the great English golfer could not hope consistently to beat our best male golfers, and, therefore, I must say that for the moment, at least, in my opinion, there are many amateur golfers in this country who could beat the best of our women golfers.

SOME INSTANCES CITED

At Salem, a year ago, there were some brilliant scores made from time to time by the women. Miss Van Wie in one of her final rounds had a 73 over a long and exacting test, but, in the main, her scores averaged around 77, and I do not think such an average would be good enough to beat, for example, any one of our American Walker Cup players of last year's team.

I hope Miss Orcott will not think I am one of those who feel that the weaker sex ever can hope to play on an even basis with men. I have explained this. I hope, by saying that the day will come when some female with extraordinary powers will, in my belief, be able to hit a ball just as far as any man, play the irons in the firm manner and putt with consistency. Miss Wethered, at the moment, appears to be that super person, save in one respect, and that is in the matter or driving length. She hits a ball a fine distance for a woman, but I dare say she will be out-driven from 30 to 50 yards by our leading male players, and this handicap would put her to too great a disadvantage in a series of rounds or matches.

BISQUES AND STROKES

Several years ago at the Fairfield Country Club, in Connecticut, a big match was arranged between the leading men and women players. The conditions of the contest were that the men give the women six bisques, a bisque, of course, is a stroke which may be taken wherever the recipient may desire, or he or she can take several on one hole. The men won the first of these contests by three matches to one. The following year the handicap went up to seven bisques, and again the men were the winners by the same margin, and I should say a seven-bisque handicap is something better than 10 strokes—at any rate, I would rather have seven bisques than 10 strokes which must be taken on specific holes.

Boy Cherishes Baseball From Joe Cronin

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., April 13. — (AP.) — Ten-year-old Johnny Joe Carduff sat up in bed today and proudly fingered an autographed baseball and a three-page letter sent him by his friend, Joe Cronin, manager of the Washington Senators.

Cronin and Johnny became fast friends while Cronin was playing here with the Johnstown (Pa.) club, of the Middle Atlantic League.

Johnny's father had something to do with the friendship. In his younger years he played ball with Albany, in the New York State League, and with Newport, in the Virginia League, and he welcomed his son's pals of the baseball diamond as old friends.

SHIELDS LOSES TO GRANT

PINEHURST, N. C., April 13.—(AP.)—Bryan M. Grant, of Atlanta, eliminated Frank X. Shields, of New York, from the North and South tennis tournament in a five-set match today. After dropping the first two sets, 4-6, 4-6, Shields rallied to square the match by taking the third and fourth sets, 6-1, 7-5, but lost the deciding set, 3-6, as Grant turned on the pressure again.

Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, won his quarter-final match by turning back Marcel Rainville, of Montreal, Canadian Davis Cup star, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

Seven Matches Set For W. Va. Netters

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 13.—(AP.)—A schedule of seven matches, all to be played away from home, has been announced for the West Virginia University clay court tennis team. Two other matches are pending.

April 22, Duquesne at Pittsburgh; May 3, Wesleyan at Buckhannon; May 5, Fairmont Normal at Fairmont; May 11, Lehigh at Bethlehem; May 12, Muhlenberg at Allentown; May 20, Bethany at Bethany; May 22, Washington and Jefferson at Washington, Pa.

Bass Is Sought For the Neshannock

NEW CASTLE, Pa., April 13.—(AP.)—The Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association will seek permission from the Pennsylvania State Fish Commission to remove bass from the Shenango River and place them in Neshannock Creek. They desire to improve fishing in the creek.

ANDERSON BEATEN

KANSAS CITY, April 13.—(AP.)—Johnny Owens, Kansas City, outpointed Cowboy Eddie Anderson, Casper, Wyo., in a 12-round bout here last night. Owens, the aggressor throughout the battle, was awarded a victory by two of the judges. The other declared the fight a draw.

SPRINZ SIGNED

COLUMBUS, O., April 13.—(AP.)—Joe Sprinz, holdout Columbus American Association catcher, came back into the fold yesterday and signed his Red Birg contract. He was in uniform at the Columbus-Minneapolis opener.

LONDOS VICTOR

NEW YORK RACE CARD SLICED

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—A shortened and rather hesitantly planned racing season is in store for metropolitan New York this season, but if the crowds respond well enough to lowered admission prices it may be extended a bit.

Following the decision of Belmont Park to cut its spring meeting to 12 days, a tentative schedule for the four tracks around New York City has been drawn up, to be presented to the Jockey Club for approval today. Instead of starting at Jamaica in mid-April, it will open at that track on May 6. The Belmont spring meeting, Aqueduct, Empire City and the Belmont fall meeting follow.

Only Belmont Park made any provision for a fall meeting while Saratoga was not included in the list, although it is expected to operate in August more or less as usual.

Belmont Park—May 27-June 10.
Aqueduct—June 17-July 4.
Empire City—July 8-29.
Belmont Park—September 4-16.

Penn State Nine Leaves for Tour

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 13.—The Penn State baseball squad left here at noon today for an abbreviated southern training trip on which the Lions will play three games before returning to finish their schedule on the home field. The team is scheduled to play Maryland at College Park tomorrow, Navy at Annapolis on Saturday and Virginia at Charlottesville Monday.

Coach Joe Bedenk and a squad of 15 players were included in the party. The players taken for this trip were Capt. Smith, Lohr, Walus and Zawacki, infielders; Brewster, Kascsak, Stocker and Mikelonis, outfielders; Swan and Woolbert, catchers, and Parks, Lutcher, Winn, Seltzer and De Bonis, pitchers.

Macionis Annexes Junior Swim Title

NEWARK, N. J., April 13.—(AP.)—John Macionis, Philadelphia schoolboy, last night won the 220-yard junior national A. A. U. swimming championship in the Newark Athletic Club's pool. Holder of the world interscholastic record for the event, Macionis splashed the distance in 2 minutes 21 seconds.

The time was 2 4-5 seconds slower than the record mark he set in the Rutgers interscholastics early in March, but it was fast enough to give him a comfortable lead over second-place John Kelly, a teammate from the Big Brothers Club of Philadelphia, and Charles Rogers, of Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A., who was third.

HEATHCOTE RELEASED

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—(AP.)—The Phillies of the National League have announced the unconditional release of Cliff Heathcote, veteran outfielder. Heathcote came to the Phillies last season and for a time acted as understudy to First Baseman Don Hurst, besides being on call for duty in the outer garden.

STAR CREWS SOUGHT

LONG BEACH, Cal., April 13.—(AP.)—The Italian Olympic eight, Cambridge, Navy, Yale, Cornell, Washington, California and University of California at Los Angeles crews have been invited to compete in an international regatta here July 8 over the tenth Olympiad course, civic officials have announced.

MEET INVITES OUT

CHICAGO, April 13.—(AP.)—Invitations were mailed today to 1,000 high schools for the twenty-ninth annual national interscholastic track and field meet of the University of Chicago. The meet will be held at Soldier Field, June 16 and 17.

RYERSON GAINS MASON-DIXON SEMI-FINALS

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 13.—(AP.)—Seeking his third leg on the trophy, John B. Ryerson, of Cooperstown, N. Y., the qualifying medalist, has advanced to the semi-final round of the Mason and Dixon golf championship, along with Roof Gilson, of Jackson, Mich., David N. Tallman, 62-year-old Minneapolis Veteran and F. L. Gill, of New York.

Ryerson, still shooting close to par, had little trouble yesterday eliminating F. M. Crum, of Williamson, W. Va., by a 4 and 3 count, but Gilson, who will oppose him today, turned in an even flashier victory, trouncing Craig Biddle, of Philadelphia 7 and 6. Gilson, husband of the Olympic swimmer, Georgia Coleman, had a medal score of 75 as he completed the 18 holes.

Ryerson disposed of Crum, runner up for the West Virginia state championship last year, in a handy fashion, losing only two holes of the 15 played. Gill conquered James K. Eisaman, of Pittsburgh, 6 and 4 in the third match. In the semi-finals he will oppose Tallman, who advanced by the default of W. S. Delacour, of Pine Valley, N. J.

15-Round Measure Up in State Senate

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—A proposal to permit 15-round championship boxing bouts in Pennsylvania, already approved by the House, was reported for passage in the Senate today.

Bouts are now limited to 10 rounds.

The bill, introduced by Representative Joseph G. Steedle, Allegheny, was the outgrowth of a recent conference with Jack Dempsey, who said he would have considered bringing the Schmeling-Baer heavyweight fight to Pennsylvania if 15-round battles were permitted.

The House last night also passed the Spann (Allegheny) bill limiting the jurisdiction of the athletic commission to professional boxing, sparring and wrestling matches and exhibitions. The vote was 180 to 2.

If the measure is passed by the Senate and approved by the Governor, the commission will have no supervision over amateur and collegiate boxing and wrestling.

Yesterday's Stars In Major Leagues

By the Associated Press

Lon Warneke, Cubs—Shut out Cardinals with four hits and fanned six to win, 3-0.

Gus Suhr, Pirates—Hit two doubles and one single behind Bill Swift's four-hit pitching to help beat Reds, 4-1.

Al Simmons and Red Kress, White Sox—Simmons hit first homer of season; Kress batted in three runs in 4-2 triumph over Browns.

W. Va. Ring Tourney Draws Big Entry

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 13.—(AP.)—Twenty cities and towns of Southern West Virginia wil be represented at the amateur boxing tournament opening here tomorow night.

A total of 57 boxers have entered the open championships and the list may be increased. Only 43 of the number, however, filed official A. A. U. registration blanks.

The tournament is being sponsored by the Charleston American Legion Post. Finals will be held Monday.

Army Polo Team Wins In Tourney

CHICAGO, April 13.—(AP.)—Led by Capt. C. A. Wilkinson, the Sixth Corps Area trio defeated the Chicago Riding Club 8½ to 4½ in the opening of the national indoor polo championships, held in Chicago for the first time at the 124th Field Artillery Armory.

Capt. Wilkinson rapped in three goals in the third chukker and another in the fourth in last night's tilt. His two teammates, Capt. Davis and Maj. C. C. Smith, accounted for three goals each.

Waiter Rewarded By $2,000 Tip For Courtesy

MINNEAPOLIS, April 13.—(AP.)—Louis Sideris, has put aside his waiter's apron and is on his way with his two children for a visit to his native Greece.

For 10 years he was patient and courteous to a woman customer who ate regularly in the restaurant where he was employed. Illness compelled her to remain away from the eating house recently. So she called Sideris and gave him his tip.

It was a check for $2,000.

SALESMAN FREE IN 'ALKY' CASE

Samuel Spahr, chemical company salesman, indicted in January, 1931, on charge of possessing and transporting 14 drums of alcohol in violation of the prohibition law, was acquitted by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. Spahr waived a jury trial.

The property was seized February 27, 1930, in the North Side freight station of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, by prohibition agents, as contraband liquor. It had been shipped from New York as "paint and varnish remover."

A chemist's report at the hearing showed the drums to contain a mixture of alcohol and denaturing oil not fit for beverage purposes. In dismissing the case the court held the property seized was not within the meaning of the prohibition law.

FIRM HERE GETS BIG TUNNEL JOB

Good news to a pittsburgh contracting firm with resultant benefits to the Pittsburgh steel industry came today with announcement that the Dravo Contracting Company has been awarded the contract to build a $3,136,000 tunnel in California.

The Dravo company will fabricate about 1,000 tons of steel purchased in Pittsburgh for the job. The construction work will provide many jobs in California.

The order is for the Val Verde tunnel through foothills of the San Bernadino Mountain range, a seven-mile aqueduct. It is to be completed in about two and one-half years.

It is the first large project for the Dravo company in many months. Officials said more work would be provided men already engaged at plants here.

BEER RAISES PAY IN CAFES HERE

Real beer and prosperity came back to the Brass Rail restaurants almost simultaneously. Seventy-five employes felt the effects of the combination in their last pay checks, a 15 per cent raise.

E. A. DeLucci, general manager of the chain of restaurants, today said:

"When we cut our employes a short time ago we announced the cut would be restored just as soon as conditions warranted. There was a pickup both in the restaurant business and in the beer business, so the employes are getting the benefit, as we promised them."

Chief Arrests Own Son as Burglar

NEILLSVILLE, Wis., April 13.—(AP.)—Floyd Rossman, 30, has been taken to the Green Bay, Wis., reformatory to serve from three to eight years for burglary. Sentence was passed by Judge E. W. Crosby.

Elevator Operator Saved After Plunge

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—(AP.)—Harry Horner, an elevator operator, stepped into the spot where his car should have been and plunged eight feet to the bottom of the shaft. It took the fire department to get him out.

-:- OBITUARY -:-

C. I. Westerfield.

Charles I. Westerfield, 69, of 4524 Forbes street, died today in Allegheny General Hospital.

He was born in Peoria, Ill., and came to Pittsburgh when a young man.

The Flapper's Daughter

By BEATRICE BURTON

THRILLING NOVEL OF THE CHILDREN OF DANCING MOTHERS

CHAPTER XX.

The policeman reached for the bottle. But before his fingers actually touched it, Marjorie had leaned forward from the rumble seat and knocked it out of Caddy's hand.

A second later it fell to the brick pavement at the side of the car and smashed!

"There!" Marjorie's voice was loud with triumph. "Now, who says we have a bottle in this car? We haven't any bottle, Mr. Road Cop!" She fell back against the seat, laughing.

In the glow of the dash-light Sharlie could see that the officer's face was distorted with anger. He opened his mouth to say something. But before he could speak Marjorie burst forth again.

"Why pick on us, anyway?" she asked. "Four nice young married people out for an evening's pleasure . . . You go and call up Judge Havermyre and ask him if his niece, Marjorie Milliken, is the kind of person who goes around with people who carry liquor in their car."

The policeman peered through the darkness at her, frowning and puzzled. Sharlie could almost see his brain at work . . . Is this woman really Judge Havermyre's niece, he seemed to be asking himself. And if so, what ought to be done about it?

Without a word he walked around to the other side of the car and looked down at the shattered bottle.

"What did you have in that bottle?" he asked at last.

"It wasn't our bottle, I keep telling you," Marjorie insisted cheerfully. "We don't know a thing about that bottle——"

JUST PRETENSE

She broke into a sudden giggle. "Maybe some people tossed it out of an automobile as they drove along," she said. "Please let us go on, Mr. Road Cop."

The policeman stared at her through the moonlit darkness a moment longer. Then, to Sharlie's amazement, he suddenly stepped back from the car and waved them on their way.

"Better not come back along this road," he called after them. "I have a feeling I oughtta take you up."

"He's afraid to," laughed Marjorie as the little car moved off. "He's afraid that I just might be Judge Havermyre's niece—"

"Aren't you his niece?" asked Sharlie. She had believed that part of Marjorie's story.

"No more than I'm the rose of no man's land," Marjorie replied. "Boys, wasn't that a good story about our being two young married couples out on a spree?"

"Yeah, and wasn't it rotten luck to lose the liquor?" asked Caddy Dean gloomily. "Just as I was going to take a swig, too, doggone it!"

Marjorie laughed again. She had a light pretty laugh and she used it a great deal, Sharlie noticed.

SHARLIE PUZZLED

It seemed to fill in all the gaps in the conversation—like the theme song in a "talkie."

"Never mind, Caddy. I know the head waiter at White's," she said. "He'll sell us another bottle."

When they walked into the big crowded supper room at White's it was she who took the lead and got a table.

She pulled off her tiny satin hat, and her hair was like blue-black satin beautifully marcelled. It looked as if every hair had been carefully polished and laid in place.

"Only hair that has treatments two or three times a week in a beauty parlor looks like that," said Sharlie to herself.

Marjorie's hands were like bits of carved white marble, and the nails were polished coral. A bracelet had slipped from under her black satin cuff. It was set with little diamonds and sapphires, thick as stars above the desert.

Sharlie couldn't figure her out . . . Why was a girl with clothes and jewelry like hers living above those shops on Fifth street?

QUESTIONS GIRL

"She must have loads of money," thought Sharlie, remembering the bill she had given to the head waiter. She had told Caddy that she could lend him the money to pay for the evening's pleasure, too. Even Edna, with her splendid position as Mr. Collins' secretary, couldn't throw money around as this girl did.

"Let's go in and powder our noses," Marjorie said, "while we're waiting for the drinks to come."

In the dressing room she took a heavy silver vanity case from her bag and began to make up her face. Sharlie saw that there were bills and a filmy lace handkerchief stuffed into the bottom of the bag.

"Well," she said, rubbing rouge into her lips with the top of one slender finger, "I do a lot of things. Last spring I modeled all the sports clothes in the style show at the public hall. Sometimes I pose for a commercial photographer that I know."

"You must make lots of money," said Sharlie.

HAPPY AGAIN

In the mirror of the hot little dressing room she seemed to look shabbier than usual in comparison with this beautiful girl with her beautiful clothes. She wondered what Marjorie did to make her skin look like the petals of a white rose and what kind of blue stuff she smeared into her eyelids to make her eyes look like two blue-gray twilights.

They went back to the table.

Bond, the head waiter, came up behind him and leaned over Marjorie to say something to her in a low tone. When he went away a moment later, Marjorie produced a fat, little, brown bottle of Scotch whisky.

"Here you are, Caddy. Here's the drink you missed," she said, passing the bottle under the table to him.

They all had two drinks before they got up to have their first dance.

By that time Sharlie was tingling all over. She felt just the least bit dizzy and very very happy. After all what difference did it make if her mother and father had left each other, she asked herself as she went swaying around the room, her little chin pressed into Caddy Dean's shoulder and his arm holding her close to him.

VISITS GIRL'S PLACE

"It's certainly nothing for me to worry about," she thought hazily. "I still have a good home, and if Dodie and Dad don't get along it's their own business."

It didn't make any difference whether Edna had left the flat, either. It had been nice to have her there, but her life was her life, too.

"I feel happier than I've felt since—since—oh! I don't know when I've felt so grand," she murmured into Caddy's ear. She noticed how red it was. Quite a nice cheerful red, and so was his face.

"You're happy because you're with me," he said, looking down at her and giving her a hard squeeze.

"You know everything," said Sharlie, laughing a bit thickly. At 1 o'clock White's closed its doors. Sharlie slept all the way back to town with her head on Caddy's shoulder.

She woke up when the car stopped before the Fifth Street Building where Marjorie lived.

"Pep up, baby!" Caddy was saying as he shook her gently. We're all going up to Marjorie's for a drink."

There was a light burning in the hall of the building. It showed a flight of unpainted steps that went up into darkness.

Synopsis

Pretty Sharlie Dunn marries Eddie Wallis, youthful ruffian, following a night spent in Eddie's car when it ran out of gas. The same day Eddie is killed by an automobile. Sharlie's mother, Dodie, and Maud Hanaberry her friend, have gay parties while their husbands are away. Sharlie is sent to her grandmother's. One night, returning unexpectedly, Sharlie observes Dodie and Maud entertaining two men. Later, Dodie informs Sharlie she is going to leave her husband. That afternoon, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Hanaberry return and take their wives and "friends" by surprise. Both husbands leave home. Longing for a good time, Sharlie calls Caddy Dean, whom she met at a dance hall. She goes to a roadhouse with his friends.

DIESEL-ENGINED RAILROAD CAR ON RUBBER TIRES

A railroad car, running on pneumatic tires weighing only a third as much per passenger (468 lbs.) as ordinary coaches (1,390 lbs.) even though self-propelled, is a noteworthy development in electric transportation by land. The body is made of stainless steel sheets, 50 feet and 1 inch long, and weighs 8,200 lbs. It is carried on two six-wheel trucks, one of which is shown below. The windows are permanently closed, there being a fan-blast ventilation system, including an arrangement for hot-water heating. (Transportation.)

ONE OF THE TWO SIX-WHEEL TRUCKS

It carries the 125 h. p. Diesel engine, a lightweight electric generator and the storage battery. The wheels are kept on the rail by a cast-steel flange, alongside the tire and supported on the steel rim. On the second truck is a high speed electric motor driving the first and third axles through worm gears. Cost of fuel and lubricant is 1.16 cents a mile. (Transportation.)

THE FAMILY OF BRASSICA OR CABBAGE

Chinese cabbage (petsay and pakchoi) savoy, broccoli, kale, red cabbage, white cabbage, cauliflower, cohlrabi, collards, Brussels-sprouts make the cabbage family. They all contain vitamin C; the ordinary green cabbage is the richest in it. They also contain sulphur compounds which turn reddish brown and develop a disagreeable flavor when boiled too long. Overcooking destroys vitamin C. (Science.)

PETER THE HERMIT PREACHING THE FIRST CRUSADE

The burning zeal of Peter the Hermit, who traversed Europe preaching, followed by the address of Pope Urban II (1095) aroused millions to engage in the war against the Mohammedans, who ruled Palestine. (World's History.)

ALTITUDE AND AZIMUTH (Science)

The altitude of the star A above the horizon is the angle AOB (in degrees), where O is the point of observation and the plane O B N S the horizon. The circle in the vertical plane NZSX is called the celestial meridian and that in a plane right angle to it EZWX is called the prime vertical. The angle between the plane of the celestial meridian ZSXN (which is used as a start) and the plane of the circle ZAXT is called the azimuth of the star A and is equal with angle BOS.

LONGITUDE AND LATITUDE

Meridians are imaginary circles through the North and South poles on earth. Through point G, representing Greenwich (England) runs a meridian which was chosen as the zero meridian. The longitude of a point P on earth is the angle between the planes of the zero meridian and that going through point P, which is equal with angle ACB. It is measured east or west from the zero meridian. Latitude (geocentric) is the angle PCA measured north or south from the equator. There are also astronomic latitude (the angle between the plumb-line and the equatorial plane) and geographical latitude (used in maps) when the former is corrected for "station error." FREDERICK BARBAROSSA AT THE FEET OF THE POPE

After 16 years of war against the revolting cities in Northern Italy, which were supported by the Pope, Alexander III, Frederick was defeated in the battle of Legnano (1176); after this he acknowledged the authority of the Pope. In 1189-90 he took part in the third crusade together with Philip II, of France, and Richard Lionheart, of England. Frederick died during this crusade. (World's History.)

FARADAY'S LAW OF ELECTROLYSIS

When the same quantity of electricity passes through different electrolites the masses of the substances liberated at the electrodes are proportional to their chemical equivalents. For illustration: Cell 1 contains a solution of cupric chloride, cell 2 silvernitrate and cell A sulphuric acid. If an electric current is passed through the circuit the quantities of the ions liberated at the electrodes are chemically equivalent. (Foster: Elements of Chemistry.) (Chemistry.)

How to Act Under Repeal

We will follow yesterday's article on moderation and beer etiquette with a short reprisal on how to conduct yourself when in the presence of your oldtime superiors.

The ladies and the children will please leave the building at this juncture. We are speaking for the younger blades who know not the rules and bylaws of the old kingdom of Beeronia.

First of all, grasp the handls of the stein in your right fist. Place your right foot on the rail with your left elbow on the mahogany. Look for a projection on the pewter lid of the stein. Put your right thumb on that and press.

Gaze at your host and say, "Here's how." If he is in the mood he will repeat, "Here's how."

Raise the stein to your lips and blow the foam across the table into your host's face. While he is groping in the wet fog you say, Prosit."

When he said, "Here's how," he didn't know how it was. But your follow-up-remark of "Prosit" will prove that your actions are amicable and thoroughly academic, including the sophomores.

Of all the orations made on land or sea, by cornerstone and catafalque, on rostrums and platforms, or in temples or halls of justice, that mono-syllable "Ah" is probably the shortest and most intelligent.

It has no rebuttal and no denial. It is neither affirmative or disputative. It is just, "Ah." The preamble to a lost soul that has recaptured its constitution.

It is then your host's turn to monopolize the amber network. He also will say, "Ah."

After a few "Ah's" you will strike the right key. And that is the one to burst into song.

We suggest, "Sweet Adeline." Not because it is a music work of rare merit. But because we are used to it.

Can Fraud Be Stopped?

The Legislature Can and Should Do Something to Give Pittsburgh Honest Elections.

A primary election will be held in September in which the next Mayor of Pittsburgh and a majority of the members of Council will be named.

Indications are that the election will resolve itself into a bitter struggle between the Republican machine led by Senator James J. Coyne on the one side and independent citizens on the other.

The committee on election frauds of the Allegheny County Bar Association found that in the primary of 1931 thousands of persons registered upon illegal assessments, registered from fictitious or non-existing addresses, and registered on forged tax receipts.

The committee found on examination of the County Treasurer's books that upwards of 34,000 poll taxes were paid by and receipts delivered to 61 persons in lots of from 100 to several thousand; that large numbers of these receipts were subsequently changed as to ward number and taxpayer's name, presumably to be used twice for purposes of registration, or to add to the difficulty of tracing the fraud; and that large numbers of tax orders naming one of the 61 individuals aforementioned as agent were fraudulent for the reason that the persons signing the orders did not live at the addresses stated thereon, or the addresses given were fictitious, or for various other reasons.

What assurance do Pittsburghers have that there will not be a repetition of this colossal fraud in the forthcoming election?

The Bar Association investigators said in their report:

"2—Legislation is obtained curing the obvious deficiencies in the present law."

There was hope that the courts might do something to stop cheating at the polls and guarantee to the people of Pittsburgh that the will of the majority of the voters would prevail in elections. The hope was vain. Scores were convicted or pleaded guilty of violating the election laws, but only a comparatively few were sentenced to jail, and without exception they were released before they completed their terms.

Again, in the election last November, there was extensive fraud. But while there is some hope that the United States authorities will bring the criminals to book little expectation is held that the Allegheny County courts will act effectively.

What, then, can be done to prevent this fraud and preserve democratic government?

The Bar Association committee suggested a partial remedy in its statement that it saw no hope for permanent betterment of conditions until legislation was obtained curing the obvious deficiencies in the present election laws.

One of the revisions most urgently required is a change in the system of registration. Permanent registration would make it easier for honest citizens to vote and throw difficulties in the way of the crooks.

Election law reform is a crying necessity. Pittsburghers interested in promoting honesty in the September primary should omit nothing that will contribute to that end. One of the things they can do is to bring every possible ounce of pressure to bear on the Legislature to compel the enactment of remedial laws.

The Disloyal Ignored

Governor General Murphy Will Go to Manila Free From the Anti-Philippine Taint

By the appointment of Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit as Governor General of the Philippines, President Roosevelt has turned a deaf ear to the appeals of all candidates for that important post who were members of the disloyal Seventy-second Congress.

It was the Seventy-second Congress that surrendered to the pressure of a dishonest lobby which forced through Congress and over the President's veto the iniquitous act for the betrayal of the Philippine people and the abandonment of the Philippine Islands.

No more nefarious law has ever stained the statute books of the United States. And when it was passed, the Hearst newspapers said:

"No Senator or Representative in Congress who was guilty of voting for the iniquitous Philippine act as it was passed over the President's veto is fit to hold the commission of the President of the United States as Governor General of the Philippine Islands, Vice Governor, Auditor or Associate Justice of the Philippine Supreme Court.

"If the President-elect will serve notice that no stool pigeon of the wicked lobby, be he Senator or Representative in Congress, will ever get a Roosevelt commission, the Philippine Legislature and the Philippine people will be given the protection in their forthcoming verdict to which they are entitled."

President Roosevelt's new Governor General doubtless has everything to learn about the Philippine Islands.

But at least he is not the creature of the sordid lobby made up of American gamblers in Cuban sugar and American sugar properties, of the cordage companies of Missouri, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and other states.

Governor General Murphy will go to Manila free from the odium that would have attached to any member of the Seventy-second Congress who aided and abetted the anti-Philippine lobby which is attempting to rob the Philippine people of all their rights.

And if Governor General Murphy is well advised, he will let it be known before he sails for the Philippines that he wants no member of the Seventy-second Congress who was the ally or the dupe of the anti-Philippine lobby to be associated with his administration of the islands.

Any pressure by the Roosevelt administration either through the Governor General at Manila or the Secretary of War at Washington to bring about the Philippine Legislature's approval of the anti-Philippine Act will be rightly resented by the Philippine people and will disgrace the government and people of the United States.

Investment Bankers

The Public Should Be Informed Concerning the Financial Status of the Sellers of Securities.

By JULIUS G. BERENS
Financial Editor, New York American.

ORIGINATORS, the so-called underwriters of securities which are sold to the public, and those who distribute or peddle these securities, should be called upon to establish their financial integrity.

In other words, the public should be informed regularly as to the financial status of "investment bankers" and others who engage in the business of selling securities.

This should be a major plank in any reform of the security-selling business.

"Investment bankers" of the type of J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Dillon, Read & Co., Speyer & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co., are free from all PUBLIC regulation.

There should be no secrecy regarding their financial status.

But they do business with such semi-public enterprises as the American Telephone and other such concerns. What these companies do with their funds is a PUBLIC matter.

Besides, it is being proposed that all banks segregate their security affiliates. This means that the whole business of underwriting non-governmental securities will pass into the hands of private bankers and corporations who will specialize in the business.

These "investment banking" firms and corporations must be placed under PUBLIC control.

They should be required by law to publish as regularly as banks a statement of their condition, as ascertained by PUBLIC examiners.

Furthermore, the major reform in security-selling entails a GUARANTEE by the seller of the accuracy of statements made in connection with such sales of securities.

What good is any such guarantee unless the financial standing and integrity of the "investment banker" or security-selling corporation is known TO THE PUBLIC?

J. P. Morgan & Co., outstanding house of the private banking type, when requested by the Senate Investigating Committee to answer a list of questions, refused absolutely to answer only one.

This secrecy among private bankers who sell securities to the public must be broken down.

Around this contest to reveal private bankers' financial conditions revolves the whole security-selling reform movement.

(This is the third and concluding article of a series of three on security-selling reforms.)

MAYBE I'M WRONG

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 13.—A certain radio gag man sat up all night recently to complete a script which was to go on the air the following evening. After finishing the job and lying down for an hour, he got up and discovered that the manuscript was gone. He looked from one end of the house to the other and then came to the conclusion that the baby had thrown it in the fire.

"It's absurd to think that Junior threw your script into the fire," said his wife; "you know as well as I do that he isn't old enough to read yet."

TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT

A Fifth avenue bank has hired a cross-eyed detective to watch the cashiers without arousing their suspicion. He would be looking north in case they should be going south.

Another economy wave has hit tin pan alley. The pianists have been ordered to play with only one hand so that the pianos will last longer.

A certain musical comedy star is building up quite a following for herself. So far, her following consists of 12 sheriffs, nine marshals and a couple of subpena servers.

A dumb little chorus girl wanted to have a nice rock garden in her Long Island home, so she went out to a rock quarry and tried to buy the seeds.

Wise Words

Titles, instead of exalting, debase those who act not up to them.—La Rochefoucauld.

First worship God. He that forgets to pray bids not himself good-morrow or good-day.—T. Randolph.

There is no traitor like him whose domestic treason plants the poniard within the breast that trusted to his truth.—Byron.

Every man deems that he has precisely the trials and temptations which are the hardest of all for him to bear; but they are so because they are the very ones he needs.—Richter.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 13.—With a detective I dined the other night in a restaurant in Chinatown patronized almost solely by Chinese. Upstairs is a lodging house. At unclothed tables sat a collection of eight men. All expressed that vague air of a depot waiting room.

Not once during the stay was a word spoken save by the proprietor. He has been running the place nine years, trusting every one of his race without question. It may be years afterward, but the bill is always settled—if not by the debtor, by a relative.

"Our people always pay honorable debts," he said in clipped sing-song, adding: "And we behead dishonest bankers." Around the dining room hung a rattle of dried fish and one of the specialties of the house is turkey tongue, served in a dry powder, and supposedly a remedy for lung ailments.

About Chinatown resorts is always the taut atmosphere of something stopped. I sit on the edge of a chair expecting curtains suddenly to part and a Fu Manchu to step out. Just one quick piercing scream and they would have to carry me out, feet up.

* * *

However, I picked up a dab of Chinese on the visit. One of the favorite au revoirs is "Kung hi!" That means: "I wish you joy!"

* * *

It is heartening to see how many New Yorkers who went up the ladder of life arrogantly are escaping into discreet poverty gallantly. Gene Cawley and I came upon a fellow we used to know slinking up a side street. He said: "I'm slipping back to the hall room. This is my weekly wash day."

* * *

In one of my hall room experiences in a West Fifty-seventh street boarding house there was a hocked-watch hiatus when I was without a timepiece. But nature seems to hold a palliative for every emergency. I discovered that at exactly 7:25 each morning in clear weather a thin streak of sunlight arrowed across the bed to awaken me. On murky days I slept on. But it didn't matter. I had no place in particular where I had to report.

* * *

It's astonishing what consolation there is in doing little things during periods of unemployment. In those days it was a custom to slit with a fingernail a package of cigarettes before going to bed so it would be in reach and ready upon awakening. After several months tedium I got so I would delay the slitting just because it gave me one more thing to do next day.

Thingumabobs: Robert Armstrong, actor, and Ted Cook, humorist, once shared the same $5-a-week bedroom in New York ...Mrs. Lucinda Reichenbach is beating the depression in a $15-a-month furnished home with garden in Majorca...The late E. W. Scripps was annoyed with "thank you" letters from house guests... H. T. Webster went to Delray Beach, Fla., to stay two weeks and has remained four months... Arthur Samuels was once a piano prodigy....Frank Case, hotelier, often sells poems under a nom de fantasie...Max Beerbohm likes to start off breakfasts with a sherbet ...Josephine Baker is arranging to quit Paris and return to native Harlem.

* * *

Swinging out of Park Row after Chinatown, I came upon old Five Points, once the battlefield of gangs. Now a public square and placid commune, it has none of the fierce bluster and chip-on-the-shoulder manner that used to entrance Grantland Rice and me on timid noonday walks during Evening Mail days. Only the quaint old brick St. Andrew's church, where printers went to early mass, remains. * * *

That tornado trio—Chares MacArthur, Gene Fowler and Ben Hecht—are reported to have gone into a huddle over a play idea that will touch a new high in rowdy hilarity. It will travesty banking and its contribution to the depression, which somehow has been entirely overlooked. And should be a wow.

Raquel Meller was seen briefly in a Paris news shot recently emphasizing her stage evanishment. Although she sang entirely in Spanish, she was the rage of Paris for four years. London was prostrated a season and New York also ga-ga. Then, pouf, like a feather before the wind, she was seen no more.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You say you want to help the other fellow—

And now you vow you'd give your right hand to help this other poor wretch who's down and out—

But every time you try, you fail—

And you can't understand.

Why doesn't he recognize your friendliness—

Why won't he accept your advice?

Why does he, instead, resent everything you do . . . and actually treat you as if you were an enemy instead of a good friend?

That's so unkind of him. So ungrateful—after all you've tried to do for him—

But—wait a minute!

Have you really tried to do anything for him?

Yes, I know you think you have. But have you—honestly?

Or were you just trying to pick off a few medals for yourself and start a little excitement?

But was it good advice—for him?

Did it make any allowance for his peculiar limitations?

Or was it just your pet, personal scheme which you wished to promote?

But what does it usually mean?

You and I know what it means—though we hate to admit it.

It means meddling . . . interfering . . . criticizing . . . and making the other fellow look like 10 cents so you, by comparison, can look like a million dollars. It means trying to force the other fellow to fit YOUR shoes. To accept YOUR philosophy. To follow YOUR program.

Why does the other fellow get so mad. That's the reason.

For why should you come along and boost your own stock at the price of his self-respect?

Why don't you recognize his rights to be what he is—even though he's different from you?

Why don't you honor his impulses—even though they've gotten him in a jam?

He's made a fool of himself—yes. Lost his money and reputation. But he still believes in himself. And his greatest need is that others should share that faith.

Why should you ignore that need—treat him as completely unworthy?

For what will you accomplish—what will he become—even if you do strip him of his own personality and substitute yours?

No wonder he resents you—and fights you. No wonder he treats you as an enemy. You are his enemy.

Help the other fellow, by all means, if you can—and if he'll let you.

BUT HELP HIM ON HIS OWN TERMS . . . AND FOR HIS OWN GOOD.

HELP HIM AS IF IT WERE A SACRED PRIVILEGE TO DO SO—WHICH IT IS!

NOT AS IF YOU WERE A TIN GOD, PASSING OUT FAVORS AND EXPECTING HOSANNAS IN RETURN!

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Who wrote:

1. "How sweet the moonlight sleeps upon this bank! Here will we sit and let the sounds of music Creep in our ears"?
2. "The Highwayman"?
3. "Full many a flower is born to blush unseen And waste its sweetness on the desert air"?
4. "She dwelt among untrodden ways Beside the springs of Dove, A maid whom there were none to praise And very few to love"?
5. "What are the wild waves saying Sister, the whole day long"?

Do you know:

6. In what book is Dogberry a character?
7. In what country is Lombardy?
8. What are shooting stars more properly called?
9. Who was the Greek goddess of vengeance?
10. What is a five sided figure called?

Match correctly:

11. Zanzibar	Italy
12. Syria	republic
13. Venezuela	British Empire
14. Sardinia	kingdom
15. Sweden	French mandate

Answers to today's tests:

BAD MANNERS

By Winifred Black

Clothilde is pretty—awfully pretty. She is sweet and as innocent and gay as a robin red breast.

But I do wish someone would tell Clothilde not to comb her hair in public.

And it would be a great relief if Clothilde would arrange her complexion to suit herself before she leaves her bedroom and not sit in the street car and look in her pocket mirror and rouge her cheeks and paint her lips and powder her nose just exactly as if there wasn't another soul within sight or sound.

But what a strange idea it is—anyhow, this making of the toilet in street cars and in taxicabs and in theaters and in hotel lobbies.

Do they never have time enough to do these things at home if they must do them?

Oh, really quite nice people did it, and you always saw the toothpicks in restaurants and hotels and dining cars.

Some visiting foreigner rose in rebellion and made a few well-chosen remarks—and the toothpicks went out of fashion.

I wish someone would come over from England or from France or somewhere and make a speech about the American habit of painting the face—in public.

I saw a girl sit down on the edge of a curb in a crowded street the other day and change the laces of her shoes.

Rather good looking girl she was, too, with an honest face, but dear me—

I wonder if it's really necessary to file nails while you're sitting in the hotel lobby waiting for the man who is going to take you to the concert.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Rapture Remains

There is a realm called childhood
(Oh, very fair and bright!)
Where long ago I wandered
In undisturbed delight.

There every voice was gentle
And all the world before me
Unfolded, strange and new.

Each dweller there was kindly,
No thought of fear or ill,
And time, who now goes flying,
In that glad place was still.

The gate is barred behind me,
I enter there no more,
And to my exile's eyes it seems
Far lovelier than of yore.

But yet, this much of rapture
Remains at my command:
To understand each gay child-heart
